Punch Editor Will Resign

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP)—Malcolm Muggeridge, journalist and television personality, announced Tuesday he will resign Oct. 1 as editor of Punch, the British humor magazine.

Muggeridge, known for his pungent expression of controversial opinions on royalty, public schools and the welfare state, was appointed editor of Punch Jan. 1, 1953, and transformed the magazine, which had seen few changes since its founding in 1841.

Muggeridge said his appointment was for a five-year period and the "only reason for my resignation is that the period has come to an end." A new editor has not been appointed.

Our confuser general, aware of its importance in the face of unrivalled opportunity, needs sorely a fresh baptism of the Divine Spirit. Many a life, now frustrated and without meaning would glow with a heavenly radiance and serve ultimate ends in answer to the touch of God. There may be other ways to God, but this is the way of the Bible, and following it brings a new dynamic in the soul which leads to a new fulfillment of God's will for men.

Stamp Marks Royal Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—A new, black-and-white five-cent stamp, showing Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip in profile, is being issued by the post office department to commemorate the October visit of the Royal Couple.

The department announced today that the stamp will go on sale to the public Oct. 10, two days before the Queen and the prince arrive in Ottawa for a four-day visit.

The black-and-white halfpenny stamp is the combined product of the post office, Ottawa photographer Yusuf Karsh and the Canadian Bank Note Company of Ottawa.

Postal executives supplied the ideas for the design. Karsh supplied a portrait he took of the Queen and Prince Philip, and bank note company designers and engravers went to work to copy the facial likenesses in profile and engrave them for printing.

The stamp, slightly larger than the present Canadian one-to-five-cent issues, which carry the Queen's likeness, is delicately done, with a fine, shaded background. In the profiles, with Her Majesty in front and Prince Philip behind at the right side of her face, the Queen's mouth shows the wisp of a smile. Both are bare headed.
