

Two Ottawa RCMP Officers Visit Ch'town

Two RCMP officers from RCMP Headquarters, Ottawa, visited Charlottetown over the weekend, in connection with the Queen's visit here Oct. 6. They were Supt. W. G. Fraser and Insp. J. V. Gorman. Details of the two RCMP officers' visit were not disclosed. While in Charlottetown they met with the Officer-Commanding L. Division RCMP, for Prince Edward Island, Supt. A. S. McNeill.

Last week Premier Walter R. Shaw reported that the "Re-It" possible security has been arranged for the Queen's visit to the island.

The premier was critical of the amount of publicity given to security arrangements, and stated that the Queen and her visits here in October, would be "as safe in this province as she is in Buckingham Palace."

Windjammer's Crew Puts On Show For MP

The fullrigged windjammer Christian Radich sails for her home port of Oslo in far-off Norway this afternoon after a weekened visit to Charlottetown. The all-white steel-hulled three-masted chugged through the harbor under the harbor under the diesel power on a drizzly Sunday morning, her sails lightly furling around her yardarms as the mist, the rain and lack of wind prevented her Charlottetown bow in full majesty of canvas.

Hardy had the school ship of the Norwegian merchant navy tied up along the end of Government wharf but many of the 85 cadets that form the crew tumbled ashore and boarded a bus to attend morning church service at the Kirk with their skipper, Captain Kivild Backen of the Royal Norwegian Navy.

Despite a few grumbles about the admission fee of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, the people of Charlottetown were allowed aboard Sunday and Monday to tour the picturesque sailing ship, which has just spent some six weeks on a goodwill cruise up the St. Lawrence Seaway to the Great Lakes to visit Milwaukee, Chicago, Cleveland,

Two Receive Minor Injuries

BANK OF MONTREAL UNIVERSITY EDUCATION PROGRAMME

A comprehensive, life-insured plan for financing a college education for boys and girls now in high school

If you are like most parents with children in high school, you are probably wondering how you are going to meet the costs of financing your youngster's college education. To help parents solve this problem, the Bank of Montreal has introduced its University Education Programme—the First Life-insured plan of its kind in Canada.

Under this comprehensive programme, parents, guardians and sponsors of high-school students can spread the cost of a university education over periods of up to nine years, thus keeping monthly payments to amounts they can afford without hardship. And the cost to the parent is only a fraction of the interest paid on a straight loan programme.

HOW TO JOIN THE PROGRAMME

See the people at your neighbourhood B of M branch. You will receive a warm welcome from a staff who will be pleased to give you further details and to help you select a plan suited to your needs. Ask for your copy of the Bank of Montreal University Education Programme folder.

P.S. If you need help in financing a student already in University—or planning to register this year—talk to your BoM Manager. Chances are he can arrange a tuition loan with extended payments adapted to your circumstances.

HOW THE PROGRAMME WORKS

Under the basic plan, the parent agrees to make monthly payments to the Bank starting, say, two years before the student enters university and terminating one year after graduation. In return, the parent receives an annual sum from the Bank at the start of each of the four university years.

LIFE-INSURANCE FEATURE

If the parent concerned should die after the start of the programme, the funds for education specified in the agreement will ultimately be advanced by the Bank each year without any further payments being made by the family or the estate.
