

The Stars Say

By Genevieve Kemble

For Tomorrow
THERE is little change in the stellar configurations for the previous day.

For the Birthday
Those whose birthday it may be disposed to take some chances in business contacts as well as in new affiliations in connection with important persons, finding initiative and drama in new propositions.

Toothache
A bag of salt heated fairly hot and placed on the face over the aching tooth will often relieve the pain.

Aerowax

A Country Garden

By Mrs. Gordon MacMillan

"Comfort me with apples. What can your eyes desire to see, your ears to hear, your mouth to taste and your nose to smell, that is not to be had in an orchard? With abundance and variety? What shall I say? 1000 of delights are in an orchard, and sooner shall I be weary than I can reckon the least part of that pleasure which one, that hath and loves an orchard, may find therein."

Apples are gathered and stored these days and for the first time in some years are of good quality; the fragrance and color of this fruit of the orchard make of the gathering a happy task.

Barberries are now covered with their scarlet berries and they will remain throughout the entire winter if the birds do not eat them. There is singular beauty in this low, much-branched, gracefully rounded shrub when it stands alone on the lawn; and a hedge of it becomes in Autumn a mass of glowing color-bright scarlet leaves, and bright scarlet fruit in pendent clusters.

The history of the Barbery goes back to some remote period before the Christian era when Greek and Roman physicians were using a remarkable drug which they called lycium.

The argosies brought it from African ports and on the Adriatic. The finest of all came from northern India, shipped from the mouth of the Indus. So precious was the liquid that special lycium-vases were made to contain it.

Centuries passed before it was discovered that lycium was extracted from the root bark of a shrub; so thereafter the bark was imported instead, and the physicians made their own drug.

As the liquid was already known as lycium, the bark became simply barbaris, from the barbarous hinterland of India and from Barbaria, the Barbary Coast. In the seventh century the berberis from India was supplanted by a shrub that grew in Italy and Greece.

"Each time that I look at a fine landscape: Each time I meet a loved friend, I raise my voice and recite a stanza of poetry And am glad as though a God had crossed my path!"

—Chinese Poem.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Leo

Q. If a man is forced by circumstances to send a woman whom he has been escorting home in a taxi, is he supposed to pay the taxi fare?

A. He most certainly is! He should inquire of the driver the approximate amount the fare will be and then pay him, adding enough for a tip.

Q. What kind of flowers should a bride wear if she is married in a traveling costume and prefers not to carry an arm bouquet?

A. She may wear a corsage of orchids, gardenias, or any other flower that suits her fancy.

Q. If a man finds it necessary to introduce himself, does he put the "Mr." before his name?

A. No; he usually says, "I am John Black," or "My name is Black," unless of course, he has a title, as "Dr. Black."

How Can I

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I make use of lemon seeds?

A. They can be planted and treated as house plants. They make pretty shrubs and the leaves may be used for flavoring. Tie a few leaves in a cloth and put into the apple sauce for a few minutes. It gives a delicious flavor.

Q. How can I destroy plant insects?

A. To destroy insects and also to fertilize the plant, soak one tablespoonful of smoking tobacco in one quart of water overnight. Pour this solution on the soil about once every thirty days.

Q. How can I brighten a dark bedroom?

A. If the bedroom is located on the dark side of the house furnish it with yellow draperies and decorations and see how it brightens the room.

Better English

By S. G. Williams

1. What is wrong with this sentence: "I'll start in reading the book today and will probably finish it up tomorrow?"

2. What is the correct pronunciation of "automaton"?

3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Rebuttal, reappearance, realism, restaurateur.

4. What does the word "disconsolate" mean?

5. What is a word beginning with ins that means "not sufficient"?

ANSWERS: 1. Say, "I'll start (omit in) reading the book today and shall probably finish it (omit up) tomorrow." 2. Pronounce a-tom-a-ton, first a as in all, both o's as in on, accent second syllable. 3. Realism. 4. Deeply dejected; sad. "We were moved by the tears of this disconsolate man." 5. Inadequate.

Uncertainty

Girl Who Doubts Sweetheart Really Lacks Faith In Self

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I decide if the boy I am about to describe is in love with me, as he contends? Andy is now 20, I am 28. We met about six years ago and have more or less been steady ever since. He has never forgotten my birthday, holidays or anniversaries of things important to us. I, however, have been somewhat remiss in these things. He is helpful around the house when I have things to do, would be a good provider, and, as far as I know, has never even fibbed to me. Yet the feeling persists that I cannot wholly believe in him. He readily tells others how much he loves me and what a fine person I am. I occasionally date other and, while I know he doesn't like it, he doesn't object. I feel that I love him, but am afraid to show it as I can't believe he loves me as much as he claims. He has proposed marriage, but I fear to accept him. He has offered to prove his love in any way I ask. How can I have him prove it? E. S. D.

are too appreciative of attention from other men and lack Andy's thoughtfulness in remembering special occasions. Surely, if you really loved the man, you could overcome these weaknesses in your character.

TOO-LONG FRIENDSHIP

Another factor in your uncertain relationship is that you have been going together for too long a period. A six-year friendship, at your respective ages, certainly indicates marriage, and the fact that it has been postponed is indicative of emotional instability on the part of at least one of you. Andy sounds like a fine fellow and is much too good to be hurt by you. If you can't convince yourself that he deserves fairer treatment, you had better end the friendship now before more complications develop.

If you squarely face the fact of what your life will be without Andy around, you might be helped to a decision. From your letter, I can see absolutely no grounds for your lack of faith in him. In all things, he is almost a model sweetheart, and would make just as fine a husband. Stop analyzing Andy, and get busy on yourself.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 15 years old, a junior in high school, and very much in love with a boy I would like to marry this fall. Both my sisters married at 16 and neither one is happy. Do you think I could be?

FLORA S.

ANSWER: Experience, they say, is a hard school but fools will learn in no other way. You certainly have been shown enough examples of the heartaches that follow most too-early marriages. Why not profit from your sisters' experiences and wait?

DEAR MISS DIX: My friend, Tommy, is going into service for three years. I am 17 and he is 20. I think a lot of him and am eagerly waiting his leave. My problem is that my girl friend Dora wants to meet him and in the past she has succeeded in taking several boy friends away from me. How can I be sure of not losing him?

H. F.

ANSWER: Dora sounds like undiluted poison. She certainly is unworthy of your friendship, and should be summarily crossed off your list of pals. You'll just have to take your chances on Tommy. If he really likes you, Dora won't be able to sway him. To be on the safe side, try to keep them apart.

"What ever made you suggest piano lessons to your wife?" asked the senior partner. "Has she special talents?"

"No," replied the junior executive, "but you have no idea of how much extra time I get for reading now."

FRENCH OR FLAKY PASTRY

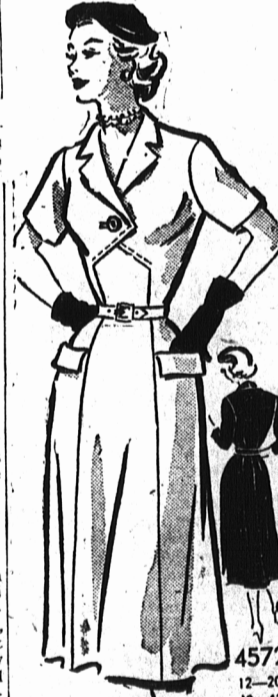

Two cups pastry flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup best quality shortening—preferably half butter. Mix and sift flour and salt. Cut in 2 table-spoons of the shortening with a knife or pastry blender, add just enough cold water to bind it and knead it on very lightly floured board for 5 full minutes. Cover tightly and chill thoroughly. Roll on lightly floured board to ¼ inch thickness in a rectangle with square corners. Remaining shortening should be room temperature. Shape into circular pat and place it in centre of bottom half of rectangle of dough. Fold other half over it. Press edges tightly together to hold in air. Fold right side over left side under enclosed shortening. Chill through. Roll out again in
