

Atlantics In First Place After 7-4 Win Over Islanders At Forum

The willing but injury-riddled Charlottetown Islanders dropped a 7-4 verdict to the Halifax Atlantics before a crowd of about 1500 fans at the Forum last night as the Atlantics moved into sole possession of first place in the Maritime Major Hockey League standings.

Although outscored the Islanders played on even terms with the Atlantics for the first two periods and widely outplayed the visitors in the last frame but found a stonewall in the person of Roy MacMeekin, the blacky thatched custodian in the Halifax nets.

The Islanders, playing without the services of Gus Gustavson, Larry Blackburn and Orin Carver, outshot the visitors 33-28. The visitors, however, showed a superior sharpness around the net, partially due to the fact that the Islanders' defense proved a little slow for the first half of the game.

Pete Wywrot, the veteran forward who started with the Glace Bay Miners two years ago and with Sherbrooke in the Quebec League last season, paced the Halifax assault by shooting two goals and two assists.

The smooth play-making pivot-man helped set up the first goal of the game less than three minutes after play got underway and before the contest had finished he whipped in two goals and garnered another assist.

Ross Watson, the rookie left winger, also scored two goals for the winners while Bob Bowness, Johnny Morrow and Doug MacPhee netted the other Halifax goals.

Roy "Buck" Whitlock, the Maritime Major scoring king last year set the pace for the Islanders by firing two goals and assisting on a third. Wingers Bob Gray and Elwood Ritchie were the other Charlottetown marksmen.

Left winger Billy Ford, the leading point-getter in the Maritime circuit, harvested three more assists and turned in a strong game on the portside as he increased his point total over the rest of the pack.

The Atlantics shot out of the starting gate at a fast pace and Ross Watson put them into a 1-0 lead at the 2:21 mark of the opening period by clinking a play with Wywrot and Billy Ford.

Bob Bowness made it 2-0 a little over two minutes later as he scored while Ritchie of the Islanders set out a high sticking penalty. The Islanders got this one back five minutes later with Whitlock finishing off a Trainer and Sandison combination.

Watson, again assisted by Ford and Wywrot made the count 3-1 for Halifax at the 11:25 mark but less than two minutes later Ritchie took a pass from Towers to beat Roy MacMeekin for the Islanders second goal. Minutes later Dowling had a golden opportunity to score but was outguessed by MacMeekin.

Pete Wywrot wound up the scoring for the period as he broke out with Ford and Watson and only one Island defenseman to beat. The second period was only 30 seconds old when Wywrot connected for his second goal of the game. He took Ford's rebound and shot a high one over the prostrate form of Roger Bessette who had just blocked the previous drive.

Johnny Morrow converted a pass from Bowness at the 15:13 minute mark and Whitlock scored for the Islanders on a play with MacLaughlin and Sandison twenty seconds before the period ended.

The Islanders enjoyed a wide edge in the third period as the Atlantics sat out four penalties. However, the local club couldn't find the range although they pressed in the Halifax end and when they did get the puck on the net MacMeekin was in the way.

Bob Gray finally got one past the Halifax goalie when he combined with Whitlock and Trainer while defenseman Carroll Bloom of the Atlantics sat out a penalty. Doug MacPhee got this one back just before the final whistle.

Don MacLaughlin played a strong defensive game for the Islanders and was probably the standout player on the Charlottetown club as he barged into his old team-mates with a gusto.

Bingo Ernest of the visitors showed some solid body checking as he dished out crushing blows to Whitlock and Trainer.

Orin Carver, injured his knee Saturday night when checked by Carroll Bloom in Halifax and may be out for several games. There is little improvement in Gustavson's skin ailment and he may be sidelined for another week. Roland Pilon is slated to join the Moncton team in the New Brunswick Senior League.

Savoie Confident As He Awaits Title Fight

MONTREAL, (CP) — Armand Savoie, who gets a crack at Jimmy Carter's world lightweight boxing title Nov. 11, said Monday, "I think he's made to order for me."

Sitting in the locker-room of the Palestra Nationale, the black-haired little Montrealese said it with calm confidence and not a trace of cockiness.

"I'm in better shape than I have ever been. I'm about seven years younger than Carter. If Carter wins it won't be the easy way. As long as I can stand up I won't quit."

"I saw him win the title from George Araujo in New York. I beat Carter here in a non-title fight. I'm sure I know his style and he doesn't change. It's hard to explain but he has a funny little step when he's coming in. He didn't hurt me at all when I fought him last spring and I know I'm in far better condition now."

"I don't mean to disparage Carter or his ability. After all, he's the champion and you've got to respect him. But I've fought plenty of fights where I've had more trouble with my opponent's style."

Cliff Sowery took the youngster in low and is still his manager. Armand fought as an amateur and in 1948 was a member of Canada's Olympic boxing team. Savoie turned pro in 1948. In his more recent fights he scored an eight-round knockout over Fabella Chavez of New Orleans. He lost a decision to Eddie Chavez at San Francisco, won a decision over Ralph Dupas at New Orleans and knockout over Eddie Campo in the fourth round at Parkway Arena, N.J.

Savoie has just returned from his training camp up in the Laurentian mountains. There he did road work, climbed mountains, chopped and sawed trees and boxed 18 or 20 rounds a day.

At the camp Savoie let his whiskers grow to toughen his face. He has them off now, but hasn't shaved closely. He looked trim, tough and ready.

Savoie is 23 years old, is five feet, eight inches tall and right now weighs 136.

Savoie was born in Montreal's Griffintown section and still lives there except when he is at his summer home in suburban Greenfield Park. He is married and has a son, Frank, who will be two years old Nov. 14.

Armand—youngest of nine children—began boxing at the Griffintown club when he was only nine years old and weighed 70 pounds.

Obeck May Quit Coaching Duties

MONTREAL, (CP) — Vic Obeck, director of athletics at McGill University, said Monday night he is considering resigning his post as coach of the university's senior intercollegiate football entry.

He said he doesn't like the "under the table deals" which are going on in "some colleges," and made it clear that if he does decide to resign he will make a public announcement.

In a telephone interview, the McGill coach said if he does decide to quit the coaching job it will not affect his position as director of athletics.

Obeck came here from the United States several years ago as coach of the Redmen, and later was appointed director of all the university's athletics.

Farm herd of Reid Pulpwood Co. at Richibucto, N.B. They took all but one of the championship ribbons and a dozen red ribbons, six seconds, seven thirds and a number of other placings.

Lorne Wells of Aulac, a winner of most of the top placings in other years, was among the also rans this year. S. C. Oland, a strong showman in Ayrshire's past few years had added Angus cattle to his farm operations and had a number of the black beef cattle here this year. He had a reserve championship and a number of other ribbons.

Some very heavy classes were judged by Fox Show judge Douglas Bell of Carleton at the Maritime Winter Fair today and Saturday. The number of foxes on exhibition was surprisingly large and nearly every cage was filled. Some three hundred animals were on exhibition in the twenty four classes. This compares with forty eight classes that were provided in other years.

George A. Callbeck was the heaviest winner of first placings in the Standard Silvers. He had five of six red ribbons and took the ribbons for the champion male, the reserve champion female and had the grand champion fox of the show.

Ernest T. Mill of Kensington, R.R., had the reserve champion male and some other really good placings. A Messenger of Bridgetown, N.S., had three first places, the champion female and reserve grand champion.

H. B. Gates of Middleton, N.S., had four first placings. Thomas Neilson of Agincourt, Ontario had a couple of red ribbons. In the Standard Platitudes the honors were pretty well divided between George A. Callbeck and Ernest T. Mill. Callbeck had several firsts and the champion male. Mills had several red ribbons and the reserve champion male. The Pearl Platitudes show was still to be completed. Bill Church, Gunningsville, N.B., Mr. Callbeck and Robert Jodrey of Northport, N.S. were among the leading first place winners in the first few sections.

R. E. White and Son of Hunter River, R.R., won the reserve grand championship for cats with their sample of registered Abegweit at the Maritime Winter Fair. Cecil LeLacheur of Georgetown, R.R., had the reserve championship ribbon for commercial cats.

Charles Hurry of Winsloe, P.E.I. had the grand championship man-animal at the show. W. A. Mose of Kensington placed second in the mangal class.

Alton A. Rodd of North Milton, who won prizes in every root class in which he entered and topped one or two of them, added a third place in long red mangels which were placed here today.

Several Islanders had strong runner positions in the export bacon show. Second place ribbons went to Charlotte Matheson of Bonshaw and Miller Orr of New Glasgow. Third place ribbons were taken by Wilfred Whitlock, Hunter River, Lloyd Houston, Mayfield, Guy Thompson, Frenchfort and William Graham, Bay View.

Mantle Awaits Knee Operation

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Mickey Mantle awaited the operation on his knee Monday with hopes that he could be out of the hospital by Friday.

The New York Yankee center-fielder wants to get out by Friday so he can see his brothers, twins Ray and Roy, play football for the Commerce, Okla., high school.

But Dr. Dan Yancey who will perform the surgery, thinks Mantle will be in hospital for a week or 10 days. Recuperation would take about three months.

Mantle, who reinjured the right knee in which he pulled a cartilage in the 1951 world series, finished the 1953 season wearing a brace on the leg.

Russian Spy Goes On Trial In Switzerland

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH LUZERN, Switzerland, (AP) — Rudolf Roessler, one of Russia's master spies of the Second World War, goes on trial here today charged with organizing a far-flung espionage system against the West on behalf of the Czechoslovak secret service.

Roessler, under the cover name "Lucy," provided the Soviet Union during the war with invaluable military information, including two weeks' notice of the German invasion. Although a German citizen he never operated in Germany but received his information in Luzern, where he ran the Vita Nova Nova publishing house. His top-ranking sources in the German high command were never discovered.

Roessler, 56, and his contact man, Dr. Xavier Schnieper, 43, a Swiss journalist, will face a Swiss federal court, accused of reviving their wartime espionage system and sending an estimated 160 reports on British, American, French and Danish defence measures in Europe to Czechoslovakia.

Calling Fisheries Meeting At Moncton

Representatives of the Federal Department of Fisheries from Ottawa will meet with Maritime Federal officials, representatives of fish packers and fishermen in Moncton on December fourth to explore fully the status of the fish production industry. Official notice of the meeting was received yesterday by Mr. Walthen Gaudet, Secretary of the P. E. Island Fisheries Federation.

The decision to call such a meeting was reached by Federal authorities following a resolution passed at the eighth annual meeting of the P. E. Island Fisheries Federation held in Charlottetown on September 8.

The resolution requesting the meeting followed a thorough discussion on various phases of enforcement in which the prevalence of "bootlegged" lobsters was stressed. The proposed meeting was described as "Designed to protect and conserve the valuable lobster industry to the Maritime Provinces."

The resolution urged the Fisheries Council of Canada, following consultation with the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Fisheries Association, to approach the Federal Department of Fisheries with a view to convening an early meeting of Federal and Maritime provincial officials together with representatives of the fish packers and fishermen for the purpose of reviewing this problem.

Second Straight Year

It was the second straight year that the S-B herd dominated the show at the Maritime Winter Fair. They are selected from the stables of Fulton Sanderson and Son of York Point and Robert A. Borden's Skye Farm herd of North River.

Shorthorns

The Shorthorn shows was pretty well dominated by the herds of Cyrus Eaton's Deep Cove and George A. Chase from the Annapolis Valley. The herd of C. F. Carter of Aulac, N.B., got in a few placings and took the reserve junior male and reserve senior male ribbons.

The Eaton Entries took the junior and grand male championships with Deep Cove Scottish Monarch, went senior champion and reserve grand. He is now owned by Claude Falkenham of Burlington, N.S.

Fort Cumberland Acheson, a two year old bull went reserve senior champion for Cedric Carter of Aulac. His Cumberland White Lad was reserve junior male champion.

The Chase herd produced the senior and grand champion female in Canard Rosewood. They had the reserve junior female champion in Canard Clipper 16th. The Eaton herd took the reserve senior and reserve grand female ribbons with Deep Cove Beauty and the punier female championship with Deep Cove Beauty 2nd.

Foil Angus Show

Mr. Stewart also had several seconds and thirds in very heavy competition. The Angus show was dominated this year by the Inverurie

Allan Stanley To Sit Out Rangers Games At Home

NEW YORK, (CP) — Allan Stanley, who has been ridden mercilessly by New York hockey fans during the last few seasons, will sit out future Ranger games in Madison Square Garden.

Coach Frank Boucher, announcing that in future Stanley will be used only on the road, said Monday he reached the decision Sunday night after the 27-year-old defenseman — captain was roundly booed before New York's National Hockey League game with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Stanley appeared for only half a minute in the first period and was met with such derision that Boucher decided to bench him for the remainder of the game, which ended in a 2-2 tie.

"They've been booing him for almost a year now, but last night (Sunday) in the warm-up before the game they really let him have it," Boucher said. "It's tough to take when your own fans get on you, not only for Stanley, but for any player. There's no sense hurting the fellow."

Dick Irvin Montreal Canadiens' coach did with Bud McPherson. The Montreal crowd kept booing McPherson, so Irvin kept him out of the Forum for a full year, playing him on

Might Be Traded

Ranger officials did not deny, however, that Stanley might be traded if a good enough deal can be made.

The attitude of many New York fans toward Stanley solidified last season when he had a rather poor year. The booing got him down and his play suffered further from his own mental depression.

This season his play picked up but the fans weren't ready to forget and made it as tough as ever.

A native of Timmins, Ont., Stanley came to the Rangers in the 1948-49 season from Providence of the American Hockey League in what was then described as the biggest deal in NHL history. The Rangers were reported to have given three players and cash to the Montreal Canadiens for the promising young rearguard.

Boucher still says he thinks Stanley is good enough for the NHL although the hometown attitude seriously reduces his effectiveness. He has four other defencemen — Hy Buller, Murray Howell, Leo Reise and rookie Bob Chrystal — and will get along with them for the present in home games.

Previously Convicted

Under Swiss law, espionage for a foreign state is a criminal offence even when it is not directed against Switzerland itself. Roessler was convicted by a Swiss federal court in October, 1945, for his wartime espionage for Russia but was declared "not punishable" by the court. This was because he had made his information available to the Swiss secret service throughout the war. He also has served as a Swiss secret agent during the war.

Ford Leads In Scoring Race; Trainor Tied For Fourth With Gray, Fyles

Forward Billy Ford, a long time sharp-shooter in Maritime hockey, took over the leadership in the M. M. H. L. point scoring race during the past week according to figures compiled yesterday by the Guardian Sports Department.

Ford leads the league race both in goal production and points. He has 12 goals along with five assists for a total of 17, one more than his team-mate Doug MacPhee. The latter has seven goals and nine assists.

Bob Bowness and Pete Wywrot with 14 and 12 points respectively round out the top four point getters. The Islanders playing coach Wes "Bucko" Trainor, Tommy Fyles of Glace Bay and Roger Guay of Sydney share fifth position with 11 points.

Following are the unofficial figures for all players
