Believes Winter Unemployment Can Be Eased

QUEBEC (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg said Sunday he is confident that much can be done to alleviate winter unemployment.

He told the convention of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor that the subject will be studied at the federal-provincial conference opening at Ottawa Oct. 3.

At the October federal-provincial conference, one of the items for discussion will be public investment and resources development. Mr. Gregg told the Quebec labor body.

"It is hoped that this will provide for more co-operative development plans in many parts of the country which will result in steady employment for an increasing number of Canadian workers."

The labor minister said federal government departments have been directed to let contracts so as to provide work during the winter months when unemployment annually is highest.

"With the support of employers and workers organizations as well as the co-operation of consumers, I am confident that much can be achieved to alleviate seasonal unemployment."

Commenting on labor progress, he said that labor unity and the guaranteed annual wage are among subjects that have passed.

Will Ask For Execution Stay

QUEBEC (CP)—A defence lawyer for Wilbert Coffin, scheduled to be hanged Sept. 23 for the murder of a United States bear hunter, said Sunday he will ask a Quebec superior court justice for a stay of execution.

Francis Gravel, one of Coffin's two lawyers, said also he will submit to the full bench of the Supreme Court of Canada this week a motion for leave to appeal the conviction.

Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott of the Supreme Court of Canada turned down a defence motion for leave appeal in Ottawa two weeks ago.

An appeal motion can be presented to a full bench of the Supreme Court. The other alternative left to save Coffin's life would be the intervention of the federal cabinet.

Plans Tour Of Eastern Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — Arthur Douglas Dods - Parker, Parliamentary under-secretary of state for Commonwealth relations and probably Britain's tallest senior government official, arrived here Saturday by air from London to start a four-week eastern Canada tour.

Mr. Dods-Parker, who is six feet, six inches high, said the purpose of his visit is to "get to know what Canadians are thinking to hear their views and learn some of their problems."

At 46, Mr. Dods-Parker is considered one of the rising stars of the Conservative party. He was named under-secretary last October after holding down various posts in the foreign office.

He begins his tour with a visit to Arvida, Que., Sept. 13, returning again to Montreal Oct. 2. The tour ends Oct. 8 in Toronto after stops at Quebec, Knob Lake, Saint John, N. B., Halifax, Stephenville and St. John's, Nfld., Sydney, N. S., and Ottawa.

Agenda Illustrates Split In British Labor Party

LONDON (AP) — The Labor party—beaten in the last two parliamentary elections—goes to Margate next month for a soul-searching conference dominated by this question: "What do we stand for now?"

The agenda for the conference, issued Sunday night by Labor headquarters, shows some member want to swing the party back to militant socialism. The agenda is filled with resolutions of this tone. But the party's dominant wing seems to doubt the wisdom of an all-out plunge to the left.

Arthur Bevan leads the vocal left-wing group clamoring for more socialism. The moderates are grouped around deputy leader Herbert Morrison and Hugh Gaitskell, a former chancellor of the exchequer.

Former prime minister Clement Attlee, the party's 77-year-old leader, hovers between the two groups, trying to keep down clashes of personality and to give the party the appearance of a united organization. But Attlee had a mild stroke this summer and may soon retire.

Even with the massive voting strength of the powerful trade unions, Labor lost to the Conservatives in the elections in 1951 and again last May. In the sessions at Margate from Oct. 10 to 14 an attempt will be made to discover why.

Basically, the left wingers think the party lost the two elections because the voters could not tell the difference between Conservative policies and the official Labor party position.

NOT EASY SOLUTION
Before the war, the entire party believed that socialism—nationalization of the means of production—was the right road for Britain. During the time it was in power, from 1945 to 1951, the party nationalized the coal mines, railways, gas, electricity, airlines and Bank of England. It also put in a system of socialized medicine.

But the experience of those years convinced those in the party's moderate wing that socialism was no easy answer to all social problems, and that any further steps in that direction would have to be taken carefully.

The proposed rail line will connect with the railway now operating between Knob Lake, Labrador and Seven Islands, Que.

If the motion to back the bond issue is defeated, Premier Smallwood's liberal government will fall. But political observers say there is little chance of defeat.

The session is expected to end later this week.
