A FAKIR EXPOSED.

Her Mind Reading Trick Explained—The Methods Very Simple.

Anna Eva Fay, who created some comment in Charlottetown a year or two ago by her "wonderful" feats of "somnolency," whatever that means, has been exposed. In Tacoma two individuals, Prof. Selestian and Miss Blanche Waters, have given similar exhibitions in public and their methods, which are very simple and purely the result of trickery, are shown. The Tacoma Ledger contained the following interesting account of how Miss Fay does her message reading act: "The expose of Anna Eva Fay by Miss Blanche Waters and Prof. Selestian at the Ninth street theatre was considered by most of the audience to be chiefly remarkable for the thorough way in which Miss Fay's alleged mind reading was illustrated and explained. The cabinet tricks on the stage have been exposed many times before, so that they were not new to the audience, although it was interesting to watch Miss Waters make the wooden hand 'talk' and the handkerchief 'walk' by means of threads invisible to the audience or the committee on the stage. The somnolency or mind reading expose, however, was the most interesting to those present, for very few believed that it could be explained except upon the hypothesis that Miss Fay possessed occult powers. The modus operandi of the trick, as explained by Prof Selestian, was as follows: Miss Fay was seated in a chair placed upon a small raised platform, through one of the legs of which an augur hole had been drilled. This hollow leg was placed directly over a hole bored in the stage floor, and a tube was run up from beneath the stage, so that when Miss Fay was covered with the sheet a man stationed below could easily converse with her through the tube and tell her the names of the people and the messages they had written. These were ascertained in two ways. First, all who had written on the cardboard pads passed around by the manager had simply made carbon copies of their message for the perusal of the manager and the man beneath the stage. The sheets of carbon were pasted beneath the paper covering on the cardboards, and could not be detected without a minute examination. The carbon copies were slipped through a hole in the stage steps covered by tapestry, and were conveyed by boys to the party at the lower end of the speaking tube, who revealed them to Miss Fay. Second, those who wrote on paper of their own, or on the margin of their programmes, were closely watched by spotters, who included the ushers and men hired for the occasion, several being stationed in various parts of the theatre. The message of the writer was ascertained and sent through to Miss Fay, who called it, after which the manager secured the message while Miss Fay was talking about something else, and had it sent to her through the channels described. Such, in brief, was the explanation given of the mind reading trick, the manager demonstrating its plausibility by having Miss Waters read messages as Miss Fay had. In support of their theory that they have fully exposed Miss Fay, several people claim the stage carpenter is ready to make affidavit that he bored the hole for Miss Fay through which the tube ran. They also claim to have found beneath the stage about 200 carbon messages 'read' by Miss Fay, which her manager had not taken the trouble to destroy. Much of the paraphernalia used at the expose was the same as Miss Fay used, even to the hole in the stage through which the messages were transmitted."

CAVENDISH NOTES.

The recent rains have been very beneficial to the crops.

The busy work is almost over and many of our farmers are enjoying a well-earned holiday.

Lobsters seem to be very plentiful, and our fishermen are taking great hauls.

Our school is still making rapid strides toward perfection under the efficient management of our esteemed teacher, Mr. Wellington MacCoubray.

Mr. W. A. MacNeill's trotting mare Ethel M. dropped a beautiful colt a few days ago, after that well-knowd sire Elmo, 2.27¼. Competent judges say that it is the finest colt that has been in this vicinity for some time.

We understand that Mr. A. J. Steele, trainer and driver, of Stanley Bridge, has been engaged by Mr. L. S. MacNeill to handle Dr. Rossin, bay colt by Physician, during the summer months, and we are informed that Mr. Steele intends fitting him for the Maritime circuit races. We wish him success.

Mr. John Cousins, proprietor of the Cavendish Packing Company, has purchased the well-known pacing mare Tillie by Neptune Lee, and intends handling her for speed.

Politics seem to be the order of the day in this vicinity, and if we can judge from the manner in which the majority of our farmers talk, Cavendish will roll up a tremendous majority for our veteran standard bearer, Dr. Jenkins.

Mr. C. Donnelly, wholesale liquor dealer, Alliston, Ont., was troubled for years with Itching Piles. He was persuaded by Jas. "I was so much run down I had to give up work, and I felt as if life was not worth living," writes Wm. W. Thompson, Zephyr Ont. "I took Scott's Sarsaparilla and am now feeling as I did years ago." Scott's Sarsaprilla tones up the entire system, purifies the blood, and eradicates rheumatic and scrofulous poison. Ask for Scott's and get it.

Cecil Rhodes and Barney Barnato, always on the lookout for new worlds to conquer, are now turning their eyes to British Columbia and have a representative in the Trail Creek district. The famous Leroy mine, the War Eagle and Iron Mask have been sold to London capitalists for five million, two million and one million dollars respectively. After looking over the gold and silver deposits the expert in question says there is ten times more wealth in the Trail Creek distinct than South Africa ever saw.

AN IMPUDENT THEFT.

(Montreal Gazette.)

In his London speech Mr. Laurier made a barefaced attempt to steal a leaf out of the book of Sir Charles Tupper. If there is one idea that Sir Charles Tupper has made his own it is that of preferential trade within the bounds of the Empire. In the Old Country no one has done more than Sir Charles Tupper in bringing this question to the front. In Canada, up to very recently, it was an unfamiliar notion, of which little was known and less was thought. Sir Charles Tupper, almost unaided and alone, has brought it within the range of practical politics. His address to the Montreal Board of Trade impressed the business men of this great city with the importance of the subject, and by his references to it in subsequent speeches, both in the House of Commons and in the country, the Conservative leader has made this one of the most popular planks in the Government's platform. And now, at the eleventh hour, Mr. Laurier comes forward and asks the electors of London to "vote for a revenue tariff, preferential trade and C. S. Hyman." Mr. Laurier was not content with appropriating an opponent's idea, but he must needs mutilate and disfigure the stolen child. He said:

"When Sir Charles Tupper advocated a protective tariff and preferential trade at once, he was laying down two principles which were absolutely incompatible. He could have one or the other, but not both. He challenged an answer on this subject from Sir Charles Tupper. If Canadian people wanted preferential trade they must renounce the protective feature of their trade; and how, he asked, was it possible that England, with free trade, could extend preferential trade relations to goodies with protective tariff? The thing was not feasible. What was wanted in this part of Western Canada, the garden of Ontario, was markets, markets, and nothing else. (Applause.) They had heard the possibility of having the largest market in the world Great Britain. But they could have it only on certain conditions by renouncing the protective tariff."

Either Mr. Laurier takes his hearers for fools, or (which is more likely) he is himself unable to understand the elementary principles of fiscal policy. To say that preferential trade is incompatible with protection is absurd. A preference given to one nation means discrimination against all others, and that discrimination can only be exercised by means of protective duties. So far from preferential trade and protection being absolutely incompatible some degree of protection is absolutely necessary to a scheme of preferential trade. It is for this very reason that the English people have been so slow to adopt the idea; they hesitated to take up a scheme which they regarded as an infringement upon free trade principles. If Mr. Laurier had said that free trade and preferential trade were absolutely incompatible, he would have been near the mark. How can a nation which freely admits the goods of all comers at the same time give a preference to some of them? The idea is absurd.

Racked with Rheumatism

Unable to Walk, owing to excruciating pain.

After ten years' terrible torture, Cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

A. H. Christiansen, writing from the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, says: "I owe you more than I can ever pay. For ten years I suffered the tortures of the damned with rheumatism. Father had it before me, and I believe it is an hereditary disease. My knee joints would get inflamed and if I was out in any "weather" I was sure to be laid up, which to a travelling man is a calamity. In a score of Canadian towns local doctors treated me, some giving relief, others none. I read that Sarsaparilla was a rheumatic cure, and I asked a druggist for "a bottle of the best Sarsaparilla on the market." He gave me Scott's, remarking that it was an improvement on Hollotes's, and that he could honestly recommend it. I have taken four bottles, and am as free from pain as a man can hope to be. I was out in a rainstorm two days ago and never felt a twinge. As I said before, to Scott's Sarsaparilla I owe more than I can ever repay."

The best remedy for rheumatism, sciatica, and neuralgic pains—all arising from the presence of poison in the blood—is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a modern concentrated medicine, prompt in its curative effects. Doses from one half to one teaspoonful. At $1 per bottle of your druggist.

A Resident of St. John, N. B., makes a Successful Trial of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

St. John, N. B., June 8.—Mr. Robert Moore, residing in Indiantown, a suburb of this city, has recently made what is allowed by all who are acquainted with the facts to be a most remarkable recovery. He has been a sufferer from a serious complaint of the kidneys for over seven years, and during that time has suffered excruciatingly. He has also suffered considerably in pocket, having paid large sums for medical advice. Quite recently he happened to read of the many cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and with commendable promptitude made a trial of them, with the result that after taking three boxes of the remedy he was entirely restored to health.
