

CHRISTMAS and NEW YEAR'S GREETINGS FROM KING'S COUNTY

Decorating Ideas for a Gay Christmas

Double-Deck Star Cookies — A star is the most appropriate symbol for Christmas, and these pretty star cookies are unusual. Make dough for rolled cookies. Divide in half, and to the one half add melted chocolate or cocoa. Chill. Have greased cookie sheets ready. Roll out the white part. Cut out with a star or round cutter and transfer to the cookie sheets. Then roll out chocolate dough, using a smaller star cutter than you used for the white part. Place evenly on top of the white cookies and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees F., 5 to 7 minutes. The thinner you roll the dough the crispier and more delicate the cookies are. Have the dough well chilled to make it easier to handle. The cookies may be sprinkled with sugar before baking.

Doughnut Wreaths: Frosted doughnuts rolled in green-tinted coconut and decorated with bits of red cherry. Nice served with cranberry sherbet. Holly Wreath Cookies: Cut white rolled cookies with round cutter. Cut again with a smaller cutter and remove the centre, leaving a cookie ring. Decorate with red and green cherries to represent a holly wreath. Holly Wreath Salad: Put well-set green lime gelatine through the potato ricer. Arrange a large ring on a salad plate. Dot here and there with whole red cherries and arrange a salad of mixed fruit in the centre.

Homemade Gifts for Christmas: A gift of money — Remove the clapper from a white paper mache Christmas bell. Cut white or red baby ribbon in even lengths (any number you wish). Draw ends up through the top of the bell and tie in a pretty bow. On each of the ribbon "clappers" glue new dimes back to back. When the glue is dry, place each bell in a nest of tissue paper in a suitable box. If you wish to give a dollar bill, halve walnuts, remove centre and tuck in the bill, lay a piece of colored ribbon across the centre, then glue shells back together. Paint the shells and slip a tiny name card on the ribbon. Tie to the Christmas tree.

Decorations: A jolly snowman to greet you at the door. Crepe paper (white) ball face with twinkling eyes, a red nose, jolly smiling mouth, complete with appropriate hat and a large red ribbon bow neckpiece. Fasten an evergreen bow to your front door, and in the centre place the snowman, for an effective decoration. Fasten tiny bells to narrow satin ribbon, and put a row of them around the base of a lamp shade by pinning the ribbon to the lamp shade. Or, fasten with tape around the rim of a salad or nut bowl. The tinkle of the tiny bells will be in keeping with the season.

Christmas Glitter For Your Holiday Wardrobe

Not for many years has there been a season when the statement that it is the accessories that "make" the costume is so unequivocally true. Fur, velvet, gold, rhinestones, elegant gloves . . . these are the sparks that give life to the beautifully elegant clothes of the winter season. They are the things for your "important" Christmas gift . . . to give or to get.

Furs, for instance, we Canadian women delight in for they are practical as well as luxurious in our climate and nowhere has nature made fur more beautiful than in this northern land. This year, furs are far more than just a fur coat. There is the short fur jacket in everything from silver-blue mutation mink at fabulous cost, to trim grey kidskin within the budget of the college girl or secretary. The fur cardigan is fashion news.

Muffs are back — and who wouldn't love a muff in her Christmas box? They are either very tiny, or simply enormous, huge pillows of leopard; tiny, prim rounds of black sealskin; we leave the possibilities to your imagination and that of your furrer. It is an idea for using up long-treasured pieces of valuable old fur too.

Stoles, capes, little tippets to wear over your cloth coat or about your bare shoulders with a strapless gown in theatre or restaurant are all high fashion, but the kind that is designed to remain smart season after season.

Fur is not the only material from which these enchanting little evening capes and tippets are fashioned. Hattie Carnegie has made them of velvet or net and made them sparkle with rhinestones. Rhinestones are her favourite hat trimming this winter. Most of the dress hats are velvet and there is a certain affinity between dark velvet and the glitter of gold or diamonds. What could be more ideal as a Christmas gift than a rhinestone pin or pair of clips?

Chandelier earrings — the kind worn in the fox-trotting twenties — are back again and, indeed, all kinds of glitter jewellery is having a fling. The short haircut is definitely in and with it the tiny, close-fitting helmets of felt or fur and fluttering little velvet caps, all of them jewel-trimmed. Veils over the face are fashionable and becoming.

Along with short hair, the day-length formal gown is firmly established in winter popularity. Very décolleté, and often equipped with a smartly fitted, cover-up jacket that permits them to lead a late-daylight into dark life, these gowns have an elegance of their own that is enhanced by their accessories. Eight out of ten of them are made of velvet and violet is the very newest colour. Taupe is retaining the lead it established in early fall as the season's new basic.

So much elegance made the popularity of white gloves and long gloves—16-button length — a foregone conclusion. Many of the new dresses and even coats have three-quarter or bracelet length sleeves. With these long gloves, wrinkled at the wrist are a practical necessity. They also are shown over the full length, tightly fitted sleeve. Many of the strapless evening gowns from whose bodice and jutting necklines shoulders and arms emerge very naked indeed, have special gloves made of the same material as the gown or some deliberate contrast, reaching to the shoulders and ending in a flared cuff. Gloves are satisfying Christmas gifts.

HERALD ANGELS . . . Rehearsing for the annual Christmas candlelight service, the children choristers of the Crawford Methodist Memorial church in the Bronx, New York, make an impressive picture when viewed through a Christmas wreath in the foreground.
