THE OLDEST residents in the area were honored at Wellington's Centennial celebrations yesterday. Here Mrs. Madeline Gallant (right), 100 years old on September 8th of this year, is seen being presented with a bouquet of flowers by a young member of the community, Joan Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Ward. The ceremonies were opened early yesterday afternoon by Hon. Henry Wedge, minister of welfare and labor and were climaxed by a dance in the village hall last night.

$20,000 ARDA Grant Revealed At Celebrations

WELLINGTON — Addressing residents of Wellington at the official opening of the Village's centennial celebrations yesterday afternoon, Hon. Henry Wedge, provincial minister of welfare and labor, revealed that $20,000 has been approved by ARDA for the construction of a new Barlow dam in the area. Later he said that the provincial government had received word of the approval only this week and this was the first public announcement of the approval.

Prior to the official opening the oldest residents, of which three were in attendance, were honored. The featured guest was Mrs. Madeline Gallant, who is less than two months away from her 100th birthday. Mrs. Gallant will reach the 100 mark on September 8.

An address in honor of Mrs. Gallant along with her two elderly companions, John Peter Arsenault, 90, and Mrs. Mary Gallant, 91, was read by Mrs. Theodore L. Arsenault and gifts were presented to all three of the featured guests.

Mrs. Madeline Gallant was also presented a bouquet of roses by young Jean Ward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendie Ward. Later the three elderly people were taken for a car ride around the village. This part of yesterday's program was under the organization of Mrs. (Dr.) Reid.

POPULATION INCREASE

Most of the village's 295 residents were in attendance for the celebrations and Mr. Wedge mentioned in his address that according to a survey completed for the provincial government by an independent firm recently, the population of the village, incorporated in 1857, should reach 500 within the next 10 years.

The provincial minister also told the residents that the government is contemplating putting in catch basins for surface drainage in the village and widening the streets.

The village, named after the Duke of Wellington, originated with the establishment of a post office in 1874 and was originally known as Quagmire village. Even now the bridge at Wellington Centre is still known as Quagmire bridge.

Following the opening ceremonies sports events for the children along with music entertainment in the form of fiddling, step-dancing, and singing, was held.

SPORT EVENTS

Winners in the sports events were as follows:

Bicycle race (class 1) 1. Earl Perry, 2. Leo Arsenault. 3. Paul Arsenault. Bicycle race (class 2) 1. Gary Gallant, 2. Nazaire Arsenault, 3. Ronald Arsenault.

Plum race 1. Lyman Arsenault. 2. Roland Arsenault. 3. Leah Enman.

Three-legged race (girls) 1. Lynn Gallant, Anne Richard, 2. Monique Arsenault, Camilla Arsenault.

Potato sack race 1. Alan Arsenault, 2. Gerard Arsenault, 3. Nazaire Arsenault.

Wheelbarrow race 1. Martin Gallant, Leonce Arsenault. 2. Roger Collette, Melvin Gallant.

A jag-team wrestling match between four youths of the area drew loud applause from the crowd. The contestants were: Jean Guy Arsenault, John Paul Arsenault, Gary Gallant, Eldon Arsenault.

The referees were Gabriel Arsenault and Leo Arsenault. Judge was Charlie Bourgeois.

Stepdancing to the music of Eddie Arsenault on the fiddle and Armand Arsenault on the guitar were Helene Arsenault, Marcella Gallant and a trio, Norma, Anne Marie and Dorothy Arsenault.

HIT SONGS

The Arsenault sisters also sang a number of songs, including the French hit song "Dominique". Another singer was Cyrus J. Gallant.

There were also booths set up in the entertainment area where games were played, pastries and other things sold.

Following the musical entertainment suppers were served at the village hall and at 7.30 the RCAF Band gave a concert which lasted over an hour. Prior to the concert, Town Crier Joe Clark read his proclamation.

The day's celebrations were climaxed by a dance at the village hall last night.

Court Session Held In Souris

SOURIS — Magistrate James B. Johnston, QC, adjourned the case of William Sutherland Carter to Georgetown on July 28, yesterday, in Souris magistrate's court. Carter had previously entered a not guilty plea to the charge of assulting a fisheries officer.

With a previous plea of not guilty, Merlin Joseph Chapman had his possession of small lobsters case adjourned to Georgetown on July 28.

Two charges were laid against Eastern Packing Co., Ltd., of Souris on possession of small lobsters. The company pleaded not guilty to both charges, one involving 43 lobsters and the other 79. The case was adjourned to Georgetown on July 28.

John Francis Weir of Souris was fined $100 and costs or 10 days when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Kenneth Jerome Rose, Lakeville, pleaded not guilty on another impaired driving case, which was adjourned to July 29.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Hilda Pauline Longphee, Little Harbour, was given a two-year suspended sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of break, entry, and theft. She was ordered to post a $500 recognizance and to appear in court with the bond on July 28.

Roy Metcalfe of Annandale had his case adjourned to July 29 for sentence when he pleaded guilty to causing willful damage in excess of $50. The charge involved a broken windshield, valued at $100

The impaired driving case of Raymond Martin Griffith, Montague, was adjourned without plea to July 29.

Michael Francis MacDonald, Little Harbor, appeared on two charges of intoxication in a public place. No plea was taken, and the case was adjourned to July 29.

Antenna Freeze Lifted, New TV Rules Drafted

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP) — Lifting of the 6½-month federal freeze on the licensing of Community Antenna TV Systems was announced in the Commons Wednesday by Transport Minister Pickersgill.

At the same time, the government gave notice of plans to tighten CATV regulations to ensure future systems are controlled by Canadians and operated without economic hardship to Canadian TV stations present and future.

The new regulations will come into effect Aug. 1.

Under them, no CATV licences will be issued to companies in which Canadian ownership is less than 75 per cent. They must also have a Canadian chairman and two - thirds of the directors must be Canadians.

Applicants must satisfy the transport minister the operation is unlikely to result in a Canadian TV station becoming uneconomic or "to inhibit the establishment of alternate television broadcasting facilities in Canada serving that area."

Mr. Pickersgill made clear this second regulation will be aimed at CATV systems proposing to carry American programs, thus draining off the audience of a Canadian TV station.

"The government has two main concerns," he told the House. "One is to see that CATV installations designed to receive broadcasts emanating from outside the area reached by any local Canadian television station, and particularly from outside Canada, are unlikely to make the operation of any exising television station uneconomic or to inhibit the provision of alternate Canadian television service in the area concerned."

He said the new regulations on ownership, amending one made Feb. 21, will apply to new installations or proposed changes to present installations. But applications already before the department would not be affected.

BYELECTION

said. "I have a copy of a letter here written by a member of the government to a person who wanted an appointment. The cabinet minister wrote to the person requesting an audience that it was useless to try to catch that minister in his office as his time is taken up with committments outside."

Mr. Matheson said "there's no one in that office — that shows what's going on in government these days."

Kings County MP John Mullally outlinine the advantages of some of the federal government's legislation. He explained how new provisions for interest-free loans for students will work and said that loans will probably be available by September. He outlined the legislation which extended family allowance payments to ages 16 and 17 and said that the government will, in future, provide a system of scholarships, as it is committed to do so.

NO EARLY ELECTION

Mr. Mullally said he saw little chance of an early federal election. He said the people of Canada generally do not want an election but would rather see Parliament get "down to business." He added that neither of the major parties in the House of Commons feels that an election would be advantageous now and it was his opinion that the smaller parties are losing the favor with the public.

It was the opinion of several people that the provincial government is in difficulty and there is a possibility that an early election may be "called in the province."

GOVT IN TROUBLE

George MacKay, a member of the Legislature, said "there is no doubt the government is in trouble. It is certainly in financial troubles and since we may be faced with an election before long it is time we began to prepare ourselves. If we all do our part, I am sure we will win when the next election day rolls around."

Kenneth Jenkins, president of the P.E.I. Young Liberals, said he thought the government "is in great difficulties at present and we must all get together as one if we are to be successful in the next election."

One delegate asked "has the time arrived for candidates to be put in the field for the next election?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Matheson, "get them in right away."

Meeting chairman was association president W. R. Jenkins.

STRAIT

Atlantic City, New Jersey and that organization felt sure that Herman Willemse, the winner of the 26-mile marathon Tuesday would make the trip, and possibly several other top stars including second-place finisher Abdel Latif Abou-Heif.

John Lacoursiere, last year's winner, has also promised to come. The spirits of the swim committee were much higher last night as they looked forward to the probability of a Strait swim on August 1 as planned.

HALIFAX (CP) — The weather office says frequent thunderstorm activity was reported Wednesday evening over New England, Mainland Nova Scotia and Southern New Brunswick. In Prince Edward Island, Cape Breton and Northern New Brunswick skies were cloudy and a few showers were reported. The center of a disturbance, now located in Northern Maine, is moving slowly eastwards. It is expected to pass through Nova Scotia this morning. Until the center of this disturbance passes, frequent shower activity and scattered thunderstorms will remain in the southern part of the district. Dry air, now covering Quebec province, will slowly feed into the Maritimes from the Northwest in the wake of this disturbance. This will clear skies in New Brunswick today, but this clearing trend is not expected to reach Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island until after midnight tonight.

Northern Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Cloudy with scattered showers and not much change in temperature. Chance of a few thundershowers beginning near dawn and ending this afternoon. Winds light. Low high at New Glasgow 60 and 75, Charlottetown 56 and 73. Outlook for Friday Coopiks, statistics and the "dynamics of co-operative action" were among the topics dealt with in a report to the 55th annual Canadian Co-operative Congress released yesterday.

The Ookpik is a "whimsical, toy Arctic owl" which has gained popularity among children of all ages in many parts of the world and which has so far netted for the Eskimo Fort Chimo, Quebec, cooperative $10,000 in royalities. Mrs. Jeannie Snowball, a member of the Eskimo co-op, created the fuzzy little owl, over which "amazing interest" has been shown.

Use of the Ookpik as a trade symbol (it was introduced at a Philadelphia trade fair last year) and protective measures taken on behalf of the federal government for the Fort Chimo producers were touched on in the report. Among other things, the government has registered both the Ookpik name and the design.

Statistics as protection against "investororiented profit business" competition was called to the attention of the congress. The report says that if the need for statistics had been taken more seriously a decade or two ago the co-operative movement would not have much difficulty interpreting its position to the public today.

In full, the report contends "investor-oriented profit business will continue to regard co-operatives as competition and most likely will maintain pressure for crippling legislation." Now is the time for "laying the foundations for authentic and factual statistical comparisons" between co-oners and other business, feels the Co-operative Union of Canada's board of directors.

Canadians act as though they are unimpressed by the "dynamics of co-operative action," the board decided.

In their report they said the time has come for a study of the various educational bodies and services in the co-operative movement, for, from such a study "a plan might emerge for bringing the co-operative way to the attention of Canadians in a more dramatic manner than ever before."

ANNOUNCE MEETINGS

The board feels that a compelling sense of common purpose and a program worthy of that purpose would activate the power to get things done potentially among the hundreds of thousands of co-operative members.

Announcements of international co-operative meetings to be held in Canada in the next three years also came to light in the report.

The annual Institute on Co-operative League of the U.S.A. will take place next year at the Western Co-operative College in Saskatoon. It has been held only twice in Canada before. Saskatoon hosted the affair in 1955, as did Winnipeg in 1960.

Canada may also be the meeting place of the central committee of the 50-member country International Co-operative Alliance, world body of the co-op movement, during Canadian birthday year, 1967.

GIVES WARNING

Earlier yesterday James MacDonald, executive secretary of the committee on labor-co-op relations, warned that Canadian consumers need to be rescued from a vast ocean of misunderstanding and exploitation, calling on an identification in the public mid of the co-operative as the effective instrument of consumer protection.

Unfortunately," he went on, "this vital image is being lost by co-ops in Canada to consumer organizations that are not basically interested in socialesform." He claimed that this was happening while government legislation and appointments were being made to help protect the consumer.

Mr. MacDonald suggested urban consumers' co-ops be promoted and established

The congress winds up today.
