OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

The St. John Telegraph, speaking of the Ethel Tucker Co., says: A great number chose the Ethel Tucker Company, at the Opera House, as a means to enjoy part of the holiday. At the matinee many had to go away because there was neither a seat nor standing room. The company played "The Pearl of Savoy" and did so most acceptably, the different characters being well portrayed. The specialties of the Lawrence Sisters and Miss Westcott again caught the audience as on the Company's previous engagement here. After two hours of enjoyment the mammoth crowd dispersed, thoroughly satisfied apparently with their choice of a way to spend the afternoon.

The matinee success was duplicated in the evening when "The Wages of Sin" was the bill. The piece has been here before, and as produced by this company, came fully up to, and in some parts excelled the performance of other companies. Fanny Brennan in specialties, was an added attraction and he treated the audience to some new songs. As sung by him they were productive of roars of laughter, and several encores were given him. Miss Westcott and the Lawrence Sisters also appeared in specialties, equally taking. The Ethel Tucker Company has, by the merit of the piece played, and the superior manner of presentation, gained a firm place in the opinion of St. John theatregoers and big houses are assured the company during their stay. There has been arranged a fine repertoire for this week.

The above company at Opera House to-night in the great New York success "The Lost Paradise," pronounced as the strongest play ever written, and one which brought a fortune to its author.

On Monday last Cedar Keys was a thriving town of 1520 inhabitants; to-day many of its people are corpses and few buildings are left. 20 corpses have been recovered. A tidal wave followed the tornado, sweeping buildings and everything off shore. Nearly one hundred vessels were anchored on the sponge bar and nearly every one was sunk. The vessels carried from four to ten men each. Loss of life is terrible to contemplate.

OBITUARY.

A wave of profound sorrow swept over the country at the announcement, on Thursday morning, of Mrs. William McGrath's death. It was sad news for all classes and creeds, for all who ever knew her and shared her kindness and hospitality, but it was particularly sad intelligence to the poor and needy, because in her kindly, charitable, sympathetic and sacrificing nature she never was so happy as when satisfying their needs and sympathizing with and consoling the miserable and afflicted. Having all the virtues and characteristics of a noble woman, she lived and died without an enemy, but with multitudes of friends singing her praises and praying God that her soul may have eternal rest in peace.

The funeral procession and ceremonies, which were most imposing, will be long remembered. From an early hour on Friday morning the people of this country for many miles around, and many from great distances, kept kneeling beside in prayer and taking a last look at her beloved face. At 9.20, before the body was taken from the house, the De Profundis and Musical Service sung by the hundreds of people filling and surrounding the house. Among those from a distance were Father Curran and Johnstone, who preceded the funeral procession, which was the largest ever seen in Cape Breton. In the church the Rev. P. J. Hogan officiating, assisted by the Rev. P. Curran as deacon and the Rev. J. Johnston as sub-deacon. The last burial rites in the cemetery were performed by the Rev. Father Curran, assisted by Fathers Hogan and Johnston. All who knew the deceased sympathize with the husband and friends in their sad bereavement.

WHAT ARE OUR "TERRITORIAL WATERS?"

Six.—In prosecuting my fishing business at Murray Harbor last year, I tried an experiment by fitting out a schooner for catching and canning lobsters on the banks in the Straits of Northumberland outside the three mile limit. In doing so I considered that I was acting within my strict legal rights, as I intended to fish in international waters, over which the Dominion authorities had no jurisdiction. The vessel was cleared out on a fishing voyage from Murray Harbor. I notified the Collector of Customs here and the Agent of Marine and Fisheries of my intention. I was allowed to fish on the banks off Murray Harbor for about three weeks, but was then stopped and the lobster seized on the plea that the Straits of Northumberland were "territorial waters," over which the Dominion Government claimed jurisdiction.

I was allowed to fish on the banks off Murray Harbor for about three weeks, but was then stopped and the lobster seized on the plea that the Straits of Northumberland were "territorial waters," over which the Dominion Government claimed jurisdiction.

Of course a private individual could not "fight a government," except at great expense. I thought it best to submit, broke up the fishing voyage at considerable loss, and paid a small fine for a so-called infraction of the fishery regulations.

This matter has now assumed larger proportions. Commander Spain has ordered some American schooners, fishing lobsters on the banks outside the three mile limit of the grounds, claiming that they have no right to fish within a line drawn from the East Point of this Island to Cape St. George in Nova Scotia; on the plea that, says that waters to the westward of such a line and up to the West Point of the Island are "territorial waters" and fishing grounds.

It was an easy matter for the Dominion authorities to "close me up" last year. I had to submit. They will find it quite a different matter to deal with citizens of the "Great Republic."

The three mile limit from headland to headland is now the recognized law in Europe; it may be that under international law or custom, straits—such as the Straits of Northumberland—are "territorial waters" for our fishermen, but I cannot remember any case in point. I am afraid that our Dominion government will have to give up the contention that the Straits of Northumberland are "territorial waters" outside of the three mile limit.

Your obedient servant, DANIEL DAVIES, Ch'town, Oct. 2nd, '96.

WHERE IS SIR OLIVER?

The contract-selling affair appears to have been a breach of the criminal law. Israel Tarte was deeply moved by its exposure, but so far the only legal action he has taken is against the man who published the tale letter.

It does not look as if the Minister of Public Works would prosecute the offender. Where is Sir Oliver? Is he asleep, or has he gone on a journey? He was put in as a check upon Israel Tarte's rights.

Why does he not put the law in motion?—Mail and Empire.

The Italian consular agent at Cincinnati performed the most peculiar marriage ceremony on record. The groom was a well-to-do resident of the Ohio city and his bride lived in Italy. The contracting parties were thousands of miles apart when the wedding was performed, the marriage being by proxy. The consular filled in a blank certificate, which he forwarded to the authorities in Italy, who, in the presence of the bride, who affixed her signature, accepting it as her action. The marriage was perfectly binding.

ACCEPTED THE NOMINATION.

An Atchison man recently asked a girl to marry him, and though she had been sitting up nights for him for six months, she replied that she would not marry him until he explained her position on the tobacco question, stated what she had always advocated as the best kind of baking powder, told him that it was with a feeling of deep gratification that she accepted the honor he had done her, and hoped that she would always faithfully preserve the traditions of good housekeeping, etc. He was nearly dead with exhaustion, when he reached the postscript, which read: "You are so full of politics, thought it might please you to be accepted like the candidates accept their presidential nominations."—Atchison Globe.

Racked with Rheumatism

Unable to Walk, owing to excruciating pain. After ten years' terrible torture, Cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

A. H. Christiansen, writing from the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, says: "I was you more than I can ever pay. For ten years I suffered the tortures of the damned with rheumatism. Father had it before me, and I believe it is an hereditary disease. My knee joints would get inflamed and if I was out in any 'weather' I was sure to be laid up, which to a travelling man is a calamity. In a score of Canadian towns local doctors treated me, some giving relief, others none. I read that Sarsaparilla was on the market. I gave me Scott's Sarsaparilla on the market. It was an improvement on all others, and that he could honestly recommend it. I have taken four bottles and am as free from pain as a man can hope to be. I was out in a rainstorm two days ago and never felt a twinge. As I said before, to Scott's Sarsaparilla I owe more than I can ever repay."

The best remedy for rheumatism, sciatica, and neuralgic pains—all arising from the presence of poison in the blood.—Scott's Sarsaparilla, a modern concentrated medicine, prompt in its curative effects. Doses from one half to one teaspoonful. At $1 per bottle of your druggist.
