THE MODERN Foundry and Machine Shop

We would call special attention to our "New Foundry Department" which we have proved to be a decided success.

We have spared no expense in fitting up this department. Having imported from the United States a special "grade of sand" and employing one of the best moulders in Canada, we are now in a position to meet the long desired needs of the people.

Our Machine Shop Dept which is equipped with the best modern machinery and experienced workmen, is capable of turning out work in a strictly first class manner. To those in need of anything in our line we invite them to call and be thoroughly convinced that we do work in an A 1 style.

TANTRAMAR.

(Halifax Herald.)

Like a draught of nectar, full and free
The salt breeze from afar
Oh! it was joy and life to breathe
On windy Tantrammar.

It stirred my blood, and my horse flew fast
Through the clear, sweet, ambient air,
Jovous and bright in the morning light,
While the piping plover whirled his flight
O'er sedgy Tantrammar.

Far inland old Fort Lawrence lay,
Forgetful of ancient war,
And we left it many a league behind,
On misty Tantrammar.

Oh the clover bloom was fresh and
sweet,
And my horse was swift and strong,
As he galloped on with rattling feet,
To the tune of the grey birds' song.
Oh! the distant hills were soft and blue
In Cumberland afar.
And the wind o'er the billowy clover
field
Swept gusty Tantrammar.

Far from the sweet Elysian fields,
All day the south wind blew,
And the sea gull circled in the sky,
And we heard the shrill curlew.
Oh, forsake the city and come with me
Leave carking care afar;
Come! in the merry month of June
For a gallop on Tantrammar.

DIED IN ENGLAND.—We clip the following from the Pawtucket (R. I.) Times of the 7th inst: "Mrs. Eliza Haslam, of 50 Meadow street, this city, died suddenly at Frome, Somersetshire, England, on July 25, and the information was conveyed to her husband, William T. Haslam, in a letter which he received yesterday. Mrs. Haslam went to England last May for the benefit of her health and appeared to be improving. On the day of her death she was enjoying a short walk and was suddenly taken ill. She was passing a stone and asked to be allowed to rest. She was given a seat and as it was seen that she was ill a physician was sent for but nothing could be done to save her life. The cause of death was a violent hemorrhage."

[Mr. Haslam, is a son of the late William Haslam, Esq., of Springfield, Lot 67, and his deceased wife paid a visit to this province with him two years ago.]
