'Priceless' Violin To Be Used In Concert In Ch'town, Nov. 26

The audience at a violin concert to be held at Prince Street School auditorium Nov. 26 will hear, for the first time in concert in this province, the mellow tones of a 270-year-old Guarnerius violin. This instrument is the property of Oscar Emmanuel a music teacher formerly from Portland, Me., who now makes his home at the Dundee Motel in Charlottetown.

Music lovers know that a Guarnerius is one of the famous violins made. It ranks with the Stradivarius, and was made in the town of Cromone, Italy, in 1692 by the man whose name it bears.

The instrument has the appearance of great age, but is in good condition with no cracks in its maple and spruce construction. It is covered with a golden varnish, and the maker's name, the place and date are written underneath the string strut. Mr. Emmanuel describes it as having "deep rich tones like an organ".

With the violin comes a certificate from Albert Hamma, world noted violin expert, describing the instrument minutely and confirming it as a true Guarnerius.

Mr. Emmanuel came into possession of it some 35 years ago from a woman violinist who was no longer able to play. The violin is "priceless" he says; he does not set any value on it. Some 30 years ago it was valued at $20,000. "It is my own personal property and I use it to make a living," he said. "I wouldn't think of selling it".

TAUGHT 35 YEARS

Mr. Emmanuel began to play the violin when he was eight years old. He has been a teacher for over 35 years, and played four seasons with the R.F. Keith Circuit and as a soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. He is a graduate of the New England Conservatory.

The violinist has been in the province about a year. He decided to make his home here "after a couple of visits" Now he doesn't have to "travel around". This will be his first concert in the province. He gives accordion and guitar as well as violin lessons.

Another possession is a 1750 Gabrielli. This one he describes as nice—but there is nothing finer than a Guarnerius."

Junior Red Cross Program Outlined In Alberton, O'Leary

Some 65 teachers took advantage of the two Junior Red Cross workships held Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of this week at Alberton High School and at O'Leary High School.

These workshops were arranged by Mrs. W.W. Reid, director of Junior Red Cross for P.E.I. as the result of requests made by the teachers in these areas at their local teachers' convenions held early in the fall. Mrs. Vernon England and Miss Evelyn Carpenter of Alberton, and Miss Beverly Howard of O'Leary were responsible for making the local arrangements.

Designed to give the teachers practical information which will assist them in correlating the Junior Red Cross program with the total school curriculum, these workshops proved to be most helpful to those who attended. Visual aids were used extensively at these meetings and included the Junior Red Cross film entitled "Friends in Deed", as well as handicrafts and Junior Red Cross magazines and albums from many countries.

Mrs. George MacMillan of Cornwall, who is a teacher at Parkdale Elementary School, assisted Mrs. Reid at both workshops and dealt particularly with methods of intergrating Junior Red Cros with the classroom studies, as well as with the making of albums for exchange with other countries. Discussion groups on various phases of the Junior Red Cross program were also an important part of these conferences.
