APRIL 9, 1884.

Grit Treachery Again.

A LONG delayed Justice to the Fishermen of P. E. Island has been done by the Dominion Government. The sum of $30,086.10 has been voted to reimburse certain claims to certain merchants for certain duties improperly collected from them by the United States customs authorities in 1871. It may be asked why the Dominion Government, seeing the justice of this claim, did not pay it ere this? It may be thought by some that the Government were slow in doing justice to our Island fishermen. But the facts are:—In the year 1877 a memorial was forwarded to the Dominion Government claiming $50,804.79 for duties improperly imposed on fish and oils exported by the merchants of this Province to the United States. The memorial was duly and wisely considered by the Government. Therefore, on the 22nd of May, 1883, having deducted the sum of $20,818.69 due Messrs. Hall & Myrick, American citizens, the Government placed the sum of $30,086.10 in the estimates to reimburse the Island merchant's claim. When the item was read in Parliament, Mr. L. H. Davies, incredible as it may appear, rose in his place and opposed the payment of it. He was supported in his objection by the Leader of the Opposition, Mr. Blake—that gentleman who always speaks strongly against everything like justice and generosity to Prince Edward Island. The item was therefore withdrawn, and we are told by the Toronto Globe "that Sir Leonard Tilley was ashamed to ask for the grant after the true nature of the job had been exposed by Messrs. Blake and Davies."

Neither Mr. Blake nor Mr. Davies would stop here. They saw that again our Island fishermen were seeking justice, and, with the intention of further prejudicing Parliament, caused the insertion of the following paragraph, a month ago, in their organ, the Globe:—

"Messrs. Carvell and Howlan are also pushing their claims, but the Conservatives think that these gentlemen should be satisfied with the gift of $30,000 which the Government proposes making to them under the pretext of refunding certain duties collected by the United States Government upon fish. Such a 'fishy' claim has never before been recognized by any Government in any country, and it cannot be regarded as anything more than a donation to certain parliamentary supporters."

The efforts of Messrs. Blake, Davies, and the Globe were, we are pleased to state, unsuccessful. Parliament is now thoroughly acquainted with the justice of our fishermen's claim, and instead of heeding the prejudicial cry raised by these gentlemen, it passed the sum set forth in the estimates. But Mr. Davies is not satisfied, and the Globe correspondent, Gorman, no doubt inspired by Mr. Davies, says the endorsement of the Island's claim is a "scandalous transaction."

To show how false and treacherous the Globe—the organ of the Grits, in its statement that the $30,000 claimed by our fishermen, was a gift to Senators Carvell and Howlan, we publish the following list of claimants:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Amount. Includes Hall & Myrick for British subjects ($9,883.00), G. W. Howlan (9,156.60), H. M. Churchill (4,889.50), Carvell Bros (1,228.59), Baker & Nickerson (957.20), A. A. McDonald Bros (2,234.60), McDonald & Owen (492.00), Samuel Prowse (385.00), J. A. Matheson (282.00), J. A. Matheson (24.06), J. A. McDonald (146.00), Wise & Russell (165.00), John Cairns (165.00), Owen Connolly (146.00), Reid Bros (30.00).

It will thus be seen that the list of claimants contains the names of opponents as well as the supporters of the present Government. With the knowledge the Globe correspondent has of P. E. Island affairs—being an Islander himself—he could not be so utterly ignorant of the subject as he appeared to be. We infer, therefore, he willfully lied with the knowledge and consent of his adviser, Mr. Davies. But what defence can Mr. Davies make of his action. Last year he opposed the payment of the sum due the fishermen, and the amount was struck out of the estimates. A case which was not strictly legal, but one of such hardship that it was treated as an exceptional one—one by which our fishermen would, if no opposition were offered, obtain their just rights—was by his efforts, and by the support of Mr. Blake cast aside. This year, his organ, the Globe, has endeavored to thwart every effort made to recover the duties, and Mr. Davies winked at it. When he returns to his constituents many of whom are fishermen, he will, we hope, be able to explain. But the facts, we fear, will stand strong against him.

—The member for West River last evening entertained the House of Assembly by a characteristic speech on the Budget. When six o'clock struck Mr. Farquharson had delivered a lengthy speech—one with which a gentleman ordinarily ambitious would be well satisfied. But the irrepressible member was bound that a full gallery of gods should "see the show." He, therefore, adjourned the debate and resumed it at 9 o'clock. He was funny after dinner: "must have had cabbage for it" as a knight of the birchen rod used to say. In his thrusts at the member for Murray Harbor he was severe, and so severe. The alleged disloyal utterances of that gentleman were repeatedly referred to by Mr. Farquharson, and promptly denied by Mr. Prowse. The reply of the member for Murray Harbor to the member for West River, was happy. Dressing him in the suitable garments of a clown, sparkling with mock jewels, attractively painted, and provided with bells, he led him into the hippodrome designed by himself some years ago, and held him up to the gaze of the House. The exhibition was just what the gods desired. Mr. Farquharson's reference to disloyal utterances, too, were turned to good account. Mr. Prowse, in return, quoted from the Parliamentary Reporter, and proved that the member for West River preached secession, and was therefore as disloyal as any ordinary Nihilist. Altogether Mr. Prowse's speech was a splendid one. It was more than an answer to the delicate efforts of the member for West River and for Strathalbyn—Mr. Sinclair.

—During the debate on the Budget, yesterday, Mr. Sinclair censured the Government for expending any money on the wharves or piers since the decision in the Holman vs. Green case was given. In this course he is consistent with the Grit party, whose great object appears to be to find fault with everything the Government does. Last year, Mr. Sinclair and his friends spent hours abusing the Government because there was not a sum placed in the estimates for the purpose of repairing the wharves. This year some of them declared that nothing should have been spent in repairing these works since 1882, while others of the Opposition take up the time of the House in showing that there should be a sum placed in the estimates for the purpose of repairing these works this year. Why don't the Opposition decide on what they would do in the case, and propose it to the House? So far they appear to be as much opposed to each other in their ideas, and to what they said last year, as they are to the Government.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

WEDNESDAY, April 9.

The greater portion of the time of the House, on Monday and yesterday, was occupied in debate on the motion for the House to go into committee on supply. On this motion a wide scope is given, and it is customary for every member in the House to make a speech. The question which received the greatest prominence in this debate were the Piers question, the expenditure and receipts of the Government during the past year, the question of local taxation, and the general management of the affairs of the Province by the present Government, which seems to meet the general approval of the country at large.

The Bill respecting Standard Time was passed yesterday. The following Bills passed the House to-day, and were sent to the Council for concurrence, viz:—

- The Bill to incorporate the Charlottetown Hospital.
The Bill to incorporate the Prince Edward Island Hospital.
The Bill to incorporate the New Era Printing and Publishing Company was reported from committee agreed to.
The Bill to incorporate Mark Wright & Co., was also put through the first reading and referred to the Private Bills Committee.
The Address to His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, requesting His Honor to forward to His Excellency the Governor-General, for transmission to the Queen, the joint address of condolence to Her Majesty the Queen on the lamented death of Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, was presented to His Honor yesterday, by both Houses, in the Library, to which His Honor appropriately replied.

The Act intitled "The Summerside Incorporation Amendment Act, 1884," was reported from a Committee of the Whole House this forenoon, agreed to with some amendments, and ordered for the third reading to-morrow.

Hon. Mr. CAMPBELL presented to the House: Statement of amounts paid by Public Works Department on account of Mount Stewart Bridge, during the year 1883; also vouchers relating to the same service. Statement of expenditures by Public Works Department for fuel and repairs to Prince of Wales College for the year 1883.

Ordered, That said papers and vouchers be laid on the table.

The debate on the motion to go into supply is again resumed this afternoon, and will likely be brought to a close this evening.
