PROTECTION

But the great majority of unhappy marriages are not the result of great tragedies, nor have either the husband or wife wrecked the marriage with criminal intent. They are just the outcome of the stupidity and folly of a man who, after finding to their surprise that marriage wasn't the Elysium they had supposed it to be, cried out that marriage was a failure and made no effort to save it.

WON'T WORK AT IT

The dullest man and woman alive know that the most important thing in the world to them is marital happiness, yet they give less thought and energy to preserving this than they do to running a green grocery or making a cake. It is a man's business slumps, he begins an intensive study and calls in the experts to find out what's wrong with his methods, but he never even asks himself why his wife has ceased dressing up for him or taking any trouble with the dinner. If a woman is not invited to join a club or is left out of a bridge party, she redoubles her efforts to make herself agreeable to other women, but it doesn't occur to her that the reason her husband has taken to stepping out at night is because he is tired of hearing her complain.

Every husband and wife know just exactly what faults they have that get on their mate's nerves. Heaven knows, they are told about them often enough. So, having a working diagram of just what to do and what not to do to keep husband or wife eating out of his or her hand, how passing strange that they do not take the trouble to do it when the rewards are so great.

The remedy for an unhappy marriage is very simple. It is giving the party of the other part what he or she wants, and refraining from trying to ram obnoxious doses down his or her throat. If a woman knows that her husband loves good food, it is giving him dinners that bring him home. If she knows that he has the head-of-the-house complex, it is burning incense before him. If he is of a gay and pleasure-loving nature, it is stepping out with him. If a man knows that his wife craves perpetual love-making, it is handing her soft talk. If he knows that she is bound to have everything she does noticed, it is telling her how wonderful she is. If he knows that she likes to go about, it is taking her out at least once a week.

Oh, there is a cure for an unhappy marriage if we weren't too lazy and dull to use it.
