

THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JANUARY 20, 1896.

BURKE AGAIN.

We congratulate our contemporary, the Times-Guardian, of Truro, on the result of the criminal libel proceeding taken against the editor of that paper by a man well known in the Province of Ontario, well known now in the Province of Nova Scotia, and very well known in this Province, viz., no less a personage than Mr. A. L. Burke, of washing machine fame. The EXAMINER, it will be remembered, in the month of December last, published an article cautioning farmers against the doings of Mr. Burke and his associates. This article was copied in full by the Times-Guardian, with certain additions, in which the Times stated that Burke had "taken in" some farmers around Truro. Mr. Burke, with an audacity equalled only by his methods, demanded from the Times an apology, and in default threatened criminal proceedings. The editor of that paper not only refused to apologize, but told Burke's lawyer to go ahead and that he would justify the article complained of. The proceedings were then commenced and have just ended in favor of the newspaper, on the ground that the alleged libel was justified and true.

The evidence given on the trial was most damaging to Burke and his gang, and any person reading it could not for one moment anticipate any ending of the case except an honorable acquittal of the newspaper. Burke admitted having been arrested on three different occasions in Ontario charged with fraud; but he always managed to evade conviction. But it appears that as a result of his discharges the law was amended to meet future cases. How on earth Burke, with a full knowledge of his transactions, could have expected to succeed in a libel suit passes comprehension.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The attention of young men particularly is directed to the able address of Lieutenant Governor Howland, reported in another column. It is a great deal of good advice, mingled with encouragement and hope.

We learn that publication of a newspaper devoted to the Patrons of Industry in this Province will be begun in the course of a week or two. The new paper will come into a small field that is already pretty fully occupied.

Some of the most intense Grits in Nova Scotia are said to have suggested that as Premier Fielding has announced his determination to run for the Dominion Parliament, he should now run against Sir Charles Tupper in Cape Breton county. Mr. Fielding would, evidently, rather not.

Referring to the declaration of Sir Richard Carter that the "dry nurse" is "the dry nurse—aye, and the wet nurse, too, of probably the most pronounced pack of booters in 'er country has ever known," the Ottawa Citizen says: "This is a pretty good and reminds one of Sir Richard's pleading suggestion in 1878 that Sir David Macpherson had inherited the predatory instincts of the Highland caters (Glenary was an assaet spot for the orator for some time afterwards), and if he keeps on, Nova Scotia may become so too."

The crises with the United States and Germany, followed by the expressions of loyalty from Canada and Australia in the face of impending danger, has given great strength to the Hon. Joseph Chamberlain's policy of "Empire markets for the Empire's producers." It is remarked in England that a combination of the United States, Russia and the Argentine Republic might have cut off 70 per cent of Great Britain's food. From this the moral is being adduced that the Empire must feed itself. In this connection the St. James' Gazette urges Mr. Chamberlain to call a conference in which each colony may make its offer and submit its claim for recognition in our markets. Other people say further that a new policy of a self dependent Empire need not imply England's desertion of free trade. The feed imports from Canada in 1895 increased by half a million sterling. In animals the increase was £400,000, wheat and flour £300,000, hams £50,000, butter £50,000, eggs £40,000. Cheese declined £300,000. England's total food imports were £19,000,000 and Canada supplied £7,500,000.

It has been said that Sir Richard Cartwright did not insult Nova Scotia as reported. We quote the following from the report of his speech:—

"As I said, Sir Charles Tupper, Bart., is a very ancient acquaintance of mine. (Ministerial hear, hear.) Using the word fame in its scientific association, I may say the fame of Sir Charles, if not precisely in all the churches, is well known in all the provinces of this Dominion. It is well known that he graduated with very high honors in his own peculiar school in Nova Scotia many years ago, when Nova Scotia was arid and barren, which, if you had heard from Boston (Sir Charles H. Tupper) will permit, I will freely translate, which has been the dry nurse, aye, and the wet nurse, of probably the most pronounced type of booters this country has ever known. (Opposition cheers.)"

It thus appears that Sir Richard made the insulting statement, and that it was received with Opposition cheers."

NEW GOLF JERSEYS.

Messrs. James Paton & Company have made a very choice importation of golf jerseys in all the new spring shades and of many pretty combinations, such as pink and brown, blue and fawn, &c. We advise our lady readers to examine these goods for they are going to see. The prices range from $1.50 to $3.50. Some very good ones are offered at $2.00 and $2.50.

Fire.—The Guardian reports that a workshop, owned by Mr. Charles Mitchell, Mount Herbert, Loc 45, was destroyed by fire on noon on Friday; also a set of carpenter's tools, a forge and a windmill attached. Mr. Match who lives with his brother, Albert Match, went to dinner, leaving a fire in the stove. When he returned the interior of the building was in flames. It is thought that the fire started from a defective flue in the workshop. The total loss is over $300. The windmill alone cost $100. There was no insurance.

ANNUAL MEETING.—The annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Charlottetown Driving Park and Provincial Exhibition Association will be held in the Masonic Temple this (Monday) evening at eight o'clock.

POSSIBILITIES IN CANADA.

Lieut.-Governor Howland's Address to the Young Men and Women of Charlottetown Business College.

A GREAT FIELD FOR EFFORT.

Addressing the students of the Charlottetown Business College, on Saturday, His Honor Lieut.-Governor Howland said: I am going to say a few words to you to-day about the opportunities you possess and the chances you have at the present time as compared with fifty years ago. When I was a boy in Charlottetown. The rules and regulations, advice and practical business training you will get here will be of great and important use to you throughout life. A practical knowledge of business is important in all the walks of life, no matter what trade or profession you may take up. Any one who can keep, examine and report on the accounts of a company, corporation or individual in an intelligent and correct manner is a valuable acquisition to the community wherever he may cast his lot. I hope, however, you may not be like the dog tax collector that we had here some fifty years ago. He was allowed ten per cent. for collection, but returned nothing for several years. He was at last ordered to the bar of the justice to account for his negligence. He acknowledged the receipts, but when requested to hand them over, he said he could not, as the commission ate them all up. Nor like the secretary and treasurer of an incorporated company who made out his report showing the company had made over one thousand dollars clear profit, but when the shareholders went for their money he had none, and it was found after a good deal of examination that he had placed one thousand dollars on the wrong side of the ledger.

Now, at the outset in life it is well to remember the motto: "What man has done man may do."

Old age is a magistracy from which men can look into the past and although they cannot advise themselves, they can impart their experience to others who are not so far advanced on life's journey. You have great opportunities here in this college, and you ought to make the best use possible of your time. You have a great future before you. I have no doubt some of you who are listening attentively to me this morning may in the future be among the leading merchants in some of the great cities of this continent. As many who have passed along the highways of commerce before you, you no doubt, will have your ambitions aroused when opportunity presents itself. One thing, let me tell you, who ever may be your master, or be him faithfully. Have his interests at heart, and don't be waiting for the bell to ring or the clock to strike. You must remember, as you learn your business, your habits will be formed when you are young, and you must yourself. Therefore, at the outset have your habits for industry, attention, carefulness and faithfulness well formed. For, to see an old metapher, "as the twig is bent so the tree is inclined."

There, again, there are some who, no matter how hard they try, don't seem to succeed. Well, you must not be down on him, but remember the story of the miners out west. They wanted to have a good man, but after procuring a man they hunted up a piano and a man to play it. He wasn't playing very well and the miners grumbled. One of them took a piece of chalk and wrote on the piano: "Don't be a good man, for he is doing his level best." Now, about the chances in life, I have been looking over some old letters lately and I found one from an old friend, dated Boston, 1851. He went there for a situation, thence to New York, etc. He writes very hard of his chances. He had not the chances you have. His purse was light but his heart was strong. He had a good many set-backs but he still will, and one of the best men in one of the large cities of Canada, and has donated nearly one million dollars to McGill College. I could mention many more but don't want to weary your patience. "Remember whatever is worth doing is worth doing well."

I must now call your attention to the highways of commerce, with which you will some time be identified, and also to the new life of the great Dominion which you inherit as your birthright, with all the avenues of trade and its outcrop, of which you will, no doubt, become better acquainted as we proceed. I am going to speak to you on the trade and commerce of England, the United States and Canada, so that you may draw from practical life some lessons which may be of use to you.

THE UNITED KINGDOM.

The imports of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in the five years ending Dec. 31, 1894, were valued at ten billion, one hundred and eighty-six million dollars (10,186,000,000). During the same five years her exports were valued at seven billion, two hundred and two million ($7,202,000,000). During the period named the above mentioned exports exceeded her exports by about three billion dollars. And yet it is not contended that, with this apparent so-called "balance of trade" against her, Great Britain grows poorer day by day. On the contrary, it is claimed that having taken in more than she put out the apparent deficiency of exports represent three billions of profits made by the English people during that period of time, or an international traffic aggregating seven billion, three hundred and eighty-eight million dollars (17,388,000,000) or an annual average trade of three billion, four hundred and seventy-seven million dollars ($3,477,000,000).

In 1885 D. Robert Giffen, of the British Board of Trade, estimated the wealth of Great Britain and Ireland at £10,637,000,000, about $50,000,000,000 (fifty billion), which sum he classified as follows: Land.....$ 8,400,000,000 Construction..... 2,600,000,000 Foreign, industrial, national securities and public funds..... 23,000,000,000 English national and local public funds..... 5,000,000,000 Movable and tools of trade..... 4,000,000,000 Or 1,202 per capita.

THE UNITED STATES TRADE.

The United States sold in foreign markets during the fiscal year 1894, eight hundred and sixty-nine millions two hundred and four thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven dollars' worth of American products. Of that enormous amount the farmers of the United States furnished six hundred and twenty-eight millions three hundred and sixty-three thousand and thirty-eight dollars ($628,363,038) worth of farm products.

CANADIAN TRADE.

Before 1867 there were all scattered Provinces, and it took one about as long to go to Montreal than as one can go to England now. Then we had but 2,250 miles of railway in all the Province, now we have sixteen thousand miles. Chief among these is the C. P. R., with 3,336 miles from Halifax to Vancouver. Besides this we have an uninterrupted waterway from the Straits of Belle Isle to Port Arthur, at the head of Lake Superior, since we finished the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, which has been constructed at a cost of four millions. Some idea may be formed of the great traffic on the Lakes during the seven months of navigation in 1892, from the fact that 11,214,553 tons of shipping passed through it. This is 3,022,304 tons more than passed through the Suez Canal during the whole year.

The trade of Canada rose from $131,827,352 in 1865 to $240,999,859 in 1894. Eighty-five per cent. of the trade of Canada is carried on with Great Britain and the United States in nearly equal proportions. Taking the imports for 27 years of Great Britain, we find a yearly average of $44,667,000 from Great Britain, and $44,857,000 from the United States.

Another statement shows the aggregate trade of Canada in 1879 and 1894 to be distributed as follows: Country. 1879. 1894. Great Britain.....$67,228,848 $107,256,123 United States..... 79,991,720 88,544,040 France..... 2,247,066 3,081,950 Germany..... 552,999 7,887,594 Spain..... 394,445 441,565 Portugal..... 161,258 126,469 Italy..... 181,933 511,631 Holland..... 216,288 625,764 Belgium..... 219,461 1,259,692 Newfoundland..... 2,780,523 3,633,154 West Indies..... 4,763,099 7,121,172 South America..... 745,830 2,264,677 China & Japan..... 505,513 3,065,764 Switzerland..... 94,781 276,065 Other countries..... 1,291,709 4,220,266 Total..... $151,832,863 $230,618,931

Now, let us take glance at our equipment to carry on this trade, and see what great opportunities are within your reach. Take the dairying interest. In 1867 we only shipped 611,428 pounds, while last year 154,977,480 pounds, or about 55 per cent of England's total import of cheese, whilst in butter we only shipped two per cent of England's wants. But we are doing better all the time. I know there are some who do not share that opinion. In a recent edition of the Dominion Dairyman it is stated that in Ontario there are invested in cows, lands, factories, etc., used for dairy purposes, over $175,000,000. Milk produced in one year, 350,000,000 gallons, valued at $36,000,000.

In live stock Canada compares relatively very well with England and the United States, as will be seen from the statistics of 1894.

LIVE STOCK PER 1,000 HEAD OF POPULATION. U. Kingdom. U. S. Canada. Horses..... 54 239 298 Milch Cows..... 101 261 378 Other neat cattle..... 176 557 462 Sheep..... 772 574 520 Swine..... 97 317 352 The Export of Canadian cattle to England rose from 63 head in 1874 to 107,689, in 1891.

The forests of Canada now stand pre-eminent as we have three thousand miles of unbroken line from the Atlantic to the Pacific out of which we shipped last year $26,504,000 worth. This work engages thousands of men along the great harbors of both oceans and creates a great carrying trade to England, the United States and from the Pacific to Asia and Africa.

MIXED WEALTH.

Then take the mineral wealth, which in Canada is very great. Coal of the best quality is found in Nova Scotia, the Northwest Territories, the Rocky Mountains and Vancouver Island. In 1863 the output was 623,394 tons, last year it amounted to (4,000,000) four million tons.

We have also iron rivalling the best Swedish, and this in close proximity to coal both on the Atlantic and Pacific. Valuable gold mines are now being worked in various parts of British Columbia and it is stated that over fifty millions have been found in the placer mines of that Province.

Then there is the great Northwest, which gave us this year thirty-six millions of bushels of wheat. Sir A. T. Galt in speaking of this great inheritance in 1881 said:—

"Let me now very briefly endeavor to convey to you some partial idea of the magnitude of the trust that has been assumed by Canadians in undertaking the colonization and government of the northern half of the continent of America. Picture to yourselves a domain nearly as large as Europe, stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, with its southern extremity in the same latitude as the south of France, and its northern boundary along the shores of the Arctic ocean. Possessing the finest forested coal fields, the most extensive and productive fisheries, watered by the most remarkable natural distribution of lakes and rivers, enriched with all varieties of minerals, and now known to possess an enormous area of fertile prairie lands destined to become the future granary of England. This vast country reaches as the crow flies from ocean to ocean 4,000 miles, with an area south of the latitude of St. Petersburg of at least 2,000,000 of square miles capable of cultivation and which fully one half produces every crop grown in Great Britain."

All these resources are ours to develop. I think I cannot wind up better than to read you a quotation from Burns' address to a friend:—

"Ye'll try the world fit soon, my lad, And Andrew dear, believe ye, Ye'll find mair than an uncw squad, And muckle they may give ye; For care and trouble set your thought, For when your end's attained; And at your views may come to naught, Where every nerve is strained."

I'll no say men are villains a' The real, hard-headed wickered, Who has nae check but human law, Are to a few restricted; But, och! mankind are uncw weak And little to be trusted; If self's overbearing balance shake, It's rarely right adjusted. Yet they wha' fa' in fortune's strife, Their fate we should an censure, For still the important end of life They squally may answer; A man may hae an honest heart, Though poorthly hourly stare him; A man may tak a neighbor's part, Yet has nae care to spare him."

Aye free, aff ban' your story tell, When wi' a boom crop; But still keep something to yourself; Ye scarcely tell to ony. Consider yourself as well as you can. Frae critical dissection, But keep through every other man Wi' sharpened, ill inspection.

Nervous women will find relief in Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it enriches the blood and thus strengthens the nerves.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

THE SKATING RACES.

Sir,—In looking over the prize list for the skating races at the Bink on Wednesday next, I notice that there are several money prizes offered. We all know what trouble the Wheelmen's Association here experienced last season owing to several of its members being professionals. No doubt money prizes are a greater inducement to skate for than medals, pocket knives, &c., but when we come to consider that next season these same young men who are now about to make themselves professionals for the sake of a few dollars, may want to compete in the bicycle races, we see how reprehensible is the system of offering cash prizes. Messrs. Dawson and Rogers are themselves prominent members of the Wheelmen's Club, and as such should be much in their power to discourage professionals. I know their true matter being brought to their notice, they will reconsider their prize list, or at least disband any amateur skater from competing for money prizes.

AMATEUR.

Ch'town, Jan. 18th.

THE NEW REQUISITION.

Sir,—The anti-Laird faction of the grip party in Charlottetown, having succeeded in throwing sufficient cold water on Mr. Laird's candidature for Mayorality to force that gentleman to refuse a nomination, are now showing their true colors. A requisition is now being hawked around by High Sheriff Robertson, who is seeking signatures asking Councillor Haszard to run for Mayor. This is what was all along predicted, and now the prediction is being fulfilled. An official of the Peters government travelling around with a petition in pretty strong evidence of the direction of the wind and should tend to show Mr. Laird's real friends that we are being treated by members of his own party. Mr. Laird was willing to run if he got a requisition from both sides, The Conservatives were willing, but some of the strong Davies grits were against giving Mr. Laird the opportunity of becoming the chief magistrate of the city. Hence their opposition.

POLITICAL FEELING IN MONTREAL.

Politicians Going to Cape Breton.

MONTREAL, Jan. 20. There is much interest here in political matters, and the feeling daily grows ground that Sir Charles Tupper's return to the House of Commons will bring added life and courage to his supporters. Hon. Dr. Montague will leave in a few days for Cape Breton, and it is probable that he will be soon followed by Hon. Mr. Foster. The campaign in the Grit interest will be directed by Mr. D. C. Fraser, of Gursboro, and Colin McLeod, of Antigonish. John Haggart and Sam Hughes, M. P., had an interview with Sir Charles Tupper on Saturday.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Probabilities and Speculations.

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.

The cabinet was engaged nearly the whole of Saturday considering the estimates. As is well understood, the general business of Parliament is to be transacted at the present session, but whether the estimates will be passed in their entirety depends largely on the Opposition. A successor to Colonel Powell as Adjutant-General of Militia has not yet been appointed. Lieut.-Col. Aylmer is acting Adjutant-General, and is freely spoken of as likely to succeed Colonel Powell. During the past day or two the names of Colonel Otter, of Toronto, and Colonel Smith, London, also have been mentioned. A correspondent learns that the French Grit will oppose the Government remedial bill, and support an amendment for an investigation.

Profound regret is expressed in political circles at the announcement of the death at Coulogues of John Bryson, M. P. for Pontiac.
