Moslem, European Scrap
Casts Shadow On Algeria

By RODNEY ANGOVE
ORAN (AP) — Moslems and Europeans fought with knives and guns in a bloody four-hour battle through the heart of Oran Thursday, casting a grim shadow over Algeria's new independence.

Sixty or more persons, mostly Moslems, were killed, mostly in the battle developed without warning along lines familiar between the Moslem inhabitants of power from France this week. The expectation, still looming over Algeria, was that even bloodier battles will be fought between rival Moslem factions contending for power.

Tough Moslem nationalist army troops and French units backed by tanks joined forces to halt the day's hostilities. One European was decapitated and Moslem workers asked a foreign cameraman to take his picture near the headquarters of the Moslem Nationalist Front.

Opportunity Reported
For U.S. Bases Sales

MONCTON (CP) — The northern trade committee of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council reported today that present conditions offer excellent opportunities for Atlantic Provinces to sell surplus U.S. military equipment to American defence bases in northern Canada.

The APEC committee noted that U.S. officials in the light of favourable American-Canadian exchange rates, have instructed their procurement officers at bases in Canada to take advantage of this discount by buying from Canadian suppliers wherever possible.

"The initiative to sell must come from the Atlantic Provinces suppliers themselves," the committee said. "Selling to these base exchange stores is not much different than selling to any other large retail outlet. They must be made aware of products available."

Political Union In Europe
De Gaulle, Adenauer Aim

By BRIAN HORTON
PARIS (Reuters) — President de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Adenauer agreed Thursday to press forward with plans for European political union.

A West German spokesman said the two statesmen decided to call a summit meeting of the six European countries in Rome "at an early date" to push ahead the plan. A communiqué issued after three private meetings of the two said they intend to bring talks to European political union to conclusion as soon as possible in agreement with their partners.

They also declared full agreement on the German and British positions and hoped British application to join the Common Market would be solved "in a way that would strengthen the structure of Europe."

Railways Strongly Oppose
Non-Ops Contract Views

MONTRÉAL (CP) — Canada's railways said Thursday they take the strongest possible exception to most of the points submitted by their non-operating employees to a federal court hearing on a proposed new contract demands.

Details of the railway's arguments in opposing the non-ops contract were withheld until Monday. The board, which started its sitting Wednesday, was adjourned until after the railways said they were not ready to continue at once with their case.

They said they had expected the 15 C.E.A. members that bargains for the non-ops to take at least four days to present their arguments, but the union cleaned up their initial presentation in less than a day and a half.

Churchill Pulse
Said Irregular

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill experienced a momentary irregularity Thursday and spent most of the day in hospital, sources said.

A medical bulletin issued at his hospital said he had a slight fever since 10 fracture in his thigh in Monte Carlo a week ago. It said: "His condition is comfortable and he has had a good night. There has been some irregularity of his bowels."

Lord Beaverbrook, newspaper publisher and old friend of Churchill, reported he was encouraged by the progress made by Britain's wartime leader in his recovery. He called on Churchill at his home in London.

Seaway
Fears

By ROBERT KICE
OTTAWA (CP) — Two federal cabinet ministers were trying Thursday night to find a way to end a seaway boycott which threatens to bring most of Canada's lake fleet to a standstill.

The boycott was launched at 8 p.m. Thursday in the St. Lawrence Seaway and Welland Canal against all ships manned by crews belonging to the Seafarers International Union of Canada, a maritime union which kicked out the CLC two years ago and now embroiled in a bitter struggle against a new seamen's union, the Canadian Maritime Union (CMU).

Local police said the people defied police orders to stop plundering, and fighting broke out.

Que. Woods
Are Closed;
Fires Rage

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP) — The north woods mostly were closed to the public Thursday after a fire raged along the timber line.

"Our talks were inconclusive," said Mr. Dodds after the meeting broke up. "I expect to hear further from Mr. Starr and Mr. Baker."

The boycott was staged by seaway employees who are members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers. It was apparently designed as a triple squeeze play—against the SIU and its American-born president, Hal C. Banks; against the shipping companies that sold contracts with the SIU; and against the federal government.

The identity of her travelling companions were kept secret, but there was speculation she was accompanied by her French teacher, Suzanne Josselin.

Family Escapes
When Car Rolls

BETHEL, Me. (AP) — A family of five from Saint John, N.B., was injured, none seriously, when their car rolled over several times on U.S. highway 2 Thursday.

All were taken to hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises. State Trooper Anson Doughty identified the injured as George J. Rickard, 44, a Salvation Army officer, his wife, Margaret, 42, and their children, Catherine, 16, Brian, 10, and Thomas, 6.

Doughty said the Rickards, heading west toward Lewiston, N.B., were on a road trip. The car rolled over several times within 90 feet.

Lyons Takes Secret Trip
As Special Session Urged

REGINA (CP) — Premier Woodrow Lloyd is in eastern Canada on a secret mission connected with Saskatchewan's medical care dispute, his deputy revealed Thursday at a press conference.

Deputy Premier J. H. Brockelbank declined to give details of the trip and would not say where Mr. Lloyd was in eastern Canada.

He did not discount the possibility the premier might be discussing the idea of an outside mediator in the dispute between the CCF government and striking doctors in Saskatchewan.

HEADS NURSES

Miss R.A. Elecia MacLennan of Halifax has been elected president of the 63,000 member Canadian Nurses Association at a meeting in Vancouver.

The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons a few hours earlier turned down the suggestion of an outside mediator as unworkable.

Asked by a reporter whether Mr. Lloyd would meet Carl H. Goldenburg Montreal lawyer and mediator of the recent Royal York hotel strike, Mr. Brockelbank replied: "He is a famous name in this kind of work and he is in that area of the country."

CS Alarmed
Over Delay
In Pay Boost

OTTAWA (CP) — The Civil Service Association of Canada Thursday expressed "grave concern over extended delay" in pay increases for 50,000 federal employees and asked Prime Minister Diefenbaker for an early statement.

"We urge this matter be given top priority by treasury board and cabinet," the telegram said. "Would welcome public assurance of this from you as well as indication when decision is to be announced."

The review, latest in a series of cyclical pay raises for various groups of civil servants, would affect clerical employees and some professionals. About 20,000 of the civil servants involved live in the Ottawa area.
