

Kennedy Asks Mayors To Aid Racial Issue

HONOLULUI (AP)—President Kennedy urged the country's mayors today to join him in converting the Negro fight for equal rights—a fight he said is sure to be won—into a "peaceful revolution."

"It is clear to me," Kennedy said, "that the time for token moves and idle talk is over—that these rights are going to be won—and that our responsibility, yours and mine, is to see that they are won in a peaceful and constructive manner."

The president flew to Hawaii for the one purpose of talking frankly with the mayors on the racial issue at their annual conference. Aides said he will meet on this issue with religious leaders today in Washington and with labor leaders Thursday.

Advising the 600 mayors and other city officials to be alert rather than alarmed, Kennedy warned that demonstrations of unrest in Birmingham, Boston, Jackson, Greensboro, Nashville, Philadelphia and elsewhere can be expected in many other cities in the next few months.

Justice, he said in his prepared address, cannot wait for too many meetings. "I cannot await the action of the Congress or even the courts. We face a moment of moral and constitutional crisis—and men of generosity and vision must make themselves heard in every part of the land."

Family Arrives By Private Plane

MONTAGUE — Dr. Paul Gross and Mrs. Gross and their young daughter and son flew in their private plane to Montague from New Labrador on Saturday. They will be joined today by Dr. Gross's mother, Mrs. Gross, Sr. of Toronto.

While on Prince Edward Island they will be guests of Jean Gross parents Mr. and Mrs. John P. Beck of Alliston.

Despite the storm Saturday, Dr. Gross had little difficulty in landing his plane on the Montague air strip.

Square with sandwich carts which said in part: "Nat (King) Cole is ready for integration but Negro masses are not. In most Negro neighborhoods all one sees is filth, dirt and ugliness. All one hears is obscenity and profanity with looters and street braves."

Mrs. Rainey replied "myself." "What we need to do," she told a reporter, "is clean up our homes and ourselves instead of fighting."

ASKS SMOKING BAN
TORONTO (CP) — A ban against smoking on duty by Toronto's 6,300 civic employees was proposed Monday by Alderman Joseph Piccinini, health board chairman and a non-smoker. He expects to call a special board meeting later this week to seek formal backing for his proposal. He called for the ban after receiving evidence from the city's 100,000 employees. He said he had received 1,000 signatures in support of his proposal.

NEW WING EXECUTIVE TAKES OFFICE

voted into office at the annual meeting last week and one of its major concerns will be the planning of the national association conference to be held on the island in 1964.

Space Researchers Seek Weightlessness Soution

BY EUGENE KRAMER
WARSAW (AP)—U.S. space researchers are thinking about ways to counteract weightlessness on long flights and reduce the hazards it creates for astronauts.

Capl. Duane Graveland, a physician at the Aerospace Medical Centre, Brooks Air Force Base, Tex., reports that crossing artificial gravity is under consideration. Graveland discussed weightlessness at the space industry symposium of COSPAR, the International Committee for Space Research.

"It doesn't mean much if the heart beat and blood pressure are off," Graveland said. "It's when the man comes off and must function efficiently during re-entry that we are worried about."

Graveland said he is studying effects of weightlessness on the body's adjustment to the renewed tug of gravity.

Collapse Feared Of action ruce

BY ANTOINE YARD
VIETNAMESE LAOS (AP)—A peaceful co-existence agreement Pailed in the pro-Communist Pathet Lao and neutralist and rightist Laotian factions on the Plaines des Jarres last June 10 on the basis of complete integration.

The 14-nation Geneva accords of July, 1962, guaranteeing Lao freedom and neutrality are as neutralist as Premier Souvanna Phouma put it recently—threatening to become scraps of paper because of Pathet Lao actions.

There is an armed struggle for power on the plain between the two former civil war allies—the neutralist and Pathet Lao. These are the factions of Premier Souvanna Phouma and his leftist half-brother, Deputy Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Backing up neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma is Prince Norasav, the rightist deputy premier who as defence minister fought both in the civil war that a cease-fire ended in the spring of 1962.

VITAL IN COLD WAR
When the Geneva accords were signed there was a sigh of relief in some capitals as if Laos had been withdrawn from the cold war arena.

But seasoned diplomats here considered the signing was only a reprieve on a road strewn with formidable obstacles for this landlocked kingdom of about 2,300,000 people.

Pallbearers were Raymond D. Delroy, Waldron Lavers, Fred J. Delroy, Joseph F. Johnson, Gordon Ross, J. Howard Campbell. Interment was in the church cemetery.

VICTOR FUNERAL — The funeral for Mrs. Joseph Victor of Georgetown was held in St. Francis Church, Montague. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Louis Dooley assisted by Rev. Benoit MacDonald, deacon and Rev. Fr. Francis Corcoran, sub-deacon. Rev. Charles MacDonald was present in the sanctuary. Pallbearers: J. Howard MacDonald, Allister Stewart, Williams Murray, Joseph Johnson, Lawrence Batcher, Gordon Ross. The funeral was under the direction of the Montague Funeral Home. Interment was in the church cemetery.
