O'Leary Girl Returns From Extensive United States Tour

SUMMERSIDE — "It might be thought that Miss Boates' return to her home town would be a quiet affair. But it was anything but that. The girl, Miss Boates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Boates, represented Prince Edward Island on "operation vista", a study tour of the U.S. by Red Cross High School students from 42 countries. Miss Boates explained that "vista" translated meant "visit international students to America". The Red Cross-sponsored trip brought to the island some 117 Junior Red Cross members from 42 countries of the world.

The students were divided into eleven separate groups and taken on educational and interesting tours. Miss Boates' group toured New York, Tulsa, Kansas City, Chicago and Washington. All groups met in Washington for a joint conference.

Miss Boates was chosen from P.E.I. schools as representative for the island on the basis of her work achievements and interest in Red Cross work. She is a student at O'Leary High School in Washington and is on a study tour at Mount Allison University, Sackville, and this summer she will attend a conference at a Red Cross conference held in Charlottetown.

She left for the recent tour on July 30 and returned last night, landing at Summerside at 10:30 p.m. "We certainly had a wonderful trip," she said. Miss Boates said her group consisted of students from Topeka, Ecuador, London, France, India, Columbia, Finland and Yugoslavia. The trip was spoken as the common language. She stated that many of the foreign students spoke several languages. "It made me so ashamed to speak only one or two languages," she quickly added. "We used as our motto 'speak slowly and move fast'."

The students lived with Red Cross members in their homes while visiting each city. In Kansas City the students were made honorary citizens and presented with citizenship papers. Canada sent 12 students on the tour.

Summing up her trip, Miss Boates said "when I look back, we did not just visit one country. We visited 42 different ones. The other students were much the same as we: doing the same things and engaged in similar projects—people helping people."

Just before leaving for home she had a meeting with the students and met and shook hands with President Kennedy and visited the White House; a climax to a wonderful tour!

Summing up her trip, Miss Boates said "when I look back, we did not just visit one country. We visited 42 different ones. The other students were much the same as we: doing the same things and engaged in similar projects—people helping people."
