And so on Thursday of this week, the electric current was loosed in part, to make its way swiftly to a yard-post from a tall new one which stands imposingly just beyond the pond. By way of boat the wire had been fetched as was that of the telephone which has contributed so much to our way of life through a number of years.

That Body Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Until very recently all the reports on the new wonder drugs, Cortisone and ACTH, have been favorable, so that physicians with arthritic patients to try to wait until the drug was generally available. As weeks and months passed and the drugs were available only for hospital investigating physicians, most health writers have stopped writing about the benefits resulting from this new treatment.

However, when most recent reports give important and authoritative facts, it is well that we should all know about them. The public is now aware that cortisone and ACTH are obtained from the juice or secretion of one gland, the pituitary, lying on the floor of the skull, which affects the adrenal glands, lying one above each kidney, so that an extra supply of the adrenal juice becomes available in the blood stream.

In an extract from a Vienna medical journal, reprinted in the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. K. Fellinger reports the effects of treating 23 patients, suffering with arthritis, by implanting under the skin the front or anterior part of the pituitary gland, taken from animals just slaughtered and all placed in liquid air, thus preserving all the hormones (juices) present. One or two of these lobes were used and planted deeply under the skin in the abdomen or thigh, by use of a local anaesthetic. Immediate but temporary improvement consisted of less stiffness of joints, disappearance of pain, and great improvement of well-being, all occurring within two to three hours after implantation and lasting six to eight days. There was considerable improvement in condition of blood and urine. Treatment failed in four patients.

After the beneficial effects wore off, new implantations of anterior pituitary glands were first given the same amount of improvement as the first implantation.

The therapeutic effect obtained with implantation of anterior pituitary lobes was thus similar to that obtained by cortisone which, too, is effective only while the drug is being used," writes Dr. Fellinger.

In other words, anterior lobe implantation means that the lobe supplies a lack of this hormone just as insulin supplies a lack of insulin in treatment of diabetes, and will always have to be used to obtain results.

While we are still waiting for these wonder drugs ACTH and cortisone, our research workers are on the right track in the treatment of arthritis.

RHEUMATISM AND ARTERITIS

Sufferers with chronic rheumatism and arthritis will find many helpful suggestions as to diet, heat, massage and other aids in Dr. Barton's booklet entitled "Chronic Rheumatism and Arthritis."

Acheson-McQuaid Wedding

The Church of the Most Holy Redeemer was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on Thursday, October 19, when N.-S. Winnifred McQuaid, formerly of the R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, Ontario, was married to Flying Officer Ross Acheson of Edmonton, Alberta. Rev. Father Butler, ex-R.C.A.F. chaplain, performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. Charles McQuaid gave his sister in marriage, and she was attended by Miss Katherine McManus of Moncton, N.B., while Dr. J. A. McMillan was groomsmen.

Mr. Alex McLean presided at the organ and the soloists were Mr. Frank McIntyre and Dr. F. A. McMillan.

The bride wore a gown of smoke-gray lace and net, ballerina length, with a matching hat of net and pale pink ostrich feathers, and carried a nosegay of pale pink Sweetheart roses.

Miss McManus was attired in navy blue trimmed with velvet, with a matching velvet cloche hat, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

The wedding breakfast was held at the Charlottetown Hotel. Flying Officer and Mrs. Acheson later leaving by motor for Edmonton, Alberta, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a suit of rust gabardine with wintry beige accessories, a brown muskrat cape and wearing a corsage of bronze Chrysanthemums.

Out-of-town guests included Miss Margaret McQuaid, Miss Jo McQuaid and Mrs. L. Arthur MacDonald of Souris, Miss Margaret and Miss Katherine McManus of Moncton, and Rev. Kenneth McMillan of Kelly's Cross.

Cook's Corner

SWEET AND SOUR

Pork is the staple meat of China and hardly a meal is prepared without its being served in some form. Chinese chefs believe that pork is more succulent than beef or mutton, and always serve it well done.

1 lb. pork spareribs 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 tablespoon shortening 2 tablespoons brown sugar 3 tablespoons cornstarch 1/2 cup cold water 1 cup fruit juice 1 tablespoon soy sauce 1/2 cup finely cut green pepper 1/2 cup finely sliced onion

Have spareribs cut in one-inch pieces. Wipe with damp cloth. Place ribs in covered saucpan with water to cover. Cook one hour or until tender. Drain and save liquid. Brown in hot fat. Add sugar mixed with cornstarch and salt. Add vinegar, fruit juice and ribs were cooked, fruit juice and soy sauce. Mix well, add to ribs. Cook until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Add pepper and onion.

Cook 5 minutes. Serves 6 to 8.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of an uncertain, irregular and challenging set of circumstances. This may be owing to a wayward, adventurous and erratic state of mind or emotions, in which much could be lost by some fateful step, or badly controlled notions or feelings. Properly evaluated, controlled and manipulated, pleasant, agreeable and practical programs could find friendly support and encouragement. Keep erratic and erotic urges under leash.

A child born on this day may be highly temperamental and erratic, but backed by talents and feelings properly directed, could prove spectacular and constructive in a vivid life span.

For Monday, October 23

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a most propitious and promising one for gracious fulfillment of the heart's desires, hopes and wishes, in whichever direction or diversion the intentions may trend. There may be originality, novelty, high adventure, in affairs of the mind, heart and in unusual vocations as well as vocations. It could be a day of unforgettable memories.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are assured an epoch of the creative, novel, curious, dramatic and thrilling, in which there is fruition and fulfillment far beyond the expectations. All original, unusual and ambitious interests should thrive with high spots of attainment and recognition, superiors and close friends and family in gracious cooperation. Romance, and unusual contacts, environs or mental pursuits, gratify.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I prepare a good sandwich filling? A. Add to 1-cup of chopped ham enough vinegar to moisten, and 1 tablespoon of peanut butter. Add celery salt and pepper as seasoning. Mix well before spreading between slices of bread.

Q. How can I prevent chipping of dishes on the white enameled drainboard of the sink? A. Place a heavy square of linoleum on the drainboard after washing the dishes.

Q. How can I impart a pleasing aroma to the garments after washing them? A. Add a few drops of oil of lavender to the starch.

Morning Smile

Imaginary

While the young suitor was waiting to take out his young lady, the latter's little sister entered the room. "Do you know my sister's got three other boy friends," said the child.

"Really," he said in surprise, "I haven't seen any of them."

"Neither have I," returned the child, "but she gave me a quarter to tell you."

Don't Worry

"I'm afraid of my wife," the timid citizen complained to his lawyer. "Why, she's even threatened to attack me with an axe!" "Huh! Why worry? Did you ever see a woman try to chop a stick of wood?"

THE indications are that an indiscreet and untimely urge for pleasure, self-indulgence, some form of intemperance or temperamental flare-up, may provoke the lack of sanction or cooperation from elders or those in authority. Extravagance, indulgence, a romantic urge for some sort of dramatic adventure or other erratic or wayward drive, may prove disagreeable. Such feeling and emotions, duly regulated and pursued with conventional plans and rituals, could bring the desired pleasure, and with surprising denouement.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Easy Way Out

No Woman Will Admit Own Shortcomings Cost Man

When a middle-aged woman's husband forsakes her for some other woman she always attributes it to his having fallen into the clutches of a vampire, or else to her having lost her youth and beauty. Thus does she save her face, as the Chinese say, for it is apparent that no mortal woman can compete with a siren possessed of supernatural powers of fascination, nor can any woman stay the hand of time that withers the roses on her cheeks, that strews ashes on her head and that turns her once lissom girlish figure into a stringbean or a feather pillow.

Now one excuse is as good as another for losing or mislaying a husband, and if it saves the pride of an abandoned wife to believe that her misfortune is an act of God, for which she is nowise responsible, then let her have that comfort. No one would be cruel enough to take it from her, but as a matter of fact, neither of her alibis will hold water.

In the first place lady loves have no secret magic with which to conjure men that wives do not themselves possess. And in the second place men seldom marry for beauty, as is abundantly proved by the number of married women who were never Miss Americas. Moreover, when a man picks out a wife who looks good to him she continues to look good to him until she does something besides losing her youth and beauty to disillusion him.

HUSBANDS DON'T SEE CHANGE

For it is heaven's mercy to wives that their husbands seldom look at them closely enough to perceive that they have changed. They always see their wives as they were on their bridal day as long as they love them. We all know haggard wrecks of women who have been bedecked with jewels by husbands who consider them better-looking than any bathing beauty. We know fat women who make the scales shudder when they step upon them whose husbands call them "girlie" and "baby" and "little woman."

Inasmuch as men indisputably marry for love, for it is self-evident that no man would assume a woman's board bill and shopping ticket for life without feeling that he couldn't live without her, why, then, do men so often fall out of love with the woman they have selected from all the world for a wife? I believe that there are three major things that set husbands roaming.
