First Sea Lord Defends Navies Against Critics

LONDON (Reuters) —J. P. L. Thomas, first lord of the admiralty, Tuesday defended navies against "distinguished critics" who predict that guided missiles and nuclear weapons will make them unnecessary.

Thomas told a dinner that Britons still live on an island and if war comes they would starve in a short time without control of the seas.

"The only tried and tested instrument for securing and maintaining this control is the navy," he said. "It is unfortunate that the critics of the navy—distinguished though they may be—should forget these simple and fundamental truths."

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, in a speech at Los Angeles last November, said that the Western powers should stop building aircraft carriers "at once."

PRESS OUT OF STEP

Thomas also defended the royal yacht Britannia from press attacks alleging extravagance and excessive cost. Thomas said the criticism was "out of step with public opinion."

"The country as a whole realizes that the soverign is not only queen of this great maritime country but also of a vast Commonwealth of nations between which the sea is still the greatest link," he said.

"They want the Queen to have this yacht and they want it to be worthy of her and her family; and they like the yacht to be used whenever it is appropriate."

Rev. Mr. McMahon Conducts Service

—On Wednesday evening prayer service at Alberton, held in St. Peter's Anglican Church, was conducted by Rev. J. R. McMahon. Rev. Murray Gardner of Alberton United Church read the scripture lessons and preached a sermon in keeping with the season of Epiphany. His theme was they followed the star, the text being taken from the words of the wise men "We have seen His star". Matthew 2:2.

In following the star the wise men sought the highest and found Christ. They sought wisdom and found God in Christ at Bethlehem. They sought power and found the power of the love of God. They sought an answer to their doubts and fears or to the riddle of the universe asd at Bethlehem they found the meaning of life. Doubts and fears flee when we realize the love and the near presence of God.

To Be Strongest Woman In World

TORONTO, (CP)—Jackie MacDonald, the blonde, easy-to-look-at school teacher-athlete who was disqualified from competing in the British Empire Games at Vancouver last summer because her picture was on an advertisement, says she is setting out to become the strongest woman in the world.

She plans to get her five-foot-10-inch frame into top condition for the 1956 Olympic Games in a rigorous schedule of muscle building that will add 20 pounds to her present 160 well-distributed pounds.

Jackie, at 22, wants to become the world's shot-put champ and to do this she must beat out the Russians. The Russian woman athletes at present are acknowledged the world's strongest.

So Jackie has embarked on a program of weight-lifting and gymnastics under coach Lloyd Percival.

Right now Jackie can toss the shot 44 feet 10 inches but Percival figures she has to be able to make close to 50 feet to beat the Russian girls.

Approximately 150 former problem drinkers in Prince Edward Island have regained their sobriety since joining Alcoholics Anonymous Clubs in Charlottetown, Summerside and other centres during the past seven or eight years. These figures were made available to The Guardian in an interview with several members of A. A. during the past few days.

The 150 A. A.'s who have regained their sobriety represent between sixty and seventy-five percent of the total number of problem drinkers who joined Alcoholics Anonymous in this Province for the purpose of overcoming their drinking problem.

Many clergymen and doctors have testified to the remarkable record of Alcoholics Anonymous in reclaiming and renewing broken lives. At the present time, regular meetings of this fine organization are held weekly in Charlottetown, Summerside, Tignish and Borden and the number of members is steadily increasing.

They limit importations of round white or redskinned varieties when in packs of 100 pounds or more to U. S. 1 or better grade, two inches minimum diameter.

Imported potatoes of the round white or red skinned varieties in packs of less than 100 pounds meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 1 size A, two inches minimum diameter.

Long white varieties, such as the russet burbank variety, must meet the requirements of U.S. No. 2, or better grade, size A, two inches minimum diameter or four ounces minimum weight.

The requlations do not apply to imports of certified seed potatoes.

Speaks On The Character That Wins Happiness

—In spite of inclement weather the Week of Prayer service in Trinity United Church, Summerside, last evening was well attended.

The special preacher for these services, the Rev. John W. MacBride of St. David's Presbyterian Church, Springhill, N. S., took as his subject "The character that wins happiness."

Rev. Mr. MacBride introduced his subject by dealing with the human and divine aspects of happy life, and went on to illustrate the steps by which we attain this happiness, by referring to the life of Jacob, the Old Testament patriarch.

"Jacob," said Rev. Mr. MacBride, "found the essentials of happiness in three distinct actions on his part. He first of all had to recognize his own weakness, failures and sins, and in so doing turned to his God in repentance. Thus pardoned and strengthened Jacob faced the duty which he had shirked for years. This man, who was a cheat, coward and liar found as a result of his personal actions the peace of mind and happiness that had evaded him for so many years.

The text of Mr. MacBride's sermon was taken from Genesis, 32 (31).

The symbolism of this text and the application of the sermon was that the soul who follows the same steps as Jacob will pass from the darkness of sin and fear to the light of love and reconciliation with God and man.

The service was conducted by the minister of Trinity Church, the Rev. C. Daniel Matheson, assisted by the Rev. Keith Hobson, minister of the Summerside Baptist Church.

This evening the service will be held in the Summerside Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Mr. MacBride will continue his series of sermons by preaching on "Strength to endure."

Production Of All-Weather Jets Delayed

OTTAWA. oCP)—Production of CF-100 all-weather jet interceptors has been slowed intentionally to fit into RCAF plans for getting them into operation, the defence declared.

A department spokesman said there is no curtailment in the over-all order for CF-100s but that the rate of production has been cut.

"We've been pretty hungry for them CF-100s up to now but we've over the hump in production," the spokesman said.

He was commenting on a Toronto report that Avro Aircraft Ltd. of Malton, Ont., producers of the CF-100, will lay off some 10 per cent of its 10,000-member staff because of the "stretch-out" program.

The Toronto report said it is understood Avro has been working on an order for more than 650 CF-100s of which about 300 have been delivered.

Extinguish Fire In Cold Weather

—A fire yesterday afternoon, which originated in the vicinity of the stove used to heat the garage of Ralph MacDonald on Noonan Street, was extinguished by Summerside firemen who battled the blaze in cold, windy weather.

The building, formerly used for the sale of Massey-Harris machinery, is owned by Hubert Agnew, who still retains offices in one end of the building. The fire, however, was confined to the section which Mr. MacDonald is using as a garage.

There were no vehicles in the garage at the time of the fire, and apart from fire damage to walls, ceiling and roof, the only other damage to the interior seemed to be from smoke and water.
