

A GIRL HERO.

"You can't guess who's married, Susie!"

Jenny Carter was almost breathless with haste and excitement, as she entered the pleasant kitchen, which bright, and sunny as it was, looked dark, coming in out of the blinding sunshine.

Attired in a pretty gingham, with her round, white arms bared above the dimpled elbows, Susie Barnard stood at a molding board, as sweet a picture of youth, health and beauty as ever poet sang of, or artist painted.

Without pausing for a reply, Jenny went on:

John Harmon, who boarded with you last summer. He's married a rich Boston lady. They pass through Lakeside on their bridal tour, and stop over night at Judge Leighton's."

"And, oh, Susie!—Susie had suddenly disappeared through the open door of the pantry—"Mrs. Leighton is going to give them a reception—a lawn party! what do you think of that? You're invited; Mary Anne, Mrs. Leighton's niece, said she saw both our names on the list. Won't it be delightful?"

Susie reappeared with the powdered sugar she had gone for, and began to sift it over the eggs she had beaten.

Jenny gave a little scream, as she glanced at her.

"Goodness me, Sue! what is the matter? You are looking as pale as a ghost!"

"Pale!" responded Susie, the blood that receded to her heart suddenly returning and crimsoning even the temples.

"Well, yes. At least I thought you looked so a minute ago," said Jenny, a little puzzled, but too full of herself and the news she had come to tell, to give it more than a passing thought.

Jenny stayed a few minutes longer, rattling away without pausing for a reply, in her usual reckless fashion, then went away.

A few minutes later Mrs. Barnard came in from the garden. Susie had heard through the open window by which she stood, Jenny talking to her mother, as she passed out.

Seating herself in the low, broad window-seat, Mrs. Barnard began to sort over the ripe clusters of currants she had gathered, glancing in the meantime furtively over at her daughter, who was icing the cake she had just taken from the oven.

"Did Jenny tell you the news?"

There was motherly anxiety in the look and tone of the speaker.

"About John Harmon's marriage? Yes. Don't you expect Mr. and Mrs. Coles, to-day?"

"This drove everything else from Mrs. Barnard's mind.

"I had forgotten all about it! They wrote they were coming on the noon train, and I don't believe there's a thing done to their room."

"No matter; I shall have time to fix it. I have got the baking so far along that Mary can easily finish; so, perhaps, I had better go now.

"I think you had; they'll want to go to their room as soon as they come. You know which one it is?"

Susie looked back from the half closed door.

"Yes; it's the one Mr. Harmon had last summer."

As busy as Mrs. Barnard had been last summer, with her house full of city boarders, she had not been altogether unmindful of what was passing around her.

"She don't mind it," was her inward reflection, as she listened to those retreating footsteps. "I was a little afraid, but there's no nonsense about Susie."

CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS.

The Greatest Medical Discovery since the Creation of Man, or since the Commencement of the Christian Era.

There never has been a time when the healing of so many different diseases has been caused by outward application as the present. It is an undisputed fact that over half of the entire population of the globe resort to the use of ordinary plasters.

DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS are acknowledged by all who have used them, to act quicker than any other plaster they ever before tried, and that one of these plasters will do more real service than a hundred of the ordinary kind. All other plasters are slow of action, and require to be worn continually to effect a cure; but with these it is entirely different: the instant one is applied the patient will feel its effect.

Physicians in all ages have thoroughly tested and well know the effect of Capsicum; and it has always been more or less used as a medical agent for an outward application; but it is only of very recent date that its advantages in a porous plaster have been discovered. Being, however, convinced of the wonderful cures effected by DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTERS, and their superiority over all other plasters, they now actually prescribe them, in their practice, for such diseases as rheumatism, pain in the side and back, and all such cases as have required the use of plasters or liniment. After you have tried other plasters and liniments, and they have failed, and you want a certain cure, ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER. You can hardly believe your own convictions of its wonderful effects. Although powerful and quick in its action, you can rely on its safety for the most delicate person to wear, as it is free from lead and other poisonous material commonly used in the manufacture of ordinary plasters. One trial is a sufficient guarantee of its merits, and one plaster will sell hundreds to your friends.

Ask your druggist for DR. MELVIN'S CAPSICUM POROUS PLASTER, and take no other; on receipt of 25 cents for one, $1 for five, or $2 for a dozen, they will be mailed, post paid, to any address in the United States or Canada.
