The Tunnel.

The one point above all others in connection with the agitation for the tunnel—excepting the necessity for the undertaking—upon which all are agreed, is the necessity of obtaining full and accurate statistics relative to our trade and shipping etc., with which to support our claim in parliament. The session is almost upon us. Unless these figures are obtained the estimates of our members will pass through many ears as idle dreams. Last year they were ridiculed and it will be so again. Should we not show our earnestness and determination in this matter by disarming such criticism? It was hoped and urged that the Board of Trade should take up this matter. In fact a recommendation was made by the Council that they should vote a sufficient sum of money for the purpose. The Board, however, has not taken any action on it. Perhaps the twenty-five or thirty members feel that it is too much to ask them to provide funds for a purpose in which the whole community should share. It seems to us that the Local Government is the proper body to move in this matter. Their predecessors in office set them a good example in furthering the tunnel project, which the public will expect them to follow. No stone should be left unturned until out case is complete and the Tunnel secured. Statistics we need, statistics we must have. The expense need not be large and it will be money well spent. If the local government wish to deserve well of the people they will attend to the matter as soon as possible.

Civic Nominations.

As a result of the nominations for the City Council there will be no contest for the mayoralty, or for councillors in Wards One and Four, the GUARDIAN's and the people's candidates going in unopposed. In Ward Two a peculiar state of affairs has come about. There appears to be little doubt that Mr. C. E. Robertson is not qualified to act as City councillor, being one of the sureties for Mr. Davison, City Clerk. The clause in the act of incorporation, Sec. 4, Cap XII, on this point reads as follows:—

No person being in holy orders or being a minister or teacher, duly licensed by any denomination of Christians in this colony, shall be qualified to be elected Mayor or a Councillor of the said city. * * nor shall any person be qualified to be elected a Councillor of the said city * * during such time as such person shall hold any office or place of profit in the gift or disposal of the said Council, nor during such time as he shall have directly or indirectly, by himself or his partner, any share or interest in any contract or employment with or on behalf of the Council. Provided that no person shall be disqualified from being a Councillor as aforesaid, by reason of his being a proprietor or shareholder of any Incorporated Company.

This plainly indicates that Mr. Robertson is disqualified, just as Mr. Hogan would have been had he not taken the proper course at the proper time. Under the circumstances a new election should be held for Ward Two.

In Ward Three Mr. L. E. Prowse's chances are excellent. Mr. Taylor and his friends of course are talking in the same strain "to keep their courage up" but the canvas tells a different tale. Mr. Prowse is a strong man and one who deserves anything but rejection at the hands of the people. He has proved himself a generous hearted citizen and the public will hardly withhold their confidence from him when he seeks their suffrages

Mr. Taylor himself admits his worthiness for the office, and were it not that he rather relishes a contest would hardly have opposed him. Let Mr. Prowse be elected then by a rousing majority.

In Ward Five Messrs Hughes, Hooper and McKay will probably go in. Only one candidate opposes them and as he was not very anxious to give Ward Five equal rights with the other portion of the city he can hardly poll a very large vote.

A REMEDY that is endossed by Physicians must have some merit, for no physician of any standing will place his seal of approval on a preparation unless he knows it to be good. Now Estey's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is not only endorsed by Physicians but largely used by them in their practice.

Wants Also to be Pope.

Prussia to be made orthodox by act of parliament. Every man must be just such a Christian as the King wants him to be.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The German emperor, not content with being emperor, now wishes to be pope. That is pretty nearly the real meaning of the new education bill which the lower house of the Prussian lantag has been so fiercely debating all this week. The object of this measure is to put the Prussian schools in the hands of the clergy, to make what is called religious instruction obligatory, to exact a measure of conformity from all students. In Count Von Caprivi's words, it is a bill against atheism. The chancellor and his imperial master seem both to believe that matters of faith are to be settled by statute, and that the people of Prussia are prepared to put their consciences and their relations with God in the keeping of the king. The first effect of this new view was the resignation of Herr Miquel, minister of finance. He resigns because he thinks that this new crusade would upset his budget, a curious commentary indeed on the practical working of religion by act of parliament. The emperor has refusod to accept the resignation; but even in Prussia it is not easy to compel a man to be minister who does not wish to be. The second effect is to split up the government majority. The national liberals have broken away, and it is very doubtful whether without them a majority can be found for this amazing measure. Not all the conservatives can be depended upon. The first speaker against the bill was a conservative, Herr Wessell. He is conservative enough to wish to preserve to Prussia her freedom of conscience.

This bill would force doctrinal teaching upon the children of parents who are opposed to doctrine. Herr Richter, the leader of the radicals, defined it as a bill to order every citizen to believe in a state God. It would force Jews to accept Christian teaching. Of course it would create martyrs. It sets up what are called in Prussia the confessions as supreme. The Jewish religion is not within this pale. Every prefect, said Herr Richter, would be a satrap in his own province. Herr Von Benningsen, the leader of national liberals, is not less strong against the bill than Herr Richter. Liberals and radicals have joined hands in the effort to save religious freedom.

Dr. Virchow spoke yesterday, denouncing the attempt to set up a political religion in Prussia. The bill leads straight, he declared, to the domination of an organized priesthood. Count Von Caprivi's reply was an admission, of the truth of these criticisms. He justified the bill on the express ground that the question was whether Prussians are to be Christians or atheists. This bill is to forbid them to be atheists, to compel them to be christians, according to their King's conception of Christianity. It lead to an extraordinary scene Cheers for Chancellor Von Caprivi from the right were answered by groans and hisses from the left. He has performed a very considerable feat in politics, this dragoon minister. He has united the entire left against himself and the government—an exploit without precedent. Whether he will force his bill through, we shall know presently. Some of the Liberals hope to amend the worst features of it in committee, but the worst feature of the bill is the principle on which it is framed.

Serfdom in Russia.

The statement that the Czar of Russia contemplates restoring serfdom in certain parts of the Empire, where the commercial system, in its actual operation, has proved a woeful failure, will be generally received as a sign of retrogression. It is, however, equally probable that the so-called emancipation of the serfs by the late Czar was not the advance in either civilization, or even in liberty, which it was generally believed to be by strangers to Russian customs. Our readers may recall that, on the first announcement of the present grievious famine, we gave an outline of the Vicomte Combes de Lestrade's remarkable survey of the present condition of the peasants of Russia, in which it was urged, with the conviction of one who had seen for himself the consequences of emancipation, that, as carried out, it was a melancholy mistake. The Compte de Lestrade maintains that to-day thirty millions of peasants are in a state of practical slavery compared with which the condition of the serfs before 1861 was desirable; that the Emperor was sadly misinformed by those who counselled him to transfer to the Mir the rights and privileges of the seigneurs; that the Russian village community has been absurdly overpraised; that it is a system under which freedom and initiative and prosperity (save for a few) are impossible. The fact is that serfage still exists under another name; but the old-time provision which ensured the peasant thrall his food and clothes and shelter has disappeared. The conclusion that M. de Lestrade reached was not, however, that serfdom should be restored, but that the present Czar should complete the conception and intention of his illustrious father by giving to his thirty millions of peasants a liberty that would be not apparent merely but real.

Cost of War Preparations.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The threatened trouble with Chili has already cost the government a good deal of money. The total extraordinary expense, it is estimated, will not fall far short of $2,000,000.

Pointer for Advertisers.

No one who will take the trouble to look into the matter can doubt that there are many articles now regularly on the market which might be advertised with good profit in a general way. Some of them have gained a moderate sale on their own merits and without pushing. This condition of things seems to be satisfactory to the proprietor; possibly because he does not realize how profitably advertising would be for him, possibly because he does not know how to go about it. In either case he needs waking up.

Well-written advertisements are more than fifty cent news. Assertions can be made and sustained that there are cases on record where there has been more real brain matter expended on the making up of an advertisement than in the construction of many pages which rest under the dignified name, literature.—[South Bend Ind.) Tribune.

Never fix the price of anything so low that you can't afford to advertise it.

Circulars hit only once, if at all, and are then consigned to the waste-basket.

Don't advertise spasmodically—keep at it. Your particular line of goods may not be wanted to-day; they will be sought to-morrow, or the day after.

Don't run the same card from January to December. Change occasionally. Don't get into a rut. Have some vim.

People won't and can't guess that you have a good thing.

Success means thought. It costs no more to publish good matter than poor. Prepare your matter carefully; make it attractive; don't crowd; let your catch lines be bold.

Great fortunes made by advertising Napoleons are often referred to. But who has counted the moderate fortunes, the comfortable competencies, and the steady sources of income that are to be credited to newspaper advertising? To dispence with advertising would dry up commerce and turn back civilization.—

Keep the Works in good order.

NORMAN, Ont., January 15, 1890.

W. H. COMSTOCK, Brockville, Ont.

DEAR SIR,—Your "Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills" are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time piece: frail and delicate are many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance adheres to the smallest wheel in the works, and what is the result?—at first, only a slight difference is perceptible in its time-keeping, but wait you; as the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been rectified with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much care in thoroughly cleansing the entire works. So it is in human life—a slight derangement is neglected, it grows and increases, imperceptibly at first, then rapidly, until what could, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, becomes almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality.

Yours faithfully,
H. F. ATWELL.
