Peewee Hockey Teams Told Of 'Special Effort'

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

Members of the pee wee hockey teams of Summerside and Natick, Mass., and over 100 guests were told last night that the visits between the two centres could be likened to the visit of the Fathers of Confederation in 1864 and that they could be the first steps to success and leadership for the boys.

Frank Storey, vice-president of the P.E.I. Centennial Committee was speaking at a banquet in honor of the American visitors held in the Summerside legion home last evening.

He told the boys "leadership and success come to those who make a special effort, and that is why you are here tonight and other have been left behind. You have made a special effort".

He also outlined briefly the reason for the centennial celebrations in the province and told how Canada began "in a little place down the road that happens to be the capital of our little province", the Charlottetowners said, and then he quipped "there is another capital here that only Summerside people appreciate and that is Summerside".

Both Lorne Monkley, representing Premier Shaw who was unable to attend, and William Chase, president and coach of the Natick hockey club, expressed the opinion that exchange visits between youths of different countries exist as the series between Summerside and Natick could bring an end to the world's problems because they would promote mutual friendship and understanding.

The banquet was postponed for several hours when the CNR ferry became delayed and the game did not get underway until after 9:30 p.m.

Other head table guests were: Afton L. Gilliban, American consul-general from Halifax and Mrs. Gilliban; Mayor W. E. Jenkins and Mrs. Jenkins, Howard Waite, David M. Boswell, Gordon Kelly, Edgar Cannon, James Hogan, Mrs. William Chase, Dr. and Mrs. Hillard Clark, Lieutenant-Governor W. J. MacDonald and Summerside Councillor, Mrs. Frances Perry.

Mayor Jenkins presented all the hockey players with centennial crests and silver dollars. Chairman of the session was Robert Schurman.

Critical Reading Importance Emphasized To Souris H & S

SOURIS — "The skill which makes the difference between thinking citizens and blind followers is reading — critical reading", said Sister St. Agnes Marie, mother superior of St. Mary's Convent, at the annual meeting of the Souris and Regional Home and School Association. "Children must be taught to read critically," she continued, "to read, think and weigh judgment. This is a deep responsibility and we are all involved in teaching children to read."

To illustrate the importance of teaching beginners, she quoted John England, president of the National Union of teachers of England and Wales, who said, "I teach infants and junior classes because I like them. It has just as much status as any other level of teaching. You have to be good to do it."

"Parents," said the Mother Superior, "should give the children as many experiences as possible before they enter school. This background will give interest and meaning to their reading. A good foundation must be laid in grade one, supported in grade two and continued progress made all through the grades. Now in all this parents can help. An interested, relaxed, helpful parent is a most valuable coworker. Children learn to read by reading. Listen to your child read at home. Some normal children need to see a word 60 or more times before it is their own. Buy books when you can afford them. Keep your child well and rested.

"Every child needs a school library," she emphasized. "The library is bound to be of increasing importance to young people who must find their place in the coming world of automation. Nothing the child learns in school is likely to serve him as well throughout his life as the love of books and the ability to use them."

The Souris and Regional Home and School presented a gift to one of its most devoted members, Mrs. Artemas Wright, who will be leaving this community early next month.

The outgoing president, Major Reid, conducted the installation of the new officers of this association. The members of the incoming executive are, president, Leonard O'Connor; vice-president, Ray Leard; secretary, Mrs. Edgar Glenn; treasurer, Martha Leslie.

P.E.I. Beard Growing Contest Flourishing

The one official beard growing contest for Prince Edward Island will be judged July 11 in Kensington, beard committee member Lorne Perry announced yesterday.

Although several businesses are running their own contests there is just the one official contest for P.E.I., he said.

There will be four classes in the contest; length, color, style and grooming, and an overall judging. The committee has $400 in prizes at the present.

Mr. Perry said that the committee has an official contest pin which will show that entrants have entered the contest and are not just too lazy to shave. To enter the contest, the fee is one dollar and the pin comes with the entry. These pins can be obtained from Lorne Kelly at the Sportsman's Club, Charlottetown. Anyone is eligible for the contest.

The beard growing committee has contacted several businesses to ask them to allow their employees to grow beards. They have also contacted civic officials to see if they would allow civic employees such as the police to grow beards.

He tied for first place with seven other across the country.

A member of the Wheatley River calf club, Alan was a delegate to National 4-H Club week in 1962, has several times been first with his calf, was first in judging in the club in 1961 and second for showmanship on several occasions.

Alan's brother, Ronnie Godfrey, 19, placed second for this province in the All Canadian jogging with 132 points. Ronnie is president of his club, was first in club showmanship last year and was a delegate to the national 4-H Club week in 1961.

Ch'town And S'side Y's Men Hold Meeting In Montague

MONTAGUE — More than 30 Y's Men journeyed to Montague last evening to hold their regular weekly meeting. This group included the Charlottetown Y's Men and the Summerside club. About 20 from Montague were in attendance.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of Loran MacLellan. At the head table with him were Mayor B.H. Yeo, Rev. R. Burns, Dr. R. Barrett and Garnet MacIntyre.

Among those who addressed the meeting were George Wright, Ray Barrett, John Evans, B. McMurtry of Charlottetown and Charles Linkletter, Edgar Ramsay, Robert Hogg and others from Summerside.

A highlight of the evening was the antics of the fines master, Robert Hogg, who also acted as auctioneer for the sale of pies, sweets and a cooked and dressed turkey. The ladies of the United Church Women were very pleased with the results of this sale.

It is the intention of several young people of Montague to try and organize a Y's Men Club and the dinner banquet was held with this in mind.

Another highlight of the evening was the performance of the Y's Men Chorus who rendered several well known numbers.

A film was shown on the work by the YMCA throughout the world which gave the prospective members an insight to Y's Men's work.

The local group is to hold further meetings to interest enough of the residents of the area to join so as to have a sufficient number to procure a charter.

than the cost of production while other segments of the economy, such as dealers, transporters and bag companies, are finding the industry more profitable. He said the government should encourage more farmers to grow seed potatoes and if these potatoes were advertised in the United States, Ontario and other countries, "we could get clear of a great deal of them."

Mr. Jardine suggested that the one-cent-per-hundred-pound levy being collected by the board should be "clarified" as provincial potato marketing to how it is collected and spent. He said he believed that the members of the board could do more for the potato industry if they had more funds and suggested that the government match the funds collected by the board to "show their interest" in this crop.

According to Mr. Jardine, if the farmer does well, others benefit.

The speaker suggested that premiums for potato crops insurance are too high and that is the reason few growers took it. He said insurance adds five dollars per acre to the cost of production and chances of receiving benefits are small. He said that with the insurance benefits based on a production yield of 145 bushels an acre, the scheme is not of advantage to the good grower.

TOP KILLERS

Commenting on the plan of the government to introduce legislation to prohibit the use of poisonous potato top killer, Mr. Jardine said that growers find the non-poisonous sprays expensive and lack power to do a proper job. He said further experiments should be carried out to find a suitable non-poisonous top killer and the proposed legislation should be shelved for "a couple of years."

Mr. Jardine said the establishment of large processing plants for vegetables in the province have enabled some farmers to do well. He said the government should educate farmers as to how to take advantage of the vegetable requirements of the new plants.

The Prince MLA, directing a question to Hon. George Dewar, Minister of Education, asked "why we in an agricultural province are not teaching agriculture in our schools."

"We're making provisions this year for that to be done," Dr. Dewar replied, adding that this would take place in schools in Charlottetown and Summerside.

AGAINST OUTLET INCREASE

Mr. Jardine took a firm stand against the mooted changes in liquor legislation, which would provide for the licensing of restaurants and possibly the opening of taverns.

"Is the government so anxious for a few dollars that they would sacrifice the greatest asset, the youth of our land?" he asked.

Mr. Jardine said that an increase in the number of liquor outlets would provide what he termed "greater temptation for young people".

He noted that "in larger cities, there are six liquor stores to one dairy shop": Alcoholism, he said, "outnumbers every other health problem in Canada".

"I would like to say I'm not in favor of adding any more outlets for the sale of liquor," he said.

Mr. Jardine pointed out that "this is the time to make the change" with regards to the status of Prince of Wales College.

"I am in favor of elevating PWC to degree-granting status — but I am not in favor of a Royal Commission. That sounds too much like John Diefenbaker's way of doing things," he said.

And from the other side of the floor came the comment, "What about the Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism?" (set up under the present Liberal administration.)

SHOULDN'T COMPETE

Mr. Jardine asked that a private park at New Annan be given consideration, advocating the installation of electric lights and the provision of "a decent road."

"I don't think it's fair for the government to compete with private enterprise engaged in the tourist industry," he said.

He said also that he hoped a national park would be build in his district which, he said, has "the best beaches on the Island."
