Mr. Laird's Lecture.—Before a large audience in the Second Methodist Church, last evening, Rev. Mr. Kirby in the chair, the Hon. David Laird repeated his patriotic and popular lecture on "The Destiny of Canada." To the lecture as at first delivered he added an elaborate argument concerning the increase of population in the United States and Canada, the conclusion being that the latter would not have such a rapid increase as the former but that the quality of the population would, upon the whole, be better. He also referred to the Hudson Bay Railway project, stating succinctly the reasons why it might be expected to greatly benefit the trade of Canada. The lecturer was, as he proceeded, repeatedly and warmly applauded. At the close the Rev. Mr. Campbell moved the vote of thanks, making an eloquent and patriotic speech. Mr. George Carter, of George Carter & Co., ably seconded the motion, which was supported by the Hon. F. Brecken, Mr. A. B. Warburton, M. L. A., and Mr. W. S. Stewart, Q. C. Miss Down gave a solo before the beginning of the lecture, and Miss Howard after. Both were well sung. We are glad to note a decided improvement in the remarkably fine voice of the latter.

THERE'S NAE LUCK ABOUT THE HOUSE.

Do you fear the news we hear,
Or do you say its weel,
That Donald Sound is kicking roun,
And wanting at the wheel;
That Hector C. you'd think that he
Or Banner man so braw,
Would be the best to stand the test,
Or toe the mark with Shaw.

CHORUS.

There's nae luck about the house,
There's nae luck awa,'
There's little pleasure in the house
Just on account of Shaw.

I could stand James E. or Dan
And Archie's not severe,
And Blanchard, too, I could subdue
If Cyrus was not here.
If debentures I would sell,
Or from the banks we draw,
They'll gather round to talk me down,
And threaten me with Shaw,

There's nae luck, etc.

He's spare and grim, though neat and trim,
His voice I cannot bear.
Its hard on him to hold his chin
During the time of prayer.
With every bill he'll use his skill
To try to find a flaw.
I think it must have been the Deil
That sent me Cyrus Shaw.

There's nae luck, etc.

Oft I did dash the means the cask,
All for their father's vote,
Saying get young Kate a button gown
And Jock a Sunday coat.
The cats and kittens I did buy
Both near and far awa,
But Cardigan, that Tory den,
They sent me Cyrus Shaw.

There's nae luck, etc.

That powerful Bell, the truth to tell,
I do not like its toll;
And they say that Wise—but I hope it's lies—
Won't answer when I call.
Anthony's the man for me,
I can make him gee or haw;
And I'll see the day some man like Gay
Will pepper Cyrus Shaw.

There's nae luck.

Brother Art, now quickly start
Around to see your friends,
And you'll regret if you forget
To stop a night at Ben's.
Them bottles there you'll take good care
And bed them well with straw;
We mean to fight with all our might
To conquer Cyrus Shaw.

There's nae luck, etc.

Now, Ben, my friend, you will attend
And shove the glasses round;
Old Jimmie's here, and he'll get beer
Or whiskey, I'll be bound.
Whiskey's not like Paris green,
You can take it in your maw;
You'd have long to wait to get a treat
Like this from Cyrus Shaw.

There's nae luck, etc.

As I am nigh, says Art, I'll try
And call to see the bard;
He's digging drains along the lanes,
Although the ground is hard;
It's with a sleigh he hauls the clay
Among the frost and snaw,
And he'll say, quite sly, to passers by
"Don't mention this to Shaw."

There's nae luck about the hoose,
There's nae luck awa',
There's little pleasure in the hoose
Just on account of Shaw.

CARDIGAN.

—Mail and Empire: Undoubtedly the platform that Mr. Laurier stands on is becoming continually more slippery and dangerous, and his powers as an acrobat are proving unavailing.

The Nicaraguan Canal Bill will be reported to Congress on Friday. The bonds are to be for $100,000,000, with American guarantee, the Government to have $100,000,000 of stock, a majority of directors, a first mortgage, and the work to go on under the United States War Department control, etc.

Dr. Peters has resigned the chairmanship of the German Colonial Society, and has requested the Foreign Office to institute an enquiry into his conduct while German Imperial Commissioner in Africa.

Mr. John Craig, head of the Dominion horticultural experimental work, is authority for the statement that the outlook for next season's crop of peaches is very unpromising. In many districts it will be a complete failure.

The German Emperor, when his carriage had run over a woman was the first to reach the person hurt, and personally helped to remove her to a drug store, and followed up the matter with all solicitude. Well done, William.

The return to Rome of the Italian Deputies who were sentenced in connection with the Sicilian uprising, and who were recently amnestied, was hailed with great delight by an immense crowd, who roared themselves hoarse in cheering for the Marquis di Rudini.

Prince Hohenlohe opened in Berlin a few days ago an inquiry into the charges brought against Dr. Peters, German Imperial Commissioner in Africa, who is accused of murder, immorality and other abuses of high position. Witnesses from East Africa will be examined.

A report from Port of Spain, Trinidad, W. I., says that a war between Great Britain and the United States, if of any duration, would result in the ruining of the people of the West Indies, and that the sympathies of the Creoles would be with the States, and the black inhabitants would follow the Creole.

Tax-dodging seems to be a favorite diversion among the millionaires of New York. The Astors and Goulds have successfully resisted the efforts of the tax-gatherer, stimulation being thereby given to the cause of populism and socialism in all parts of the country. Truly, the dollar is almighty in the great Republic.

On Tuesday night last Mr. James Agnew, a retired farmer, who resided on the outskirts of Lindsay, Ont., was murdered at his stable door. He had been shot by a revolver just below the left ear. The deceased had been robbed of the contents of two pocket books and his watch. Two young men, brothers, named Carney, are arrested on suspicion.

The Prince of Wales will be installed as Chancellor of the University of Wales in the course of the coming summer. The locality of the ceremony was left by His Royal Higness entirely to the choice of the University Court, which has now selected Aberystwyth, the seat of the oldest of the colleges of the university. The Prince has formally confirmed the selection.

William Konrad Rontgen, whose name at present is so often mentioned in connection with the discovery of the X or cathode rays, is still a young man. Born in 1855, he was graduated from the University of Zurich at twenty-four. In 1870 he was made assistant to Professor Kundt at the University of Wurzburg. Since 1888 he has been full professor at this institution.

It has been announced in Parliament that the British Government has received official proposals from United States, relative to the Venezuelan dispute which are under consideration. Altho' it was not the practice of the Government to state the nature of such proposals under negotiation, it was state that it is not correct to describe them as an expression of willingness to accept or propose a scheme for a joint commission to report on the Venezuelan boundary dispute.

Emperor William will watch with mixed feelings the advance of the British Egyptian forces up the Nile. It will be pleasing to him as a material assistance to Italy, his ally in the Driebund, and will give him further satisfaction in having a tendency to irritate his old enemy France. But he will not relish the look of the horizon opened up by this movement. The fertile tracts of the Soudan may fall into the hands of Britain, Germany's great rival in everything, but especially in colonization. William will scarcely like to see Britain increasing her influence in that quarter of Africa.

The bi-metallists in the British House of Commons have been pointing to the instability of the relative values of gold and silver since 1873 as being injurious to the best interests of the country. The change in the ratio of value of these metals, one to the other, has certainly not benefited the country. Had Great Britain been coining silver money and forcing it out on the people, the fluctuations noted would have been much more injurious, however. The United States has been doing what the bi-metallists want Great Britain to do, and the monetary position of the United States is only instructive as a warning.

Writing about the late Sir Frederick Leighton, Henry Labouchere says: "I do not think that I ever knew any one to whom the epithet prefixed to the name of Crichton was more applicable. As a young man, he was exceedingly good-looking, and he was very handsome to the last. He seemed to excel in anything that he attempted. As a linguist, he spoke many languages fluently; as a painter and sculptor, he became famous; as an orator, he was ornate and effective. He was always courteous and pleasant, and so taking was his manner that a lady of the Cornelia type once told me how glad she was that he had never fallen in love with her, for she felt that she could not have been answerable for the consequences."

YOUNG LIBERAL-CONSERVATIVES.

Enthusiastic Meeting in Philharmonic Hall—The Officers Elected.

A very enthusiastic meeting of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association was held in the Philharmonic Hall last evening, when the officers for the current term were elected and rousing speeches made by Dr. J. T. Jenkins, the Liberal-Conservative candidate for West Queen's, Cyrus Shaw, Esq., M. L. A., and T. A. McLean and John T. Mellish, Esqs. The officers elected are as follows:—

President—J. B. Dawson.
First Vice-President—John. A. McLaren.
Second Vice-President—J. J. Johnston.
Secretary-Treasurer—Alfred J. Quirk.

Executive Committe—Arthur P. Edmonds, William E. Bentley, Charles R. Smallwood, M. Trainor, James Hyndman, H. Mackenzie, D. O'M. Reddin, jr., Picton S. Brown, J. Gordon, James H. Stevenson, A. A. McLean, John Burns, John Hagan, George Handrahan, John Heartz, B. F. Longworth, John Macdonald, Dr. McMillan, Simon Grant and John Saunders.

Previous to the election of officers, President D O'M. Reddin, jr., presided, and opened the proceedings with a brief speech in the course of which he referred to what had been done by the Association in the past. He also dealt with the condition of things at present, and emphasized the value of united action.

After the new officers were elected President Dawson took his place and returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him by his election as President of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association. He assured the meeting that he would do all in his power to further the interests of the Association and the Liberal Conservative party.

A hearty vote of thanks was then tendered the retiring President and Secretary Treasurer, to which Messrs. Reddin and Johnston replied in an appropriate manner.

Dr. Jenkins on coming forward was received with applause. He said that so far as his canvass had gone everything was satisfactory, and the feeling was growing stronger and stronger in favor of the National Policy. The government's policy in respect to dairying and cold storage is being more and more appreciated by the people. This was as it should be, for the policy which was putting money in the pockets of the people was the policy the people should take hold of. The Liberals are always loud in their cries of victory before an election, and the present is no exception. But he felt sure that at the forthcoming election, as in the preceding ones, the result would not bear out their pre-election boastings. He then reviewed the situation throughout the Dominion, and said that everything pointed to the triumphant return of the Liberal-Conservative party. He did not see how the people could support a man like Wilfred Laurier, who told one story in one section of the country and another story in another section, in preference to an honest, straightforward man like Sir Mackenzie Bowell. Laurier's policy of Free Trade as it is in England would be ruinous to the farmers. It had been ruinous to the farmers of England, and it should not be countenanced here. In conclusion Dr. Jenkins put in a strong plea for unity and tolerance. Let us always be Canadians and do our best to develop the resources of this grand country.

Cyrus Shaw, Esq., was then called upon, and made a brief address in the course of which he strongly urged the Young Men's Association to do all in their power to secure the return of the Liberal-Conservative candidates at the forthcoming election. The party which they supported was the party of progress, and the party under which Canada was prospering.

Thomas A. McLean, Esq., followed, reviewing the progress of Canada since the return of the Liberal-Conservative party in 1878, and showing some of the advantages which are to be gained by their retention in power. He strongly urged the necessity of putting forth every effort to secure the return to power of the party of progress.

John T. Mellish, Esq., was the last speaker. He showed that the Liberal-Conservative party was the party of the people. Since their return to power the country had been rapidly developed, and the good work was still going on. Free trade had depreciated the value of farm property in England, and would not fail to prove disastrous in Canada. The Liberal-Conservative party was going to win at the next election, and the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association should do everything possible to help roll up a good majority.

The different speakers were listened to with the closest attention, and their remarks were heartily applauded.

The officers of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association are all active and energetic young men, and the Association should prove an important factor in the forthcoming election.
