Quebec, Sept. 24.—Joe Kemp, aged 72, was released from the debris this morning, after four and a half days' confinment and torture. The total length of imprisonment was 108 hours. He is doing well.

The corpse of Mrs. Dowd, aged 72, was also recovered during the morning. She was knitting when the avalanche came, and her knitting was found in her hands.

This afternoon the remains of John Henry were found under the ruins. The body was doubled in two. Splinters of all sizes were found in his body. The shoulders were broken in and the lower part of the back torn open, and the kidneys were hanging out. His wife's body was also found. They were but a few feet apart. She had in her hands pieces of broken plates and a fork. She died preparing her husband's supper. Some 10 to 12 bodies still remain under the ruins. The work of clearing out the debris is still being pushed on with vigor.

PROWSE BROS., THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MEN.

We would like to make close figures, but we can't do it. There is no more room for reduction. To cut down the selling price a little more would be to cut into the cost price, and that would be digging the ground from under our own feet. Already we are too close for comfort to the cost mark, and must sell lots of goods at those prices to make it pay, but the more we sell the cheaper we can sell; so if you want the price cutters to rule, patronize the price cutters. They work in your interest; they save you money. If you don't want the best goods for the lowest money then stay away from
