The bidding:
West North East South
2 Pass Pass 5
Pass 6

Open lead—king of spades. West has the typical hand for a preemptive bid. If his partner had a good hand, the avenue to game remained unobstructed, and the long, strong spade suit had been accurately represented.

East had a hand of only moderate proportions, there could hardly be a game, and either three spades would become the final contract or the opponents might have difficulty trying to get another at a high level to find their best spot.

If East had a poor hand, there was all the more reason to put the opponents under immediate pressure, cramp their bidding space, and hope that somehow they would get their wires crossed.

Prince Is Said Reconciled To Having Hairline Recede

By HAL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip was reported Monday to be fully reconciled to a fact of nature: With hair like his you get bald early, even if you are the Queen's husband.

Authority for this statement is his barber, 74-year-old Charles Topper. Nature, said Topper, will pursue its slow but even course up Philip's brow with the inevitability of a glacier.

Nothing can be done about it. The matter came up in connection with an offer of succor from Mrs. Jeanne Highgate, a housewife in Salisbury, Rhodesia.

Mrs. Highgate noted from recent photographs that the royal forehead is advancing little by little toward the back of the royal neck.

HAS SECRET OIL

Mrs. Highgate said in a letter to Buckingham Palace she can do something about this. She's got a secret oil. She claimed it has been of great use to her husband.

It also worked on four other men who had less hair on their heads than they had on the soles of their feet.

"I would consider it an honor and a privilege to give you treatment if you need my help," Mrs. Highgate wrote.

Now over to Topper, who trims the prince every couple of weeks or so for 3s a time.

"It is impossible," Topper told a reporter, "to grow hair. You can only try to stop it from falling out."

"The prince knows quite well that he is balding, and he just accepts this fact. SOME KEEP IT. Some people have thick, coarse hair and keep it. Others have thin, fine hair and lose it. The duke has thin, fine hair."

"In any case, he does not believe in restorers. He just uses normal hair dressings and leaves it at that."

Prince Charles, Philip's son and heir to the throne, goes to the other extreme.

Until recently he wore a haircut with bangs almost down to his eyes. A London newspaper hinted that the Royal Family must be hiding something behind this hirsute cascade. Soon thereafter somebody ordered a shorter cut.

And what did this disclose? It disclosed a perfectly respectable forehead.

As for Philip, it seems a fair conclusion that he has nothing whatever to hide.

Negro Still Hopes Will Escape Chair

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—An illiterate Negro handyman with perhaps only five weeks to live waits hopefully for word that could spare him from the electric chair.

Unless Governor James E. Folsom intervenes, with a commutation to life imprisonment, Jimmy Wilson is to die Oct. 24 for the robbery of an elderly white widow which netted him $1.95.

There still is a chance, however, that the fate of the 55-year-old Negro ex-convict may go undecided for weeks, perhaps months.

Wilson's newly employed Negro lawyer, Fred Gray, has hinted at further court proceedings, perhaps an appeal to the federal courts in hope of winning a new trial. But for the moment, Gray has declined to say what plans he may have.

Neither has Folsom said publicly what he will do. But he did tell reporters he will always spare the life of a condemned man "if I can find some excuse."

MONEY IN COINS

The Negro was sentenced to death by an all-white jury which heard 82-year-old Mrs. Estelle Barker testify he robbed her of $1.95 in coins, choked her, tried to rape her and threatened her life at her home in Marion, Ala., July 27, 1957.

Suggest Joint Seaway Stamp

MONTREAL (CP)—A joint Canadian - United States stamp marking next year's opening of the St. Lawrence seaway has been proposed.

The idea was offered at a stamp collectors' banquet here during the weekend by Franklin Bruns, director of philately in the U.S. post office. He was personal representative at the affair of U.S. Postmaster-General Arthur Summerfield.

His suggestion for a U.S. and Canadian series of seaway stamps of the same design was immediately endorsed by Canada's Postmaster - General, William Hamilton, who also attended the banquet.

More Supplies Reach Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters)—More supplies were landed on Quemoy Island Monday despite Communist Chinese artillery fire as talks began here on the future rule of American forces in the Formosa Strait crisis.

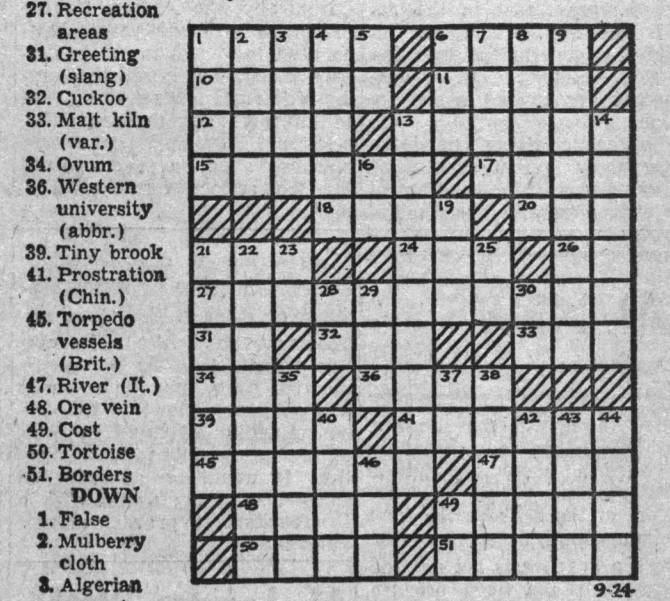

The United States so far has limited itself to escorting Nationalist Chinese convoys and providing air cover for Nationalist transport planes dropping supplies to the beleaguered offshore islands.
