THE DAILY EXAMINER.

NOVEMBER 5, 1880.

The Carriage of Cattle and Sheep on the Railway.

WE have many times called attention to the expediency, nay—if the Railway is to prove the success it may prove—the necessity of a modification of the railway tariff to suit the particular circumstances of this Province. We have also called attention particularly to the want of better arran gements for the care and carriage of cattle and sheep in transit. We have reason for the belief that these representations were not without due weight with Mr. McNab and our Island representatives. In point of fact, several modifications have been made. But the new superintendent, being a stranger here, cannot be supposed to know what requires to be doner. And we shall therefore again, from time to time, take the liberty of calling attention to some of the defects which should be remedied.

First, and perhaps most important is the necessity of improved arrangements for the care and carriage of sheep and cattle. We complain, not without cause, that sheep for the British Market have to be taken hence to Quebec, before they are shipped. This is "a defective arrangement," to remedy which some trouble may be experienced. But to make their carriage on the Island railway as cheap, easy and safe, as it is on other railways is a matter of no real difficulty. On other railways there are suitable pens for cattle and sheep. It would not be hard to make pens, with separate places for different kinds of stock, at the principal stations along the line. Other railways have cars fitte l up for the carriage of as many as one hundred and sixty sheep, while the cars on the Island Railway carry only about fifty, and that with such packing that if there were here a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, the railway officials would, in all probability, be brought to book. The fitting up of a few cars for the special purpose of carrying sheep ought not to cost a great deal. We are convinced that a little outlay and attention on the part of the railway authorities would, with the necessary modification of the tariff, be the means of materially enlarging the usefulness of the railway in this respect. The trade in cattle and sheep is a growing trade; and we believe it will pay the Railway to meet its wants.

Not Worth a Fuss.

WE do not, as our correspondent "Peter" does, see the necessity of making a fuss about the new Superintendent's Private Secretary. To do so will merely divert attention from the main question, which is one of principle rather than one of persons. Mr. Archibald, never having been on the Island before, does not, of course, know any one here. Therefore he cannot be expected to place confidence in any one here; and, needing a private Secretary, it is but natural that he should select one he is acquainted with. This being so, his Private Secretary is necessarily a Nova Scotian. Apart from this good reason, we do not see why an Islander should not have the position.—It is sufficiently subordinate.

Defective Commercial Arrangements.

ONE of the defective commercial arrangements of Prince Edward is well shown up by "Observer" in his "Notes of the Past Month." We do hope that our merchants and farmers will wake up to the necessity of remedying this defect before next season. That we should be obliged to send sheep to the British market by way of Quebec, a circuit of sixteen hundred miles, is disgraceful enough to rouse every Islander of spirit to an effort to make a better arrangement. There is no doubt that by the co-operation of farmers and merchants this could be done.

A Straw.

SINCE we began to assert the right—hitherto denied by both parties—of the Island to consideration in the promotion of Civil Service and Railway officials, we have been unable, with the usual issues, to meet the demand for THE EXAMINER. As straws show which way the wind blows, so this fact shows the feeling abroad in the Island.

Election Day at the "Hub."

HOW THEY ENTHUSE — GIGANTIC PROCESSIONS OF RIVAL PARTIES—POWER OF THE "ALMIGHTY DOLLAR" EXEMPLIFIED—HOW THE RESULT WAS RECEIVED—A GOOD DESCRIPTION.

This is the day upon which the hopes of both Republicans and Democrats have been centered for the past four years; viz., "election day;" and now that it has really arrived the excitement and enthusiasm know no bounds. You, Provincials, do not know how to enthuse worth one cent, and will have to come to Yankeeland to learn how it ought to be done. Last evening a grand Republican demonstration was announced to take place in South Boston, and a Democratic ditto in North Boston. Be it understood that South Boston is aristocratic, and therefore Repubcican, whilst North and East Boston are now inhabited by the lower orders, and therefore Democratic, so that a happy nicety of judgment was displayed in the selection of the routes, that there might be no clash, Well! I went to South Boston and took up a commanding position from which I was enabled to view the entire "procesh," which had in it many strange points calculated to attract the attention of a stranger. In the first place along came a detachment of mounted police every member of which was smoking a cigar, which looked odd to one accustomed to the severe discipline exacted from, and observed by, the Ch'town police force. I cannot begin to give you a description of the procession, which I observed from my standpoint for two and a half hours, and then it becoming monotonous, I left. So I will merely give you a few of the saliant points. There could not have been less than 25,000 in the procession, all of whom were uniformed and carried torches. The uniform of the greater number much resembled that of our snow-shoe club, excepting that strapped to each man's back was a tin cup, which, upon enquiry, I found was for drinking purposes, as every now and then a halt was made and vans containing hot coffee supplied their stores to the dusty and tired processionists. One noticeable feature was the number of boys (whose ages ranged from eight to sixteen) in the procession. A man standing behind me, who was evidently a Democrat, in reply to the observation that "it was a very large procession," remarked, "Wall! this is a time that I like to see men not boys." The Harvard students appeared to be the grand feature; as the mottoes on their transparencies were very absurd and amusing. one, in the shape of a coffin, that I noticed was this :—

"HANCOCK AT HOME."

Poor Hancock gave up the Ghost
Nov. 2, 1880. Mourned
by few.

Another was "our occupation," and you could plainly discern a chap sawing off the leg of another. It also seemed strange to see United States troops taking part in a party demonstration; but such was the case. There they were. Every now and then we heard a call repeated from line to line, G-A-R-F-I-E-L-D, and then a shout "Garfield." To get the full effect of this you must remember that G passed three miles down the line (that being the length of the procession)—A next, and so forth, while the whole name was a universal shout. This was diversified by, W-E A-R-E R-E-P-U-B-L-I-C-A-N-S, &c. As before stated, I left after viewing this procession for two and a half hours. But no sooner was I safely housed in my hotel (which being near the business portion of the city, is therefore in Democratic quarters) than the Democratic procession began to pass, and when I retired to rest at 12.30 a. m., they were engaged in that pleasing operation. I made a remark "that the poor devils must be tired," but was met with the soft impeachment that they did not care a curse as they were paid $1.00 a night to march, and the more nights the more money. This, of course, had a rather deteriorating effect upon my impressions of the campaign, as it appears that the party who have the most money can have the largest procession.

To-night the announcement of the result of the election was made known. As customary, I was in the midst of the throng, and I am afraid that Island journalists will have to come to the U. S. to receive lessons. Washington street (upon which most of the journalists hang out) was packed by a dense mass, and to force a passage was both impossible and undesirable. The street was illuminated by the electric light, and three journals, the Boston Globe, (Democrat), the Boston Herald, (Independent), and the Boston Journal, (Republican), had prepared calcium sheets, upon which the returns from the different States were shewn as quickly as received. I stood opposite the Boston Globe office, before which the Democratic mass had congregated. Bulletins came out, or rather were shown as magic lantern performances, every two minutes, and upon the appearance of each bulletin there was a Democratic howl of approbation. The bulletin ran thus :—

Lynn, Mass.	As goes New York
Hancock, 1037.	so goes the Union.
Garfield, 635.
New York gives	Democrats claimed
Hancock a maj'ty	New York, but the
of 10,000, sure.	cat has jumped the other way.

interspersed with portraits of Hancock, English, Ben Butler, &c. &c., as also caricatures of "The Solid South" in despair, weeping negroes, &c., &c. Further up the street, from the Boston Journal (Republican) flashed out upon our astonished gaze the true returns, giving Garfield a most astonishing majority. This cheap magic lantern exhibition was made most interesting by portraits of Garfield, Arthur, Ranney, Strickland and others, whilst the wierd light of the electric light lit up the scene. Hisses and cheers were heard alternately, whilst those who had bet on Hancock cursed their luck; and now, as writing, the same chance appears. You will find parties in this hotel willing to give you odds, to take you on an even bet, or to assert that Garfield is elected without a chance of defeat. Awaiting which,

I am yours truly,
