

Economists To Hear Research Director

"The new look in foods" will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Paul Sims, director of the Food Research Institute, Canada department of agriculture, to Atlantic Provinces home economists at their convention Oct. 8, 9, and 10 at the Charlottetown Hotel.

Dr. Sims, who is concerned in his present position with all scientific aspects of food on a national and international level, was appointed head of the institutes in 1962.

Following his graduation from McGill University in 1950 with his PhD degree, he was employed with the National Research Council in the carbohydrates and fats section of the division of applied biology, and later with the department of agriculture.

Other speakers at the convention will include Lorraine Dennis, McGill Pattern Corporation, New York; Mary Morley, inspector of home economics for the Nova Scotia department of education; Alfred Hennessy, Charlottetown architect; Mrs.

Power Commission Suggested By Shaw

Establishment of a commission by the federal government to make an overall study of the prospects of power development in the Atlantic area, was proposed Friday by Premier Walter R. Shaw.

Future hydro power requirements in the Atlantic area was one of the subjects discussed at this week's meeting in Halifax of the Atlantic Provinces premiers, said Premier Shaw.

In view of proposed power developments such as in Labrador, New Brunswick and Quebec, he said, "it is of the utmost importance to the province just where our contacts will be made. Some power sources may be cheaper than others for us."

The premier said there is no clear picture of what power will be available in the next few years and some kind of federally appointed commission could "clarify that picture."

Premier Shaw said that New Brunswick's Premier Louis Robichaud brought up the suggestion of Atlantic Provinces union at the Halifax meeting Wednesday.

"It was my view," said Premier Shaw, "that we can't break up the establishment of a century and the facilities we have for the conducting of government business in the province. Atlantic union could break up the civil service, or reduce it, and the seat of government could be removed from the problems we face in this province."

"I don't think any money would be saved by union a day we have a long, sprawling-out province running from Labrador to East Point."

AT MEETING

Premier Shaw said there was a suggestion at the meeting that the idea of Atlantic union should be studied by a commission on the part of the provinces for Atlantic union. He maintained that no move should be made until the matter is brought to the attention of the Legislatures and the peoples of the various provinces.

The premier said there is no doubt that the idea of Atlantic union will be discussed in the provinces. He said "I wouldn't be surprised if the matter comes up for discussion at the next session of our Legislature."

He added that the suggestion has already received much publicity and has been commented on in the press.

"In any event," the premier said, "we came into Confederation as separate provinces and I think our aim and responsibility is, to present a unified case to the federal government, that the intent of Confederation was to provide a reasonable measure of services to all provinces."

Other matters discussed at the Halifax conference included off-shore mineral rights of the provinces and transportation problems.

"It is anticipated," the premier said, "that the matter of off-shore rights will be discussed at a federal-provincial conference later this year." The premier added that the Atlantic Provinces are ready to take a joint approach to federal authorities to "head off any injury that might result from federal legislation changing transportation acts."

Magistrate Dismisses Case Against Westmoreland Man

A charge of failing to yield the right of way to a vehicle on the highway when coming out of a private driveway, against Bertram James Trowsdale, of Westmoreland, was dismissed in Queen's County Magistrate's Court Friday, by County Magistrate James B. Johnston, QC.

The charge was laid by the RCMP Borden detachment, after a traffic mishap at Crapaud on the evening of Sept. 14.

Albert Woolridge, of Westview Drive, Charlottetown, a CNR tractor-trailer driver, testified he was driving through Crapaud towards Charlottetown, when a car came out of a driveway ahead of him.

Mr. Woolridge said he braked hard, and the tractor-trailer "jack-knifed," coming to a stop in the laneway of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rogerson, from which the car had appeared.

The defendant, Mr. Trowsdale, testified he had not seen the tractor-trailer approach, and he left the Rogerson driveway.

Mr. Trowsdale was represented by Ber Campbell, Crown prosecutor was Alan K. Seales.

It was established that the Rogerson home and driveway were not far from a curb in Crapaud, and the tractor-trailer had rounded the curb prior to jack-knifing. Mr. Woolridge estimated his speed had been between 35 and 40 miles per hour.

Defence counsel Mr. Campbell pointed out to the court the speed limit within 50 feet of a curve in the province was 15 to 20 miles per hour.

Asked by Magistrate Johnston if a civil action were pending, Mr. Campbell replied there was.

In dismissing the charge, Magistrate Johnston said: "I do not know you to believe frankly." He said he felt he should not make any decision to give any advantage to any party in a civil action.
