

Women Work For The United Nations

By Adelaide Kerr NEW YORK, Aug. 6—(AP)—Women are working for the United Nations today on the fringe of battle zones, in political hot spots, in jungles, deserts and remote mountain hamlets.

More than 200 of them are scattered around the globe in jobs that call for fast thinking, courage, stamina and diplomatic skill. Some handle tough administrative jobs. Some distribute emergency supplies in disaster areas.

The U. N. does not send women where shells are flying or subject them to undue risk or danger. But it does dispatch them to some rugged spots, and their bosses have high praise for the way they handle their jobs.

Ten women now are working with the Korean Commission in the division stationed in Tokyo.

"UNICEF" (the U. N. arm devoted to bettering conditions for children) and the World Health Organization (which fights disease around the world) have corps of women doctors, nurses, and administrators working in many countries.

Patricia Palmer of Toronto, UNICEF public relations director for Europe, travels constantly in Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Austria and Poland.

In the jungle area of Brunei in Borneo Ida Simmons of Britain is training midwives—whose childbirth superstitions go back thousands of years—in modern obstetrical methods.

Why are these rugged jobs given to women? "These women get them because they are so capable and highly respected," says Maurice Pate, director of UNICEF. "They were chosen in some cases instead of available men."

The World Health Organization has added public health nurses to practically all its teams travelling far afield to show people new methods to combat tuberculosis, malaria, venereal disease, and polio. One team working in the Teria district of Northern India, was frequently menaced by leopards and tigers that prowled out of the jungle.

Baptist Preacher, Associates Arrested

VAL D'OR, Que., Aug. 6—(CP)—A Baptist preacher and his three associates spent the week-end in jail at this northern Quebec mining town following their arrest Saturday night while holding a street-corner revival meeting.

It could not be learned immediately on what charges the quartet, including one woman, were held, but it was believed the charge was disturbing the peace.

The four arrested were Rev. L. T. Heron, pastor of Evangelical Baptist Church, Val d'Or; Deacon Malcolm Lesar, a Windsor, Ont., youth; Miss Isobel Heron of Toronto, a sister of the pastor; and a Mr. Purcell, who has not been identified.

The group was holding a street-corner meeting directly across the road from the home of Mayor Tetreault when town police appeared on the scene and urged Mr. Heron to move his group away.

The minister refused, and after 16 minutes urging by police the religious group were taken into custody and lodged in the town jail. Late today they were still in custody, awaiting a hearing for bail.

Polar Ice Cap Retreating?

TORONTO, Aug. 6—(CP)—The Toronto Daily Star said Saturday in an Ottawa dispatch that a 1,000-foot tube of aluminum being sunk into the ice on Canada's Baffin Island by a semi-private Arctic expedition "may provide a glimpse to Canada's future in the Arctic."

The two-inch tube was part of nearly 20 tons of supplies taken to Baffin Island, some 1,400 miles north of Col. D. P. Baird of the Arctic Institute of North America, the Star says.

Movement of the tube would confirm reports that the polar ice cap is retreating, causing increasingly warmer weather in the Arctic. The expedition was sent out after receipt of puzzling information regarding weather and ice conditions in the north, the paper says.

GOVT. DECISION

Arms Program Canada's program for arms production probably will be shaped following a meeting here Tuesday with American arms experts.

It is known that the Government has ready a blueprint for reviving the wartime Munitions and Supply Department which directed production and purchasing of equipment for the forces during the Second World War.

It is not expected there will be any immediate return to wartime controls and mobilization unless the international picture darkens considerably.

The international situation and trouble on the labor front have led to predictions that Mr. St. Laurent will reshuffle his Cabinet without delay to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Mitchell's death.

MARINES, ARMY

The Reds made other river crossings of the Naktong line and forced one regiment of the 24th Division to withdraw, but a counter-attack "contained" the enemy, the Eighth Army said.

In the south, as a prelude to Monday's action, Marine artillery moved into action Sunday in the Chinju area. The actual front is less than 35 miles from Pusan.

Steaming boldly up the west coast of Korea Saturday, British cruisers pounded Inchon, the port of Seoul, in a devastating two-hour bombardment.

Warships in Action They struck oil installations, factories, warehouses, gun emplacements, a railway station and an electric plant.

American marine pilots supported the British warships with coordinated air strikes on Inchon's tank assembly plant. A camouflaged oil tanker was blasted into flames.

The attack marked the heaviest British naval action thus far in the Korean war. It was designed to neutralize Inchon as a staging area for Communist reinforcements along the west coast.

Along the front, North Korean headquarters said, the North Koreans probed on the south, attempted to cut vital communication lines along the central western front, and threw "heavy pressure" on South Korean troops along the northern rim.

Reds Using Boys Intelligence reports said the Reds have resorted to using 12-year-old boys to carry arms and ammunition to the front. Children also were being used as decoys.

One captured lad said he was one of hundreds whom the Reds moved along hillsides equipped with dummy guns to make American and South Korean troops believe they were being flanked by heavy forces.

The South Korean 1st Division, holding high ground on a ridge east of an unidentified stretch of the Naktong River on the northern front, allowed two Red battalions totalling possibly 1,600 men to walk into a trap.

The Reds crossed the stream and marched into deadly cross-fire from the South Koreans. Front dispatches said the invaders were "annihilated." This was north of Waegwan, which is 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

MacArthur also noted that enemy pressure south of Communist-held Andong was "heavy." More attacks along this front could be expected. Andong is 50 miles north of Taegu.

At the extreme northeast anchor of the line, bitter fighting raged at Yongdok, on the coast 90 miles north of Pusan. The South Koreans, carrying the brunt of the ground fighting in this sector, have the powerful support of British and American warships which are pounding Red positions with shellfire. Battle lines at Yongdok were unchanged early Monday, MacArthur said.

A second U.S. aircraft carrier of the 27,000-ton Essex class joined the growing seventh fleet off Korea in its first combat operation. From its flight deck roared a steady stream of fighters and light bombers flying in close support of ground troops.

Women Weather Forecasters

TORONTO, Aug. 5—(CP)—Women weather forecasters are calling the shots in some parts of Canada this summer.

Mrs. Gloria Ellenton, 22, formerly of London, Ont., has taken over holiday forecasting duties at Malton, 16 miles northwest of Toronto, and Lillian Dunn of Edmonton is assigned to the Weather Bureau in her hometown.

Until recently, Arnelinda Ann McCulloch of Vancouver, a science graduate of University of British Columbia was forecasting at Moncton, N. B. Now she has resigned to get married.

Mrs. Ellenton found a way to combine marriage and a career. Her husband, Harold Ellenton, is on the staff of the same Weather Bureau at Malton.

P. D. McTaggart-Cowan, head of the Canadian Meteorological Division's Forecasting Service, said the women are considered under field training during their first year after leaving university with their M. A. degrees. After that, they're on their own.

He said women forecasters were employed in Great Britain during the Second World War "with varying success." Canada's only wartime woman forecaster, Mrs. C. H. Sutherland, worked successfully at Moncton and now is married to a member of the Weather Bureau staff at Gander, Nfld.

ARRESTED BY F.B.I.—Miriam Moskowitz (above), 34-year-old New York businesswoman, has been indicted by a federal grand jury and arrested by F.B.I. agents for attempting to cover up for Harry Gold, confessed Soviet atom spy. Also taken in was Miss Moskowitz's business associate, Abraham Brothman.

Expect Royal Baby To Get Hand-Me-Downs

By Edward Curtis LONDON, Aug. 6—(AP)—Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are finding that a second royal baby comes a little less expensively.

They are waiting for the arrival about next week-end of a sister or brother to 20-month-old Prince Charles.

The new prince or princess, will succeed to young Prince Charles' hand-me-downs—his outgrown baby clothes and discarded toys. Like many another young married couple, Prince Philip and Princess Elizabeth have saved them all.

The best unofficial guesses put the arrival of the new baby—third in line behind Princess Elizabeth and Prince Charles for the throne—between next Thursday and the following Tuesday. Court circles are picking the middle dates—next Saturday or Sunday.

While Charles was born in Buckingham Palace, the Princess expects to have the new baby at the 18th century Clarence House.

A few minutes walk from Buckingham Palace, Clarence House has been modernized as the home of Elizabeth and Philip.

Queen Mother Mary and Princess Margaret have been making some clothes for the new baby. But little or nothing new actually will be needed.

The new baby also will inherit Charles' perambulator. Queen Elizabeth first bought it for Princess Elizabeth. Then it was used for Margaret. Before Charles' birth it was overhailed and painted. His old crib also will be taken over by his new brother or sister.

Sir Wilmot Gillatt again will attend Princess Elizabeth. He will be assisted by the royal family doctor, Sir John Weir.

There has been some talk the young couple hopes for a girl this time. Philip is supposed to have told friends he thinks a sister would be good for Charles.

Philip returned home from Malta about 10 days ago on a month's leave from the Royal Navy. His arrival home coincided with his promotion from Lieutenant to Lieutenant-Commander.

Nationalists Raid Red Shipping

TAIPEI, Formosa, Aug. 6—(CP)—Destruction of 30 big junks and more than 100 smaller ones in raids on Communist shipping near Quemoy Island was announced tonight by the Chinese Nationalist Air Force.

It said the attacks, carried out all day Sunday in fine weather, were directed against 800 Red vessels assembled near Quemoy, a Nationalist outpost island just off the Communist mainland.

Both bombers and fighters with rockets participated, all returning safely despite anti-aircraft fire, the communique said.

The attacks presumably are considered by the United States to fall within a defensive category, thus escaping President Truman's ban on Nationalist action against the Communist mainland.

The Nationalists say Quemoy is imminently threatened with Red invasion.

Department-Store Sales

OTTAWA, Aug. 3—(CP)—The buying public kept a tight grip on its pocket-book in the first half of this year, pulling department-store sales down $4,000,000 below the corresponding 1949 figure.

Russia Cooking Up Deal With Reds In China?

By JAMES D. WHITE (Associated Press News Analyst) Persistent but unconfirmed reports that Russia's Vice-Premier Molotov is in China cooking up a deal with the Chinese Reds underlines the suspicion that in Russia's mind the big problem now is China—not Korea.

Korea is small, relatively uncontrollable, and apparently expendable. Russian readiness to plunge the little country into a war that has set it back decades attests to this.

But China is huge and less easily controlled. Russia's need to control China appears to be strong enough to make the Korean risk worth while in the Russian mind. The manoeuvring at Lake Success last week produced no change in the basic position—that admission of Red China to the United Nations is still the Soviet price for settling the Korean question.

The reason, one must assume, is that Russia's own self-interest is involved. What makes China seem so essential to Russia?

It is her uncontrollability, her vast spread across the map, her teeming population and its pliable living standard, and its logical consequence to Russia if China is not controlled and kept in the Red orbit.

That consequence is Titoism—on a scale that must be unthinkable to Moscow.

Titoism in China could shatter the vital illusion of Communist unity and wreck the chances for Communist success in its most promising field, Asia.

The reason begins in China's 400,000,000 hungry, threadbare people, whose unrest cannot be stilled except through a higher living standard. This is unattainable until China industrializes and modernizes her agriculture. That cannot be done without outside help.

Could Russia supply the needed help? Some, yes, but not enough, nor fast enough. But Russia could and did undertake to replace economic aid with political help, and this took the form of plugging for Red China's admission to the United Nations. To the Chinese Reds this was important beyond common Western understanding because the prestige U.N. membership would bring to the Reds would go a long way toward enabling the Peiping Government to stay on top in China.

Staying on top is a real problem to the Reds, because sooner or later more and more Chinese are going to start asking, when do we eat, and when do we get clothes to wear and tools to work with?

Woman Editor Fined For Slapping Chief

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 6—(AP)—A judge slapped a $15 fine on a woman editor for slapping a police chief.

Mrs. Sadie Weidra, editor of the Gulfport Tribune, drew the fine Saturday in Magistrate Joe E. Carpenter's court. She wasn't there, but her lawyer pleaded no defence to a charge of assault.

The trouble between Mrs. Weidra and Perry Weiss, acting Gulfport police chief at that time, started over a gold-plated police chief's badge.

Mrs. Weidra wrote that Weiss had the badge gold-plated at city expense. Weiss visited Mrs. Weidra, said the story wasn't so and demanded a retraction. He said the badge had been given him by a former acting chief of police.

Words got hotter and Weiss claimed Mrs. Weidra slapped his face twice.

Three Fishermen Reported Missing

NEGUAC, N. B., Aug. 6—(CP)—Three fishermen from this Northumberland County community at the mouth of Miramichi Bay were missing tonight.

Eubie Forbes, Alcide Breau and Napoleon Sonier had been due back at Neguac Saturday morning after setting out Friday afternoon in an open, 40-foot boat to "drift" for salmon. They had taken only enough food for a lunch.

At the request of R. C. M. P. officials, an R. C. F. Lancaster arrived tonight from Greenwood, N. S., to search the area. The hunt will continue at dawn. Choppy seas prevented small craft from venturing out today. Rain fell Saturday and a fairly strong wind has prevailed.

It was considered likely that the engine of the missing vessel had failed. The craft carried a small sail—only large enough to keep her in to the wind drifting for salmon and towing a net.

Field Marshal Lord Wilson was inspecting army cadets at a camp near Sunderland when an officer dashed from his party and to the rear of some nearby huts.

Beats Wife With Hammer, Then Takes Own Life

TORONTO, Aug. 6—(CP)—Wilfred Kingsley beat his wife into unconsciousness with a hammer, then hanged himself Saturday from the frame of a bedroom door.

His wife, Helen, 38, is in critical condition in hospital. Kingsley's four-year-old daughter, Dawn, saw the beating and walked 200 yards to a neighbor's home and said: "Mummy and daddy are dead."

Kingsley, a 40-year-old market gardener in suburban Etobicoke, left notes for his wife and children.

Police said the little girl told them: "Mummy was stirring potatoes on the stove. Daddy pushed her down. He had a hammer and he pounded her head. Mummy started to cry."

There are five children in the family. Only Dawn, the youngest, was at home. There was no explanation of the beating and suicide.
