"Old Timer" Recalls The Yukon Gold Rush Days

GEN OLD TIMER

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

We were lucky up at Dawson City in the Yukon that Alex Adams was there to tell us about the old days.

"For he had been part of them since 1898, and he could make the mauling halls come alive again with the shouts of miners, tired and lonesome from weeks months in the wilderness, and the dancehall girls who were there to make them forget it."

Mr. Adams himself had been a prospector and on the very stage before us, he had also danced jigs, reels and hornpipes for the noisy crowds.

He made it come alive for delegates of the Commonwealth Min-ing and Metallurgical Congress, probably the most interna-tional group he had seen in the old places since the adventurers of many lands crowded there nearly 60 years ago. The delegates are making a northern trip as part of the congress.

"Come on in boys," he greeted us with pleasant irony. "You may as well go broke here as anywhere else. We are short of gins today, or you'd go broke quicker."

DEBRIS OF YEARS

It was the Auditorium Theatre, built in 1899. Now it was bare ex-cept for the debris of the years scattered about and the tatter-backdrops of the stage.

A thousand or more miners could crowd its large main floor, or the two balconies which rose above it. The first balcony offer-ing a little more seclusion than the main floor; and the second balcony with its semi-enclosed boxes, with its semi-enclosed boxes, most seclusion of all.

"I'll tell you how it was," said Mr. Adams. "A bottle of wine cost $15 on the first floor, $20 on the first gallery, and $35 on the second.

"A girl would ask a miner if he'd buy her a drink. He would of course say yes, and if she could she would head for the top $35 gallery.

"If he bought only one bottle she'd wait until he pulled the cork, and then probably disap-pear."

"If he bought two bottles—one for each—she'd make a pretence at drinking hers, but when she got a chance, she would pour it into a spittoon.

"W!" Mr. Adams added with more irony, "a miner didn't mind treating the spittoon at $35 a bottle, but after three rounds at $70 a round he might have to mil he was running short of gold dust."

JOIN IN CHORUS

Such an admission would often be the signal for everyone around to join in a chorus whose punch line was:

"You couldn't have been very dusty when you first came in."

For the miner, however, there wasn't much else to do but go back into the hills, valleys, and creeks and pan some more. He always thought he could find more.

Mr. Adams was giving us, for our entertainment, the honky-tonk highlights which he had seen. He knew we knew there was much more to the story than that. He knew and we knew of the raw courage of the men who brought out more than $100,000-000 in gold which sent a surge of money into the outside and brought gain to millions who never saw the Yukon.

The stories of those men are still alive more than half a cen-tury later; they opened up the vast territory which despite any dull years has stayed open and now may be on the threshold of something vaster and richer than the old gold rush.

Hope To Find More Survivors From The Pamir

SANTA MARIA—Azores (Reu-ter)—Reports of light signals and floating objects Tuesday raised hopes of finding more survivors from the ill-fated windjammer Pamir. Five survivors were res-cued Monday.

Two rescue ships sped toward a spot about 620 miles southwest of these Atlantic islands after a United States search plane re-ported sighting three objects float-ing close together there.

The plane circled overhead to mark the spot as light signals at two nearby points were reported. The five survivors on Monday said 25 more of the 86 men aboard the four-masted West Ger-man grain clipper managed to leave the ship in a boat before she foundered in a hurricane Sat-urday.

The survivors were reported to be in fair condition as they headed for Casablanca, Morocco, aboard the United States trans-port Geiger.

In Hamburg, the Pamir's own-ers, the Pamir-Passat Foundation said the reports of light signals were "very good news" that bol-stered "our hope that more sur-vivors may be found."

Meanwhile, Gibraltar authori-ties received an unconfirmed re- port that the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Abasco had picked up some Pamir survivors and was bringing them there. But they stressed this message might have been a garbled version of earlier ones saying the second would take on the original five survivors.

The air search began Tuesday at dawn. Twelve U.S. Air Force planes were among the aircraft searching the Atlantic after weath-er conditions improved during the night.

Visibility during the day was up to 20 miles, while the sea had moderated to six-foot swells.

CRUSTY DINNER ROLLS

Measure into a large bowl 1/2 c. lukewarm water; crumble and add 1 cake Best Yeast—or stir in 1 tsp. granulated sugar and sprinkle with 1 envelope Best dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well. Add 3/4 c. lukewarm water and 1 tsp. salt. Add, all at once, 3 1/2 c. once-sifted all-purpose flour and work in with the hands; work in 3 tbs. soft shortening. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Cover with a damp cloth and set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough in bowl, fold over, cover and again let rise until doubled in bulk. Turn out on lightly-floured board and divide into 2 equal portions; shape each portion into a long roll about 1 1/2" in diameter. Cover with a damp cloth and let rest 15 mins. Using a floured sharp knife, cut dough into 2" lengths and place, well apart, on ungreased cookie sheets. Sprinkle rolls with cornmeal and let rise, uncovered, for 1/2 hour. Brush with cold water and let rise another 1/2 hour. Meanwhile, stand a broad shallow pan of hot water in the oven and preheat oven to hot, 425°. Remove pan of water from oven and bake the rolls in steam-filled oven for 1/2 hour, brushing them with cold water and sprinkling lightly with cornmeal after the first 15 mins., and again brushing them with cold water 2 minutes before removing baked buns from the oven. Yield—18 rolls.
