IN MEMORIAM

LULU K. CAIRNS

Many relatives and friends throughout the province will be saddened to hear of the passing on November 28, 1955 at Grafton, Mass. of Lulu Katherine Cairns.

Born in Lower Freetown, P.E.I. 75 years ago, she was a daughter of the late William and Jane Cairns, later moving with her parents to Cape Traverse, where many happy girlhood days were spent. Upon finishing her school course there, and ambitious to be a nurse, she entered the Hospital at North Adams, Mass., U.S.A. from where she graduated. She practised her profession for many years, returning often to her Island home, to spend her vacations.

Of a bright and cheerful disposition, hers was a life so full of service, and devotion to duty, that it cannot be forgotten, nor fail in its influence for good, for many years to come. She is the last surviving member of her family.

Her remains were forwarded from Grafton, Mass. to the Compton Funeral Home, Summerside where service was held. Burial took place in the family plot, in the Baptish Cemetery, Central Bedeque. R. Charles A. Britten D.D. the officiating clergyman.

EVANGELIST WALTER E. STRAM, Salem Oregon will conduct a short campaign in the Summerside Church of Christ. This campaign will get under way with his famous Biblical drama entitled "The Triumph of the King of Kings" to-morrow evening. The citizens of Summerside are invited to hear this gifted speaker.

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES J. ARSENAULT

Many relativesand friends were shocked and saddened on the evening of October 24th. when they learned of the sudden passing, (while on a fishing trip) of James J. Arsenault at the age of sixty-five.

Mr. Arsenault had retired some fifteen years ago, due to a serious heart ailment, and although he suffered ocassional attacks from time to time, he never was heard to complain.

The deceased was the son of the late Jerome Arsenault and his wife Sarah Coughlen of Skinner's Pond, and when quite young began to earn his living by fishing; with always a great love for the sea it was with deep regret he had to retire, but occasionally made trips to the fishing-ground, for the pleasure he got out of it, and it friends who were privileged to grandson Clifford Gaudet, that he passed away. When the boat returned to the harbour at Tignish, a priest and doctor were summoned, both arriving within a short period of time and Rev. J. A. MacDonald administered the Sacrament of Extreme Unction.

James Arsenault was a man of whom it could be freely said "He had no enemies", and few had the gift to make and enjoy friends as he did. The hospitality of his home, will be a pleasant memory for his friends who were priviledged to enjoy it.

Left to mourn his passing are his devoted widow (nee Alice Handrahan) and the following family; Ralph, Tignish; Albert, Peter Road; (Ethel) Mrs. Alphome Gaudet, Tignish Shore, and (Delila) Mrs. Bernard Harper, Tignish.

His funeral was held October 28 from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Harper (with whom he and his wife have resided since his retirement) to the Church of St. Simon and St. Jude, Tignish where at 9:30 a.m. a Requiem Mass was sung by the pastor Rev. J. A. MacDonald, assisted by the parish choir under the direction of Rev. Dennis Gallant. The funeral services were conducted by Father MacDonald, and services at the grave by Father Gallant. The pallbearers were all grandsons, Clifford Gaudet, James Gaudet, Arnold Gaudet, Major Gaudet, Valmour Arsenault and Everett Harper. Floral tribute bearers were two little grandsons Reginald nephew, Judson Mallett. The funeral was under the direction of J. Peter Gaudet.

The many mass offerings, floral tributes and messages of sympathy, as well as the large crowd of people who followed in the funeral cortage and filled the Church for the funeral mass, bore silent testimony of the love and esteem in which the deceased was held while living, and in the memory of his friends will ever remain the loss of a dear friend.

"WHITE FEATHER"
CAPITAL SUMMERSIDE

Not only is this a great story, but "White Feather" also boasts an exciting cast headed by Robert Wagner, John Lund, Debra Paget, and Jeffrey Hunter. Director of Photography Lucien Ballard set up the CinemaScope cameras in a remote, but fascinating part of Central Mexico, and has captured scenes that could only be recorded in their true beauty by the CinemaScope lens. Add to this some of the most lavish colors of Technicolor and the result is an experience seldom seen on the motion picture screen.

"White Feather" takes its place among the more important classic dramas inspired by the Indian's fight for survival against the onrush of the fortune-hunting, empire-building white men.

The screenplay was written expertly by Delmer Daves and Leo Townsend. The story of this film is based on one of the important chapters of American history as it tells of the hopeless opposition of the Cheyenne Indians to join forces with other tribes in making peace with the government in the 1870's.

Robert Wagner, given his strongest role to date in a fast-rising career, portrays neatly a young surveyor who comes to the West and befriends the Indians through his display of great bravery. He uses this friendship to almost single handedly effect a peace between the Indians and the white men. John Lund as a hard cavalry colonel and Jeffrey Hunter as a young Indian warrior give performances worthy of acclaim.

Let's Talk It Over

by "d"

We read recently an interesting explanation of how our first personal pronoun "I" came to be capitalized while other pronouns have small letters. Seems it started when early english printers requested that the pronoun 'I" be capitalized to distinguish it from a small J. Now perhaps someone will tell us how or when people began to capitalize the "I" in talking and living as well as in writing. A lot of us do that, don't we? We make that capital "I" as big as a harvest moon. When we begin our enthusiastic autobiographical sketches of the man of the hour. Unfortunately it's never really as big as we ourselves think it is.

It seems too bad that the compliments we pay in public are never accepted at face value. No matter how true our discourse is, it loses a lot in the telling with a capital 'I" for the theme. If you really want to impress people, folks, hire someone else to give the details.Otherwise the capital "I" may still mistaken for a small jay, which the dictionary says is a noisy American bird.

One of the finest things about the yuletide season is that most of us get rid, for a while at least, of our capital "I". It's a season of thinking of others; for doing something for others less fortunate than we. Those people are not hard to find, no matter how unfortunate we think we are. So let's make the most of it.

Canada's U. N. Plan Adopted By Assembly

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (CP)—A Canadian proposal to increase UN membership by nearly one-third received emphatic approval in the General Assembly Thursday, but not before an outspoken minority had signalled rough weather ahead for the plan.

As in the assembly's special political committee Wednesday, the vote was 52 to 2 with five abstentions. After the result was announced, applause broke out in the richly-appointed assembly hall. A veteran UN delegate said it was the first time he ever witnessed such a demonstration.

The resolution calling for the admission of five Communist and 13 non-Communist states now goes to the Security Council, which will meet Saturday morning to consider it.

It took the assembly near three hours to approve the committee's recommendation.

Conciliation Board For Railway Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) —A federal conciliation board will deal with the contract dispute between the railways and unions representing about 150,000 non - operating employees.

Labor Minister Gregg, it was learned otday, has acceeded to a union request to establish the board immediately as a shortcut towards a settlement attempt in deadlocked negotiations.

The unions and the five railways involved were being notified today of the decision and asked to nominate their representatives to the three-man board. If the nominees do not agree on a chairman, Mr. Gregg will appoint one.

The union request for a conciliation board was made about two weeks ago after the railways and employee spokesmen became deadlocked in negotiations over union demands for a wage and welfare plan estimated unofficially to cost more than $90,000,000 a year.

Appointment of a board at this early stage of the negotiations which began only last month will skip over a part of the government's normal procedure.

NOT USUAL MOVE

The usual move at the current stage is to appoint a conciliation officer to try to bring about a settlement. But the unions have indicated this would only consume time in the present case.

The three-man board will hear both sides and then make recommendations to the minister for a settlement.

The unions are asking for a general wage increase of 18 per cent plus a comprehensive company financed health and welfare plan.

They want the companies to contribute eight cents an hour for the health - welfare plan. The whole package amounts to 33 cents an hour.

BBC In Trouble Over Picture

LONDON (Reuters)—The British Broadcasting Corporation is to be reported to the director of public prosecutions for taking a television picture of Mrs. Margaret Comer and her husband Jack Comer leaving the Old Bailey at the close of the Comer case Wednesday.

Mrs. Comer had just been fined £50 for her part in conspiring to rig evidence to clear her husband in a knife fight.

Lord Chief Justice Goddard said Thursday it is an offence to take pictures of the judge, jurors, witnesses or defendants in the court building or its "precincts."

"If I have been correctly informed the picture shown last night was a clear breach of that section," Goddard said.
