The thanks of the Guild were extended to the constitution committee for the excellent work they had done. Members of the constitution committee were as follows: Lieut. Col. P. S. Fielding, Judge H. L. Palmer, and Miss Lillian Duchemin. A request from the Provincial Drama Festival Committee for the use of the drapes and stage props at the Empire Theatre was granted by the meeting, under the customary provisions. Following the business meeting, those in attendance broke up into small social and discussion groups, and were served excellent refreshments under the convener'ship of Mrs. R. Smallman.

IN MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my dear wife, Annie Grant Lawson, who died May 28th, 1947.
No one knew the pain she bore
Beneath the grim smile she often wore;
She fought to stay with us in vain,
But God relieved her from all pain.

celebration scheduled to climax in a six-hour march of up to 500,000 East-German boys and girls. Communist youth in blue shirts and black shorts who already have poured into Berlin wandered about the Eastern sector or marched in small, disciplined groups.

Taking No Chances
The West was taking no chances on a possibility that the East zone Communists might revive their original threat to storm the Western sector of the city. This line was dropped more than two months ago after the Western Allies said they would meet such an attempt with force. The day's oldest development came when Soviet-sponsored East German propaganda agencies led by Gerhart Eisler, the Communist who jumped ball in the U. S. to become East Germany's propaganda chief, charged the West with a potato-bug attack on the east. The East's radio and press poured out thousands of words on the charges that U. S. planes had dropped millions of potato bugs on East zone crops in an attempt to sabotage our food supply. It drew amazed laughter in the West, and an official Air Force comment of "ridiculous."

Graduates Addressed By Former Principal

"Continue to be students," advised Dr. G. D. Steel, M.A., LL.D., retired Principal of Prince of Wales College, in his address to P. W. C. graduates at the annual convocation exercises yesterday morning. "Some of you," Dr. Steel added, "are already thinking to yourselves, 'Why tell us that? Are we not continuing attendance at College or University next year? Of very necessity we shall continue to be students'." He explained to them that their studies should not cease with the end of the school year and they should not be students awaiting the year's scholastic end so that they might forget their books. "Your mental growth and development should not stop as long as life lasts. Retain the inquiring mind, the mind marked by a spirit of curiosity."

Dr. G. D. Steel

He warned them not to set too high a value on the material rewards of their labours as students. From a report of the Canadian Research Committee on Practical Education it was shown, he said, that the initial wages received by boys and girls entering the labour market bears a definite relation to the grade at which the pupils dropped out of school. "Years ago I heard a University president addressing an educational meeting point out that College graduates commanded higher salaries than did their brothers and sisters who had not attended College. This statement he made to influence parents to send their children to College. Even then I did not like his approach to the subject. "As another side of the same question we were told some time ago, in this very hall, that it was not the people who had attended Prince of Wales College who filled the high positions in the land. Yet, if you take the trouble to inquire, you will find former students of this institution and of St. Dunstan's University in our City Council, in our Provincial Government, on the judges' bench, in Parliament, and in other positions of influence in the country. "I could name many men who were students of the College during recent years and who adorn the high positions they occupy. Inevitably then, no matter what may be said to the contrary, we have every reason to expect and hope that you in the course of a few years will rise to positions of dignity and of influence."

Material Rewards
He congratulated Dr. Frank MacKinnon, College Principal, on his winning the Doctor of Philosophy degree at Toronto University and on the conferring on him by the University of New Brunswick, of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. He also warmly congratulated the graduates of the various departments.

ed a peace-making mission to Moscow, Paris and London, and the first American reaction to this trip was given today at a press conference by James Webb, U.S. Under-Secretary of State. In effect, Webb said that what the United States looks for from Russia now is not words but actions in the interest of world peace. The matter came up when reporters asked Webb what he thought about various published speculations that Lie had been serving the purposes of Moscow's peace propaganda. The United States Government, Webb said, has no reason to doubt the United Nations leader's sincerity. On the contrary, he said American officials believe that he is taking a sincere view of his responsibility and is making his utmost to make the United Nations peace machinery as powerful and effective as possible.

Mr. Heckbert, referred to in the above item, taken from the Medicine Hat News, is a former Islander and a brother of Miss Constance I. Heckbert of Summerside.

New Forest Fire Reported In N. B.

FREDERICTON, May 26 — (CP) — One new forest fire was reported in New Brunswick tonight, another was expected to come under control before morning and a third also continued to burn. The new outbreak raged out of control after covering a one by three-mile area. It started two miles south of Gagetown, Queens County, near the Cossar Farm Road, and spread through tinder-dry old cuttings, brush and fallen trees under spruce, fir and hard timber. The big Upsalquitch fire in Restigouche County was confined to the same territory after burning back to the Upsalquitch River. The outlook there was reported "good." A fresh crew arrived to relieve weary fire-fighters, and it was expected that the 600 men on the job would gain control of the situation tonight.

In Gloucester County, near Alfordville, fire continued on both sides of the Newcastle-Bathurst highway but made slower progress today. A smaller outbreak near Eskedellor, in the same general area, came under control.

MONTREAL, May 26 — (CP) — R. C. M. P. Island Odds And Ends

When the new Canadians get together once in a while for a dance at the Canadian Legion, the gathering resembles a meeting of the United Nations. At the most recent dance held on Thursday night a number of nationalities were represented — folks from Poland, from the Ukraine; Russia had a lone representative; there was several from Czechoslovakia; at least two from Yugoslavia; quite a large representation from Holland, and one a native of Germany. When all these people mix with home grown Islanders, of Scotch, Irish, English and French extraction, the dances are very interesting. They say that music is an universal language, and no matter what the language difficulties, new Canadians seem able to find dance partners quite easily. On Thursday night the hostesses were Mrs. (Dr.) W. J. P. MacMillan, Mrs. Parnell McMahon, Mrs. J. B. Murley, Mrs. T. G. Ives, Mrs. A. G. Putman, Mrs. S. G. Peppin and Mrs. Arthur Bruce.

Mr. Roland MacDougall of the Department of Immigration, who will be staying on the Island in connection with the settlement of Dutch immigrants, spoke briefly. He stressed the importance to the new Canadians of learning our language speedily, and of acquiring as quickly as possible the Canadian way of doing things. He emphasized that everybody wished to help the people who came from Europe, but pointed out that they could do much to help themselves. The evening was much enjoyed, and it is possible that another dance will be held to conclude the winter and spring series, of entertainment which have been held for the new Canadians.

People in St. Peters are sharing in the general up-surge of employment resulting from the re-opening of the fishing and farming operations. Clark Bros. store in St. Peters is a busy spot, and Mr. Murke, manager, reports business to be very good indeed. Mr. R. L. Sanderson who operates a store on the south side of the bridge, is making extensive alterations. His store building is being raised preparatory to putting a new foundation under it, and there will be changes in the store's interior. Mr. Albert Quigley and Sons have just about wound up the potato export activities for the season.

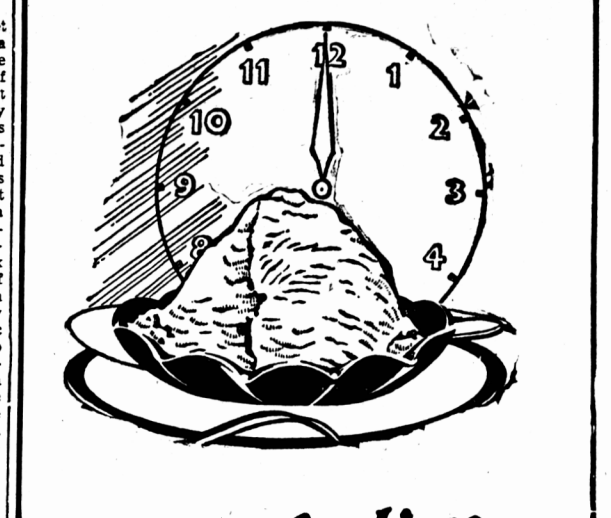

North of St. Peters at Cable Head, lobster fishermen are busy and doing well. One of the best located lobster factories on the Island is the Fortune Cannery at Fortune Harbour. This plant is owned by Lester Johnston, and he has a capable foreman, Wilfred Peters. Mr. Frank Peters is the engineer. All the buildings are spotlessly clean including the cannery, dining-room and sleeping quarters. There have been no spectacular catches at Fortune Harbour, but sufficient lobsters are being brought in by fishermen, to keep the factory going nicely.

The Department of Veterans' Affairs, on Richmond Street, is quite an asset to Charlottetown not only for the employment it gives to more than thirty people, but for the service it renders to ex-servicemen of two wars. Veterans of the first world war are remembered how inconvenient it was for them, when they were obliged to travel to Halifax for medical examination, or treatment, prior to the establishment of the Department of Veterans' Affairs at Charlottetown. Quite often men who were seriously ill, travelled to Halifax before they were admitted to hospital, and even those with minor ailments were frequently called into Halifax, to spend weeks at a time at Camp Hill Hospital, when they might have been treated at home. It is now possible, thanks to the excellent facilities at the City Hospital and at the Prince Edward Island Hospital, to treat all war veterans except a very very few unusual cases in Charlottetown. Some who require specialist care must still go to Halifax, and the odd case to Toronto.

The set-up here has another pleasing feature in the veterans seeking an increase in pension can talk their case over with an Island Doctor, who knows more of their background, and of their medical history than would be possible if treated by an outside doctor. Col. F. I. Conrad, the Administrator is well known to many veterans both of the first world war and second world wars. His chief assistant is Major Keith Johnston and he has such other well known ex-servicemen on his staff, as Col. Dan Bell, Major Lawson Jenkins, Col. A. L. Rogers, Mr. Frank Caribonell, treasury officer, Mr. James Robison and Mr. Bruce Wonnacott.
