CHILDREN WAIT TO PAY TRIBUTE

Waiting their turn to pay tribute to the fallen of two world wars and the Korean conflict at the memorial service at Cornwall Sunday were these children of the area. The seriousness of the occasion is reflected in the facial expressions caught by the camera. Following the ceremony, members of the P.E.I. Regiment Band and the guest speakers, Brig. A. W. Rogers, Rev. J.R. Kelly, Capt. C. W. MacArthur, and Capt. A. C. MacEachern were entertained at tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Salmond, Cornwall.

Farming Is 'New Industry Opportunity', Rotary Told

"The Business of Farming" was the subject of a talk by C. O. Crawford, Moncton, Maritime manager of Massey Ferguson Ltd. at the Rotary luncheon in the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday. He was introduced by chairman David Scales and thanked by co-chairman, Jack Davies.

"New skills, technologies and methods have been introduced since the last war because the farmer has had to become competitive", the speaker said. "Right here on Prince Edward Island, no province has yet equalled the performance records in hog production or in potato production. Any business that can adapt to changing markets and consumer demands can be considered healthy, and farmers have demonstrated this capacity." Mr. Crawford said.

Appraising farming as a business proposition, the speaker said, "In Canada one-third of our work force depends on agriculture for employment. This includes supply, procurement and marketing. In North America during the 1950s, farm-worker productivity increased 6½ per cent while non farm-worker productivity increased two per cent. Also a farm-worker produced four times as much food and fibre as he did in the 1920s."

30 PER CENT IMPORTED

Mr. Crawford dealing with deficit production in the Maritime Provinces, pointed out that over 50 per cent of the food is consumed is imported. "Red meat and pork are deficit production as are also fruit and vegetables", he said. "Maritime farm income is $100,000,000 per year".

Quoting Dr. Waldo Walsh, one of the Maritimes' most respected farm authorities the speaker said, "the Maritimes import the equivalent of 100,000 beef cattle yearly to support our local needs. This represents a very sizable outflow of Maritime capital." the speaker said. "If by some magic wand-waving this beef requirement were supplied locally—here is what it could mean — approximately 200,000 more cows, plus 100,000 steers being fed, for a total of 300,000 additional cattle. It takes at least two acres per head—600,000 acres would have to be brought into production—more land used—and employment of at least one man per 100 head would provide 3,000 new jobs.

"The services required would mean tons of wire fencing, fertilizer, lumber, roofing and piping to house cattle, additional trucking and veterinary services". Such an event, the speaker said "would be the equivalent of a lot of new factories."

NEW OPPORTUNITY

"Anyone of us would go all out to have a new factory locate in our community, yet we pass up this opportunity, simply because we relate this to a farm problem. Perhaps we should think of it as a new industry opportunity, the speaker said.

Mr. Crawford described the working of the ARDA program and said, "The remarkable thing about the ARDA is the enthusiasm and ideas it has generated among those immediately concerned—the farmers themselves.

"The farmer, for a change, was not being told what to do. He was being asked to state his problems and make recommendations as to what might be done about them. That is what is known as democracy in action.

"Helping marginal farmers to help themselves achieve greater production and thereby improve their standard of living, strikes me as being good business all around", the speaker said.

Island Clear Of Disease

Information on the organism causing gastro-enteritis and resulting in the deaths of 60 children this year in Newfoundland has been received by the provincial department of health here.

Dr. Burton Howatt, provincial assistant deputy minister of health, says that the organism has been identified as E. coli, a form of bacteria. The disease effects children primarily under the age of one-year, in the gastro-intestinal tract.

Dr. Howatt said there are at present no known cases of gastro-enteritis in this province, although there have been a few cases in the past five years.

Personal hygiene and cleanliness of environment are the best preventatives of gastro-enteritis, Dr. Howatt said.

John P. Nicholson, representing the defendant, moved that "judgement be entered for the defendant on the counter claim".

QUINTS

The quintuplets were being fed a mixture of modified skimmed milk and malt.

Doctors predicted mother and sons may be well enough to leave hospitl in a month. For now, however, the babies will remain in incubators until their weights increase satisfactorily.

The mother, Mrs. Ines Marie Cuervo de Prieto, 34, has already left her bed for a short spell on her feet, but has yet to see her babies.

MARRIAGE FOLLOWS

Mrs. Cuervo de Prieto gave birth to the quintuplets in a 50-minute period starting shortly after Friday midnight. Lster Saturday she and her oil worker husband were married by a priest and the babies were baptized, being given names of doctors who assisted at the birth.

The mother's room was filled with flowers and her husband, Efrain, a 30-year-old oil company foreman, took a constant flow of telephone calls from well-wishers. Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt wired congratulations.

Prieto wondered, however, how he was going to support the quintuplets on the 46.70 bolivars ($10.40) he makes a day at the Creole Petroleum Corporation.

He has 10 children by two previous marriages and he helps to support them. Mrs. Cuervo de Prieto has five children by a previous marriage, and one, a 17-year-old daughter, has already made her a grandmother.

ONE BEDROOM

"With only one bedroom, it's going to be a little crowded," said Mrs. Cuervo de Prieto.

Although the quintuplets were born out of wedlock, there was nothing uncommon about the Prietos' unformalized marriage. Government statistics show that more Venezuelan children are born to unmerried parents than to married ones.

Many Venezuelans consider the legal problems of divorce and marriage too complicated and expensive.

Southern Kings Fish, Game Assured Of Early Dam Start

MONTAGUE — A short meeting of the Southern Kings County Fish and Game Association was held last evening in the council chambers previous to the town council meeting to discuss the building of a dam on Sutherland's Stream.

Following considerable discussion on how, where and when to build such a dam a phone call was made to the minister of industry and natural resources, Hon. Leo Rossiter to find out just what action had been taken to build this dam this year. The reply from Mr. Rossiter showed that considerable groundwork had been done and the program for this dam was well underway. He also advised that men would be put to work shortly to clear the site.

The town council and fish and game association were in full agreement as to the location of the dam and all present were pleased with the action taken by Mr. Rossiter's department.

A year ago the Town of Montague and department of industry and natural resources entered into an agreement to build this dam so the town purchased part of the land at that time, and it was understood that the dam would be built in 1963.

Chairman of the meeting was the president of the fish and game association Louis Cantelo, who outlined the situation for the large group.

Mr. Cantelo will take the matter before the parent body later this week at an executive meeting to be held in Charlottetown. A furher meeting is to be called by the president if he feels it is necessary.

Montague Council Decides To Have Radar Speed Check

MONTAGUE At councillors were present for the monthly meeting of the Montague Town Council last night. The regular business of the council was carried on with each councillor reporting for his committee.

Chairman of the streets committee, Coun. Reid reported that work would begin shortly to repair streets for the winter and also advised that paving the 10-foot strip from Queens Road to School Street would begin shortly.

Coun. Ings gave a brief report on the roadside table project at Bell's Hill and also touched on the centennial program for next year

Coun. Beck reported that Officer Ed Downe was ill but several things had been brought to mind. One was the idea of a radar check and the council decided to have a periodical check to see if speeding could be reduced.

It was also decided to deal severely with the reported gang warfare in the area. One councillor reported that at least two lads had been attacked in a cowardly manner with two or three jumping one led. Officer Downe is aware of this and has instructions to take prompt action, he said.

Coun. Hughes, chairman of the finance committee asked the Town Clerk G. Arnold Wightman to explain briefly to the council the financial situation to date. This report showed the town to be in a favorable position so far as finances are concerned.

B & P Women Are Planning Visit Of National President

Plans for the visit of the national president, Elsie Gregory McGill of Toronto, to this province, Oct. 25 and 26 were outlined last evening in the Charlottetown Business and Professional Club by Dorothy Cullen, provincial vice-president.

The two-day program will include a dinner meeting at the Charlottetown Hotel at which Miss McGill will be the guest speaker, and a meeting at Summerside the following morning.

Miss Cullen gave a detailed report on a meeting of the B. & P. board held at the home of the provincial president, Mrs. Marjorie Champion in Summerside recently.

Last night's well attended meeting, the first of the 1963-64 season, was presided over by the newly elected president of the Charlottetown Club, Mrs. Ireta Sutherland, and was held at the Charlottetown Motel where the members enjoyed a delicious dinner.

Rules of order for the newly-established provincial B. & P. organization were submitted and approved, and an interesting letter was read from a sister club in Torquay, England, with which the Charlottetown Club will correspond through the "Bridge of Letters" project established by the international committee of the Canadian Federation of B. & P. Clubs.

COMMITTEE NAMED

The President announced that Alma Yeo and Isabel Macdonald would form the committee for "Business Women's Week" Oct. 20 to 26, and that the ways and means committee, headed by Mrs. Helen Burns, would inaugurate the week with an afternoon tea to be held on Saturday, Oct. 19.

By way of a program at last night's meeting, Miss Edith Hume, RN, showed colorful slides which she took last summer while attending the World's Fair in Seattle, Wash., and gave a vivid description of the various buildings and sights seen at the fair. Three members of the Charlottetown Club, Hattie MacAulay, Helen Crosby and Laura Clapp also attended during the summer of 1962. Miss Hume was introduced by Alma Yeo, chairman of the program committee for this month, and thanked by Christine Agnew.

An invitation was extended to the members by Mrs. Ruth Osborne to attend the meeting of the P.E.I. Unitarian Services Committee to be addressed by Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova on Friday, Sept. 20, and an appeal was made for more volunteers to assist at this organization's local workroom in the Dominion Building.

Brian MacLure, Montague, has received word from the minister of national defense that he has been accepted as an RTO cadet to attend the university of his choice. Brian has been active in the Montague Regional High School cadet corps and was a junior NCO with "B" Squadron, P.E.I. Regiment. He is a graduate of Montague Elementary School and Montague Regional High School. He is the son of Mrs. Lester McKeeman of Montague. WILL MEET AGAIN

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Members of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's 19-nation Congo advisory committee have decided to meet again Tuesday after consultations with their governments on whether UN troops should be kept in The Congo beyond the end of the year. Thant's announced intention to pull the UN force out of The Congo by the end of 1963 was opposed by the United States and several other nations who fear a renewal of fighting. The advisory committee is composed mainly of the countries—including Canada—that have troops with the UN force.

Deaths In Nfld. Reach 66 From Gastro-Enteritis

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A total of 66 deaths from an epidemic of gastro - enteritis have been reported in Newfoundland this year, Health Minister James McGrath said here. All the deaths have been infants under one year.

Dr. McGrath said the disease exists in about 12 different centres, but is not widespread in the province generally. "There are some indications that the virulence of the epidemic is abating. But it is too early for optimism," he said.

Dr. McGrath said there is no specific means either of prevention or cure and no form of protective inoculation exists. "Recurrence and even re - infection is a noted characteristic of this disease".

He said 22 of the deaths have occurred at the St. John's Fever Hospital, which has treated 400 cases. An "informed estimate" puts the total number of cases in the province at 1,000, he said.

Strict hygenic precautions are the only protective means against gastro - enteritis. Mothers should make certain that everything used in the care of a small child is as sterile as possible.

Dr. McGrath said only one person should care for the child.

"Treatment is non - specific and is essentially limited to good care and the replacement of body fluds. . . "

Further Probe Slated On Housing Problems

Following up his election campaign belief that this city has too much sub-standard housing and too high rentals, Mayor A. Walthen Gaudet, is planning that another long look at the city's housing problems will be taken.

Following his election victory in February 1960 he called a housing conference the end of that month. It was attended by representatives of local welfare bureaus as well as service clubs and other city organizations. Principal speaker on that occasion was Mayor Charles Vaughan, Halifax, who told the meeting what he believed should be done here based on his experiences in Halifax.

It was contended at the meeting the first step must be towards arranging for a complete housing survey of this city to determine what types of houses were in use, by whom occupied (the income groups of tenants; and what was needed in remedial action.

As a result of this and follow-up action by Mayor Gaudet the city participated in a three-way deal with the provincial government and Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation in obtaining the services of a qualified town planner.

Almost immediately on arrival the town planner, Walter DesRiva, began his work on the project.

However, when his report was finally presented after long delay, Mayor Gaudet expressed dissatisfaction with it, maintaining it was a planning report and not the housing survey the city had requested.

Since then several efforts have been made to obtain a true picture of the housing situation currently existing.

At the time of the original meeting Sister Mary Henry, of the Catholic Welfare Bureau, maintained her bureau was aiding 172 families totalling nearly 1,000 persons of whom she said a majority were living in sub - standard dwellings.

Sister Mary Henry also said then these families were paying rent far too high for the accomodations they were occupying.

This aspect was confirmed by another welfare bureau representative who said the bureau was handling approximately 100 families in the $30-32 a week income bracket. It was pointed out such families could not be expected to pay rents at the $50 mark.

Mayor Gaudet said his idea in having a survey made was to get all information possible on housing to enable City Council to determine what action was necessary to better conditions.

The information sought pertained to slum areas, sub-standard homes, rentals, tenants' income bracket, the number of people in each house and the percentage of older people needing assistance.

Steel Ingot Output Down

OTTAWA (CP) — Steel ingot production in the week ended Sept. 7 decreased 11.4 per cent to 138,658 tons from 156,430 a week earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Monday.

Output in the corresponding period in 1962 was 131,783 tons. The index of production is based on the average weekly output during 1957-59 of 96,108 tons equalling 100. The index was 144 in the current week earlier and 137 a year ago.

Production of steel ingots in August rose 7.8 per cent to 69,768 tons from 640,652 in the same month last year.
