

Eagles Capture Island 'B' Ch'ship

GEORGETOWN — The Georgetown Eagles took both games of a double-header from Tignish on Sunday at Georgetown by scores of 9-3 and 14 to 5 to win the Island Intermediate "B" championship and earned the right to advance into Maritime playoffs.

The Eagles had earlier split a doubleheader in Tignish Sunday's games, were both crowd-pleasers, with plenty of nice good pitching and some superb ball handling. In the opener, Buddy McCullough, this season's top hurler in the Kings County League, went the route for the winners, allowing three runs; eight hits, walked one and struck out eight.

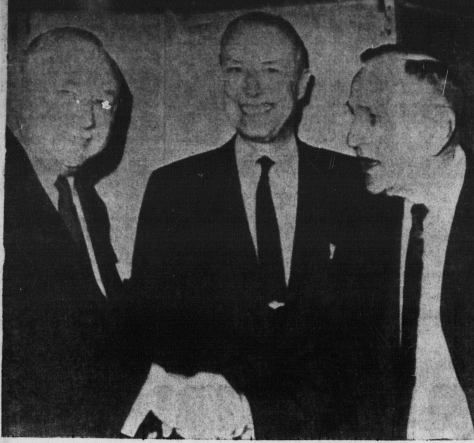

Michael MacIntos went the route for Tignish and he allowed nine runs; walked two; gave up 13 hits; and struck out three. At bat McCullough was two for four; and John Walsh, Eagles catcher, gave a three for five performance. For Tignish, both DesRochers and Chevier had two for four; with Richard getting a triple.

MacPhee stars
In the second game Allie MacPhee went the full nine innings on the mound for the Eagles and in the fourth inning, with Tignish leading one to nothing, MacPhee poled out a long home run, with one man on base. He allowed five runs; four hits, walked seven and struck out eight. Tignish used four pitchers in an attempt to head off the Eagles batters, but to no avail. Seeing mound duty for the losers were: Gavin Hackett, Martin and Richard, their combined efforts gave up fourteen runs, thirteen hits, three walks and they struck out four.

In this game the big man at bat for the Eagles was Allie MacPhee, with four for five, including his two run homer. Kenny Batchelder and Joe Martell of the Eagles each had two for four and John Walsh blasted a triple.

For Tignish McCarthy poled out a long triple but no Tignish batter had more than one hit.

The umpire was Floyd Jay. Base Judge at 1st was Richard and at 2nd, Ernie Trainor. At time of writing, Georgetown had not learned whether they would go against a Nova Scotian or Nova Brunswick team in the next round of Maritime Intermediate "B" Playoffs.

RUDIMENTS ARE PASSED ON

Betting System On Soccer Confusing To Newcomer

BY ALAN WALKER
LONDON (CP)—Heaven forbid that the local soccer team should win! A draw is often more popular in Britain because it can mean a hefty cash prize for people betting on the pools.

To the newcomer the pool betting system is bafflingly complex. Mathematical geniuses from overseas stare with horror at pool regulations that make Canada an income tax forms look like child's play.

Yet native Britons, even those who may not be able to write their name in the dirt with a stick, cope with the weekly pool forms and occasionally win thousands of pounds when they've risked only a few pennies.

The untutored novice who seeks a key to this fantastically popular form of lottery is liable to be told: "Everybody knows about it. There's no secret."

And everybody here does seem to comprehend the dauntingly difficult scheme that lured £70,000,000 out of the public during last year's 38-week soccer season.

My mother taught me, "one man told a Canadian reporter who sought the rudiments of the game. The basics of pool betting have been passed from generation to generation with all the care and caution surrounding spisy fortune-telling techniques.

ODDS ARE LONG
Although there are many variations, the central theme is briefly this: The better tries to predict how many of 48 English and Scottish football league games on a given Saturday will end in a draw.

With 16 chances, let us say, he picks eight draws correctly and gambles a penny on his prediction, he would likely win about £10,000.

The odds against a successful "line" of ties are so high that most bettors place a few pennies on each of several permutations of his allowed number of predictions. These "perms" are worked out by apparently countless numbers of plans. And here's where the complexity of the pools reaches its height.

The small stake combined with staggeringly high payouts that sometimes occur make the pools especially attractive to persons making low wagers.

The odds were 100,000 to 1 against James Gault, for example, who bet the paltry sum of fivepence. He won £300,000 and the recollection of that sort of win is sufficient to lead an

BULLETIN

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The streaking St. Louis Cardinals climbed into a share of the National League lead Tuesday night by whipping Philadelphia 4-2 and dealing a near-fatal blow to the Phillies' slim pennant hopes.

Phillies Manager Speaks Positively

BY JOE REICHLER
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Those who have been waiting for Gene Mauch to blow his top appear to have a long wait.

There is no denying the explosive manager of Philadelphia Philadelphia is a man of few words. In the heat of competition he has been known to lose control of his tongue and temper.

But this is a restrained Mauch, outwardly a model of tranquility as he discusses his team's fading pennant chances. His tone is positive despite the mental anguish and deep hurt inside him.

Here is a man who had every reason to believe a week ago that his Phillies had the National League pennant wrapped up. But eight straight losses not only wiped out their seemingly insurmountable lead of six games, it also dropped the club to third place, 1½ games behind the lead in Cincinnati Reds and one-half game behind St. Louis Cardinals.

Now they are required to win all four remaining games—two with St. Louis and two with Cincinnati—to capture the pennant. If they had clinched it, Mauch said Monday.

"We've won four in a row more times than we've lost eight in a row," said Mauch philosophically before Tuesday night's battle with the Cardinals.

"I felt a week ago we would win it and I still feel the same way. The knowledge we have, we have lost a 6½-game lead is disastrous. Of course, but my outlook is the same."

"You can't look back. You've got to look ahead. Every club has a certain number of good games and a certain number of bad ones. Our bad ones didn't show up until the next-to-the-last week of the season."

"I don't feel any worse. If it came the final week, there'd be no tomorrow. At least, we still have a warning."
