Poetry.

From Hogg's Instructor.

THE DYING MAIDEN TO HER SISTER.

O! come, my sister, to my side,
And lay thy hand in mine;
This earth with all its brightest hopes
My heart must soon resign.

I feel a languor o'er my soul,
A chillness and a pain;
And, as I felt in former years,
Can never feel again.

Together we no more shall joy
To hail the coming spring,
Nor stands beneath the morning sky,
To hear the first lark sing.

Nor shall I kiss the lovely flowers
Around our cottage door;
And woodland heights, and pleasant haughs
Shall bloom for me no more.

Yet weep not so, my sister dear,
Nor vex thy kindly heart—
There is a happy, happy home,
Where souls shall never part.

I change this fitful fleeting scene
For one that changeth not;
Nor shall the weaknesses of earth
Invade that blessed spot.

What, though the lovely little flowers
Are fading from my sight—
What though to me yon beauteous sun
Shall soon be quenched in night:

Earth's brightest sun, its sweetest bud,
Must fleet beyond recall,
But the everlasting smile of Heaven
Doth far surpass them all.

My sister! if, in future years,
Thy cup be full of bliss,
Forget not, 'mid thy brightest hours,
That thou must come to this!

If anxious care thy portion be,
While lasts life's varied day,
Forget not God! He will not let
Thee faint upon the way.

Her voice hath ceased—Death's chilly hand
Is laid upon that tongue,
That pour'd the sweetest melodies
That e'er on earth have rung.

Now all her sorrows on this scene
In time's last change are o'er;
Her happy soul to brighter climes
Hath fled for evermore!

THE SECRET.—'I noticed, said Franklin, 'a mechanic among a number of others, at work on a house erected but a little way from my office, who always appeared to be in a merry humor, who had a kind word and a cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy, or sunless, a happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. Meeting him one morning, I asked him to tell me the secret of his constant happy flow of spirits.'

'No secret, Doctor,' he replied, 'I have got one of the best of wives, and when I go to work, she always has a kind word of encouragement for me; and when I go home she meets me with a smile and a kiss, and then tea is sure to be ready, and she has done so many little things through the day to please me, that I cannot find in my heart to speak an unkind word to anybody.' What an influence, then, hath woman over the heart of man, to soften it and make it the fountain of cheerful and pure emotions.—Speak gently, then; a happy smile and a kind word of greeting, after the toils of the day are over, cost nothing, and go far toward making a home happy and peaceful.

NATURAL WATER PURIFIERS.—Mr. Warrington has for a year past kept twelve gallons of water in a state of admirably balanced purity by the action of two gold fish, six water snails, and two or three specimens of that elegant aquatic plant known as Valisperia sporalis. Before the water snails were introduced, the decayed leaves of the valisperia caused a growth of slimy mucus, which made the water turbid and threatened to destroy both plants and fish. But under the improved arrangement, the slime, as fast as it is engendered, is consumed by the water snails, which reproduce it in the shape of young snails, whose tender bodies again furnish a succulent food to the fish; while the valisperia plants absorb the carbonic acid exhaled by the respiration of their companions, fixing the carbon in their growing stems and luxuriant blossoms, and refreshing the oxygen, (during sunshine in visible little streams) for the respiration of the snails and the fish. The spectacle of perfect equilibrium thus simply maintained between animal, vegetable, and inorganic activity, is striking and beautiful; and such means may possibly hereafter be made available on a large scale for keeping tanked water clear and sweet.—London Review.

The native Hindus are, at present, under a very general impression, that their religion will be overthrown, and Christianity be universally established.

THE TEARS OF OYSTERS.—Glancing around the anatomical workshop, we find amongst other things, some preparations showing the nature of pearls. Examine them, and you will find that there are dark and dingy pearls just as there are handsome and ugly men; the dark pearl being found on the dark shell of the fish, the white brilliant one upon the smooth inside shell. Going farther in the search, we find the smooth glittering lining upon which the fish moves is known as the nacre, and that it is produced by a portion of the animal called the mantle, and for explanation sake we may add that gourmands practically know the mantle as the beard of the oyster. When living in its glossy house, should any foreign substance find its way through the shell to disturb the smoothness so essential to its ease, the fish coats the offending substance with nacre, and pearl is thus formed. The pearl is in fact a little globe of the smooth glossy substance yielded by the oyster's beard; yielded ordinarily to smooth the narrow home to which his nature binds him, but yielding in large drops—real pearly tears if he is hurt. When a beauty glides proudly among a throng of admirers, her hair clustering with pearls, she little thinks that her ornaments are products of pain and diseased action, endured by the most unpoetical of shell fish.—Household Words.

"MANY A SLIP, BETWEEN THE CUP AND THE LIP."—This saying was supposed to take its origin from one of Penelope's wooers being shot as he was going to drink. But it arose, as Ainsworth has it, thus:—"A king of Thrace had planted a vineyard, when one of his slaves, whom he had much oppressed in that very work, prophesied that the king should never taste the wine produced by it. The king disregarded his prophecy, and when, at an entertainment, he held a cupful of his own wine, he sent for this slave, and asked him insultingly what he thought of his prophecy now? The slave only answered, "There's many a slip between the cup and the lip." Scarcely had he spoken when the news was brought that a huge boar was laying his vineyard waste. The king arose in a fury, attacked the boar, and was killed without ever tasting the wine.

SINGULAR ATMOSPHERIC PHENOMENA.—Yesterday (Good Friday) morning, shortly before 1 o'clock, the persons passing over the metropolitan bridges were considerably alarmed at beholding a most singular appearance in the heavens, which at once led them to conclude, that a most terrible conflagration had broken out in the neighborhood of the Old Kent Road, near New Cross, or Deptford. The engines of the Brigade belonging to that side of the water started in search. Upon starting, the scene that presented itself was one of fearful brillancy. The heavens presented at the south-eastern quarter an appearance of sheet of flame of various hues; first, the light lemon tint, then changing to deep orange, after which they changed to a deep vermilion. The engines were driven with all possible speed in the direction of the supposed fire, but after proceeding some miles, the moon shone out with the greatest splendor, and the previous signs of a fire disappeared. —Liverpool paper, April 10.

THE ROAD TO HEALTH!

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7 Prescot Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY;

SIR,—Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on our sale list of Proprietary Medicines for some years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any enquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars of her case. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver, and bad digestion. On the last occasion, however, the virulence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set in so severely, that doubts were entertained of her not being able to bear up under it; fortunately she was induced to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first, and each succeeding dose, she had great relief. She continued to take them, and although she used only three Boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many more cases, but the above, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think, speaks much in favor of your astonishing Pills.

(Signed) R. W. KIRKUS.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC FEVER, IN VAN DIEMEN'S LAND.

Copy of a Letter inserted in the Hobart Town Courier, of the of the 1st March, 1851, by Major J. Walch.

Margaret M'Connigan, nineteen years of age, residing at New Town, has been suffering from a violent rheumatic fever for upwards of two months, which had entirely deprived her of the use of her limbs; during this period, she was under the care of the most eminent medical men in Hobart Town, and by them her case was considered hopeless. A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she consented to do, and in an incredibly short space of time they effected a perfect cure.

CURE OF A PAIN AND TIGHTNESS IN THE CHEST AND STOMACH OF A PERSON 84 YEARS OF AGE.

From Messrs. Thew & Son, Proprietors of the Lynn Advertiser, who can vouch for the following statement.—August 2, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

SIR,—I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a pain and tightness in the stomach, which was also accompanied by a shortness of breath, that prevented me from walking about. I am 84 years of age, and notwithstanding my advanced state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am desirous that others should be made acquainted with their virtues. I am now rendered, by their means, comparatively active, and can take exercise without inconvenience or pain, which I could not do before.

(Signed) HENRY COE,
North Street, Lynn, Norfolk.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF THE GRAVEL, AND A MOST DANGEROUS LIVER COMPLAINT.

Copy of a Letter addressed to J. K. Heydon, Esq, Sidney, New South Wales, dated February 25, 1851.

SIR,—A Mr. Thomas Clark, a settler at Lake George, was for a considerable time seriously afflicted with a complaint of the Liver, together with the Gravel. His medical attendants, after trying all their skill, candidly told him that his case was hopeless, and any further efforts useless. In this situation, and when expecting every day would terminate his existence, a friend recommended him to try Holloway's Pills, and as a forlorn hope he did so, the first dose gave him considerable relief, he therefore persevered in taking them according to the directions, and is now restored to perfect health He will feel great pleasure in confirming this statement, or even make an affidavit to the same effect, should it be required.

(Signed) Wm. JONES, Proprietor of Goulburn Herald, New South Wales.
