THE LIBERAL RALLY AT MONTAGUE.

For some time it had been reported that a great grit demonstration was to take place at Montague Bridge; that Premier Peters was to be present; and that the Tories of Murray Harbor and Cardigan would have ocular demonstration of the hopelessness of their candidates winning at the ensuing election.

Consequently, when the notice of the meeting was advertised in the Patriot, and handbills were profusely distributed at the exhibition at Georgetown, where nearly 2000 people were present, everyone expected that the large hall at Montague would be packed to its utmost limit.

But to the surprise of all Conservatives who attended—and there were a goodly number in the audience—and to the consternation of the grit leaders,—only about 175 persons, including a number of ladies, were present.

The meeting was opened by the appointment of John McQueen, Esq., Victoria Cross, as Chairman. On the platform we noticed Premier Peters, Dr. Robertson, Hon. Thomas Kickham, Geo. B. Aitken, Esq., D. A. McKinnon, Esq., Anthony McLaughlan, Esq., Mal. McDonald, Esq., besides one or two clergymen.

The first to claim attention was the Hon. Thomas Kickham—the man from Souris who is asking the electors of Cardigan to send him to represent them, although none of them had any notion of nominating him until the Premier held his pow wow at Campbell's hotel. Mr. Kickham is not a success as a platform speaker, although he did better than some other candidates that made their maiden speeches on this occasion. He referred to the debt left by the late Government and the sale of the debentures by the present administration; but nary a word did he say in explanation of that $854 that is missing in the report of that transaction. But methinks that when he gets before a public meeting in the Cardigan District, where both sides will be allowed to speak, and where the electors will have an opportunity of putting pertinent questions to the Government candidates, he will have to explain that matter, and let us know what became of this very considerable sum. Geo. B. Aitken, Esq., of Lower Montague, made a few remarks, intimating that he was a candidate for the Murray Harbor District; and was followed by the Premier, who, of course, was the principal attraction of the meeting. Mr. Peters was in very good form, and with his long experience as a leader at the bar, is well fitted to put the best side on the worst kind of a case. He defended the actions of the Government for the past three years and condemned the conduct of the preceding administrations in pretty much the same way as he did at the convention in Charlottetown, a full report of which is contained in the Patriot of a late date. But when in referring to to the distribution of districts in King's County, he himself claimed credit for having originated that measure, one's breath was almost taken away by such an evidence of unbiushing political ingratitude. The man who uses the literary work of another without giving the author credit is known as a literary plagiarist and is considered guilty of a most contemptible action; but how much greater a crime is political plagiarism—to take credit for political measures that were proposed first by another, cannot be called by any other name. Does Mr. Peters think the people of King's County do not keep the records of the Legislature? Does he think they are poor simpletons who will swallow every word he says as gospel when they find him deliberately falsifying the record, how can they put any faith in his assertions? Mr. Peters claimed to be the introducer of the Distribution Bill into the legislatures of this Province; but we know that before he ever penned a resolution in that matter, the Hon. Mr. Scrimgeour in the Legislative Council brought the matter before that body. If the distribution of the electoral districts in King's County was so laudable a work; if it was a measure that would have received the support of the late Hon. Mr. Whelan, Mr. Scrimgeour is the man who should get the praise, for it was he that first proposed it, as the journals of the Legislature will prove.

But Mr. Peters is not a modest man. He has no diffidence about sounding his own trumpet, and in listening to him one would think that the present Government "were but a little lower than the angels." "Give us another lease of power," says Mr. Peters, "and we will go on making still further reduction in the cost of legislation." "For a small Province like this, twelve or fifteen representatives are sufficient to do all the business." Yes, that is what he is after. Can it not be seen all through his political career that he wishes to rule alone. And then when the finances of the Province get into irremedial confusion, when the debenture debt gets so great that the interest and sinking fund will involve taxation grievous to be borne, Mr. Peters will go in for Maritime Union. He feels that so long as Mr. L. H. Davies is to the fore that he has no hope of obtaining Dominion honors. The Premiership of a small Province like P. E. Island does not satisfy the ambition of this scion of the landlord system, and with that "vaulting ambition that o'erleaps itself," he schemes and plots to sell his native land.

He will not put on the necessary taxation required to equalize revenue and expenditure, until he has rolled up the debt to a sum equivalent to the indebtedness of Nova Scotia, and then further saving and retrenchment may be effected by the Legislative Union of the Maritime Provinces. Is this the policy he intends pursuing? It looks very like it. Why was it that Mr. Longley attended a political picnic in this Province last summer? Does it not show that there is a secret understanding between the grit government of Nova Scotia and the Premier of this Island? "I only had a majority of one in the House," says Mr. Peters, "and could do little to what I will do if you give me a larger support." Yes, and who are the men he is asking to elect? The greater part of them nominees of his own. He is not satisfied to let the people choose their own standard bearers. He must attend meetings and caucuses and use "human devices" to have his own nominees chosen; and when he succeeds in gaining the election, he will then do as he pleases. He will strike his hand on the table, as he did the other day in the Land Office, and say it must be done.

The W. C. T. U., of Montague, had a representation at the meeting, and Mr. Peters was asked to declare himself on the temperance question; and he did so in true political style. He boasted of all he had done in the cause of prohibition, more than even Mr. Foster, the great temperance advocate. "Why," said Mr. Peters, "have I not given you the plebiscite when everyone can vote for prohibition;" but he never said one word about those Scott Act fines that were unaccounted for, those fines which Mr. Peters refused to give information about to the people's representatives. If he were sincere, he would tell the temperance people the number of Scott Act cases he has compromised by getting the parties to pay the fees due to Peters & Peters. He would have told them how it was that necessary witnesses were allowed to go away from the Supreme Court, and cases allowed to go against the Government prosecutor for want of evidence. No, he said nothing about those matters, but he gave himself away, when winding up that part of his speech, by saying that he would do nothing to prevent a person having a glass of grog when he wanted it.

Mr. D. A. McKinnon, the lawyer from Georgetown, who wants to represent the farmers and fishermen of Murray Harbor, was then put on the platform. But he excused himself from saying much, because the managers of the Exhibition had put him to handle roots and he had caught a bad cold. He would rather have been among the ladies' flowers, he said, and it was too bad to put him among such disagreeable things as roots and vegetables. Mr. McKinnon did not make a favorable impression among the hard-working farmers who have to depend for a living upon those very articles that made the lawyer sick.

Dr. Robertson then got off his little story about free trade and the advantages thereof, which we have all heard before time and time again.

And then came the coup de main of the grand Liberal rally. Mr. Patrick Koughan, of Elliotvale, has heretofore been a Conservative. He has taken part in meetings, and was usually called by the Grits "The Political Fanners of the Tory Party," whatever they meant by that. Anyway, Mr. Koughan aspired to be a candidate for the Cardigan District, and was intensely disappointed when the Convention at Cardigan last summer passed over his brilliant abilities and selected James E. Macdonald, Esq., as a fit and proper person to represent them. Since then Mr. Koughan has been studying up the political situation, and has come to the conclusion that it is necessary to elect Mr. Peters' government in order to get free trade with the United States. Anyway, this is the reason he gave for his apostacy, and to hear the cheering he received from the Liberals when his confession and recantation had been made, reminded one forcibly of the Scripture saying that "there is more joy over one sinner that repents than over ninety and nine just persons who need no repentance." The Grits are fortunate in having two such unselfish patriotic converts as Mr. Kickham and Mr. Koughan; and although it is whispered round that the Hon. Thomas fixed Mr. Koughan by telling him that he only intended to represent the Cardigan District until the Dominion election came on, when he (Mr. Koughan) would be the grit candidate in place of Dr. McIntyre, whose health was failing, and that Mr. Koughan would get the nomination he has so long earnestly desired. Yet there may be no truth in the report; we only give it for what it is worth. Mr. Anthony McLaughlan was then introduced and made a few remarks. Anthony is a decent hardworking farmer and has a merit that few of the grit politicians have, viz., honesty. Although he claimed to be sure of being returned by a large majority, people from St. Peters District, who ought to know, say that it will be to the bosom of his family.

A resolution endorsing the Premier and his government was then proposed, and passed.

Mr. Scrimgeour was asked to speak three different times, but refused. John G. believes in saving his fire until he can see the whites of his opponent's eyes. But if one John G. was not anxious to speak another one was, and Mr. John G. Graham, with a very husky voice, took the floor and addressed the meeting. He had talked so much at the Exhibition the day before that he was not in good form, and the principal statement he made was that he was a poor farmer, and he was going to support Mr. Peters.

A vote of thanks was given the chairman and the meeting dispersed in an orderly manner, the grits intensely disappointed at the lack of enthusiasm among their followers, and the Conservatives more confident than ever that their candidates for Murray Harbor and Cardigan districts will be elected by large majorities.

CONSOLATION FOR FAT FOLKS.

The medical fraternity is coming to the rescue of the people who have more avoirdupois than they want. A physician in a recent newspaper article points out that fat people endure most kinds of illness much better than thin people, because they have an extra amount of nutriment stored away in their tissues to support them during the ordeal.

This is surely consoling to members of fat men's clubs and ladies of plump figure. Moreover, there are many other consolations for persons of abundant girth. They are generally optimists by nature, genial and jolly companions, whose society is universally preferred to that of people with angular frames and dispositions. They have a better time in the street cars and elevated trains than thin people. Who ever saw fat men or women squeezed into half their natural size by unfeeling fellow passengers? This is an experience that constantly befalls the individual whose clothes hang on him with the easy grace of garments depending from a wardrobe hook. Nobody stands in awe of the thin man. Everybody gets his toes out of the way of the fat woman when she enters a car. She has plenty of room; for other people will stand up, rather than assert their right to the fraction of space which is left at the end of a seat intended for two, when she occupies it.

It is true that excessive avoirdupois has not added to feminine attraction in the eyes of the average American citizen. But there is hope that even this may be mended. It is well known that in Oriental countries the charms of the ladies are computed by the pound. The ardent lover in Turkey or Persia who is engaged in negotiating the terms of the marriage settlement with his prospective father-in-law, never asks if the veiled fair one is tall or short, blonde or burnette. His query is short and to the point. How much does she weigh? And the heavier the weight the greater the charm. There are a good many Turks and Persians of distinguished lineage and numerous households in attendance at the World's Fair. These gentry are in great social demand, and their opinions on matters of interest are eagerly sought and widely quoted. Who knows but that they may succeed in introducing the Oriental ideal of feminine beauty among the society of progressive Chicago?
