Sardines Are Appetizing Addition To Any Menu

IN MANY parts of our country, winter is already here. Snow, ice, bitter storms and really cold weather.

The first thing most of us do is "up" the temperature in the house by increasing the heat, but it also decreases the indoor humidity by drying the air.

Years ago, in the days of home-heating by wood or coal-burners, the air was much more moist than in the air that is now common today.

Consequently, your indoor temperatures were used—68 to 70 degrees F. was considered comfortable.

Today, modern doctors often prescribe the use of vaporizers to increase humidity in cases of respiratory distress.

W.I Leadership Course Is Held At Kensington

KENSINGTON: Program Planning was the topic of a course, held Wednesday afternoon in St. Mark's Hall, Kensington.

Mrs. Clarence Marchbank, welcomed the meeting members; and the members of the provincial board who were present, were introduced by the supervisor, Theresa MacLeod.

They were Mrs. L. G. Ramsay, Indian River, provincial president; Mrs. Arthur Campbell, French River, 1st vice president; Mrs. Clarence Marchbank, 2nd vice president; Mrs. M. J. Doyle, Rustica, a past president; Mrs. Harold Laird, Kensington, editor of Federated News; and Judy Coates, Charlottetown, a assistant supervisor.

Different aspects of Institute study were discussed in separate groups under the following leaders—home economics and health, Mrs. Arthur Campbell; agriculture, Mrs. Clarence Marchbank; cultural activities, Mrs. M. J. Doyle; and citizenship, Mrs. M. J. Doyle; United Nations and ladies friends, Mrs. Harold Laird.

The findings of each group were evaluated and general discussion followed.

Theresa MacLeod conducted a quiz on nutrition, and a chart, different combinations of stitches which could be used in making the Tweedsmuir samplers.

A turkey dinner was served by Indian River. A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Kathleen Mayne, and Mrs. Peter MacLellan responded.

The local conveners present the program for each month which has been prepared by the provincial conveners, and considerable information is acquired in the course, which is held annually.

"EAT MORE SARDINES!" SAYS THE CHEF

Sardines are both plentiful and budget-wise.

"Are they merely a tidbit or do they have real protein value?" you ask.

They are made from the meaty sections of fresh-caught young sardines. In the best part of the section you can buy for the money!

Try them for breakfast—sautéed and served on toast with lemon wedges; as a garnish to a mixed vegetable salad; as an appetizer for dinner; sandwich.

MARY HAWORTH Grabby Greed Over Car Is Source Of Argument

Dear Mary Haworth: I am a simple arithmetic, that is, working girl. For 1 1/2 years I have been going to school at night. For 2 1/2 years I have been going to school during the day, and for the past two years I have been going to school in the evening. Consequently I am unable to buy many things like a car or to take me out in fine places. Quite often I pay for my clothes.

Recently we bought a car together, with the intention of using it for our own enjoyment. I mostly, I invested over $700 and he put in about $300.

Now he has become very possessive of the car. It is kept at his place and I hardly ever get to drive it. He has even said, saying I am a new driver and might have an accident. I do that, as the man in the "partnership," should have control of it.

I don't feel he should dominate in this matter. Yet I would not have him feel inferior because of his financial condition. And of course we do use it together frequently.

It bothers me if he takes the car to his part-time job or to the store. But when he does, he has to take me with his friends, even taking some of my friends and girls because of my financial condition.

I don't feel I feel like a fool, especially when I can't have it to stop with my friends. We've had so many arguments over this and it is ruining our relationship. I love him and he loves me, but I feel like a fool because of my financial condition.

Our relationship probably got worse. I want to do the right thing, so our future will be happy. If I should stop protesting, please give me a logical reason why. Or if he is wrong, please explain and let me know how to make him understand. Thank you so much—D.C.

Dear D.C.: "Anybody may make a mistake but only a fool won't learn from experience," a proverb says.

Your friend is a mistake. His highbush attitude about the car is a timely warning to you to beware of marrying him.

Plainly the clearest solution of the trouble you've had, caused by his mean display of selfishness, is to get out of the car. It is to dig down in your jeans for $200, buy him out, then wash your hands of him altogether.

In terms of dollars-and-cents invested, already you are approximately four-fifths owner of the car, as compared to his one-fifth slice of ownership. Thus in the matter of drawing the line, you win by a mile. Accordingly to the Tweedsmuir samplers.

Boxes Of Warm Clothing Packed by Montague WI

Carol Singing with Peggy MacLeod at the piano, and an interesting auction with Mr. S. Beas Martin as auctioneer, were features of the December meeting of the Montague Women's Institute held at 136 St. George's Street, last night.

Holiday decorations added to the pleasure of the evening when 14 members braved the first snow storm. Four members paid dues.

The president was in the chair. Minutes and correspondence were read by the secretary, Mrs. Cecil Beck. Mrs. George Nicholson gave the financial report. A letter from the P.E.I. Trade Bureau regarding the billing of tourists in Montague during July and August of December 1964; was discussed.

Reports of standing committees followed: Mrs. Kair Clark reported for the sick committee; Mrs. Beattie Martin for the school committee.

Mrs. R.W. Beck reporting for welfare, stated that splendid donations from the lady curiers, Mrs. Mont Wright, Miss MacQuarrie, and Mrs. G.H. Nelson had been received. An estimated $100 was donated to the crippled children's auction.

A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Roy Gills.
