PEACE CONFERENCE

New Light And The Czar's Plans. LONDON, Nov. 17.—The peace conference is to be held, not at Brussels, as proposed by the Czar, but at St. Petersburg, and is not likely to meet before the latter part of February or the early part of March. Several of the foreign Governments signified their readiness to take part in the conference in the international peace congress, providing it was held in the Russian capital, rather than in that of Belgium, expressing the opinion that the conference would gain much in prestige and in weight if it were to take place on the banks of the Neva, under the presidency of the young Czar, rather than at Brussels, where so many abortive international congresses have been held. The delay in the meeting is due to the fact that the Russian programme for the congress is not fully elaborated, and secondly, that some of the foreign delegates expected would not be able to travel to St. Petersburg in mid-winter. The world benefits by the delay. For it is manifest that while Russia, and in natural consequence her subservient ally, France, are preparing for a peace conference destined to reflect glory upon the young Czar, they are debarr'd from embarking in any war, and there is no doubt that it is they who are popularly regarded as constituting the chief menace to peace in the Old World. A private letter written from the British Legation at Tokio to a member of Parliament here throws an interesting side-light upon the Czar's peace manifesto. The Japanese Government, it appears from the letter, was not at all convinced of the sincerity of the proposal for the peace conference, and accordingly the Japanese mission at St. Petersburg was instructed to ascertain what was the real reason for its issue. In reply, the Japanese Envoy at St. Petersburg reported that the manifesto was designed first to mitigate the anti-Russian feeling in England, and next to enable the Russian Government to retrench in consequence of the impoverished condition of the treasury, and the certainty of one of the most disastrous famines during the coming winter that has ever been known in the dominions of the Czar.

She was accompanied by Miss Sadie Macdonald, of Montague, who returns to the Hub to resume her position in the Massachusetts General Hospital. The friends of Mr. Robert McKelvie, of Dedd & Rogers establishment, will be pleased to hear that he is recovering from his attack of fever and will probably be able to resume work in a few weeks. Local and Other Items

PRICE OF OATS.—The street price of oats today ranges from 31 to 32 cents. SHOULD BE REMOVED.—A dead cat has been reposing on the sidewalk on Great George Street, near Water, for several days past. The proper authorities should see to its removal at once. THE DIRECT STEAMER.—It is pleasing to hear that there is every probability of the steamer Galicia having a large cargo from this port. Mr. Clarke informs us that already there are a good many applications for space for live stock and produce. ST. JAMES CHURCH.—This church will be re-opened for public worship tomorrow. Rev. G. Gandier, B. D., of Fort Massey, Halifax, will conduct the morning and evening services. There will be a children's service at three o'clock in the afternoon. ST. PAUL'S.—The Ven. Archdeacon Phair of Winnipeg, will preach in St. Paul's church to-morrow morning. The Archdeacon is one of the most eloquent preachers in the North West, and one who desires to hear a sermon of special inspiration and power should not fail to be in church. All will be welcome. The Bishop of Nova Scotia will preach in the evening. ISLANDERS IN BOSTON.—The members of the Prince Edward Island Club met in Union Hall last night to play whist and dance. Dr. William Johnson of Dorchester was master of ceremonies, and the tellers were Miss Eugenie Davis, Miss Maud Doinin, Miss Etta Sinnott, Mrs. J. Doinin and Miss Alice Sinnott. The occasion was highly enjoyable—Boston Herald. ROYAL ART GALLERY.—The Mayor has consented to open the Royal Art Gallery on Thanksgiving day at 4 o'clock, when pictures of first artists of the day will be placed on exhibition. There are about 70 pictures for sale, including steel engravings and photogravures of the works of Sir Edwin Landseer, R. A., Shoeing, On the Look Out, High Life, Low Life, A Piper and Pair of Nut Crackers, War, Peace, Dignity and Impudence, and others, favorites of all lovers of art. AFTER BIG GAME.—The Montreal detectives are again after big game. A reward of $5,000 has been offered for the arrest of a young man named Fred. Moore, of Boston, who is wanted there for embezzlement. About a month ago, $50,000 disappeared in a mysterious manner from the National Bank of Commerce, and at the same time Moore left his position there. The American detectives have been on the outlook for him some time and they now believe he is hiding in Montreal. FROM ST. PIERRE.—A gentleman who has recently returned from St. Pierre, Miquelon, told the Halifax Chronicle yesterday that practically no fortifications exist on the island. The defences if any, are of the most primitive type and French sovereignty on the island is defended by two or three old guns of an obsolete pattern. The sloop-of-war Pelican could easily demolish them and St. Pierre could be made British territory in quick time if John Bull so willed it. Under the treaty of Paris France is prohibited from erecting or maintaining fortifications on the island. MISSIONARY ADDRESS.—As Bishop Courtney is known to be one of the ablest and most eloquent public speakers in North America, and as the claims of Christian Missions appeal more powerfully to the sympathy of Christian men and women than almost any other subject that can be named, it is not surprising that the audience assembled in St. Peter's hall last evening was large, notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather. The wonder is indeed, that it was not larger. But the Bishop's address was intended specially for the members of the "Women's Auxiliary" in this city; and the most of these were present, and not many others were expected to attend. We shall not attempt even an epitome of the Bishop's cogent and delightful argument, which must have a marked and permanent effect upon the minds of the ladies of the Church of England in Charlottetown who have banded themselves together for the purpose of assisting actively and practically in missionary work.
