BENEATH THE WATERS.

THE DEADLY PRESSURE ENCOUNTERED IN SUBMARINE TUNNELING.

Truly One Half the World Does Not Know How the Other Half Lives—Bearing an Atmospheric Pressure of 65 Pounds to the Square Inch.

—Laboring on the firm earth, with "all out doors" to breathe, perspiring, and, perhaps, grumbling at one's hard work, a person seldom, it ever stops to think that one work day after day deep down in the water, or the mud, with none but artificial light to guide their movements, and only the air that is pumped to them to breathe.

People who work in this way are not only obliged to labor for a short time in a diver's suit, a caisson, or an air lock, but to be careful forever of grumbling at their lot and to thank their lucky stars that they have not been sent to the work out of the earth.

The work of a diver, his sensations while under the water, and his experiences have often been written about, but those of the air lock and caisson worker have not.

While he does not face the danger of fouling his eyes and nose as the diver, he is always down longer, gets warmer, and his great danger lies in the stagnation of blood and paralysis, resulting from the changes of atmosphere.

Mr. R. C. Rapier, of No. 56 Cambridge street, East Cambridge, is an air lock worker, and takes most kindly to the work.

He said that while a man working on the surface of the earth has up an average pressure of fifteen pounds to the inch, men in the locks bear a pressure of from fifteen to fifty pounds of compressed air, according to the depth.

The heaviest pressure ever worked under was borne by five divers on the Swedish coast—sixty-five pounds. Four of these died five minutes after coming out.

While, as a general thing, the diver stands out nearly that amount of pressure, and seldom stays down more than two hours, the men in the Hudson River Tunnel are subjected to a pressure of from 45 to 60 pounds and worked in four hour shifts.

Some men stayed down 20 hours at a stretch, but did not work all the time, and Superintendent Hawkins stayed down once 23 hours.

The sensations experienced are peculiar. When first they begin there is a tingling in the ear and a pain in the head, and when he talks it is apparently through the nose. This is caused by the pressure, and the remedy is to hold the nose, close the mouth and blow against the ears. This relieves the pain and stops the sensation.

When the pressure is all on the worker he feels all tight and experiences no discomfort. Then there is a sort of exhilaration, and a man does more work in the lock than he could do outside.

Another peculiarity about the action of the pressure is that a man may have liquor enough aboard when outside to just make him feel jolly, but when he steps into the lock he is as drunk as a loon.

The danger lies in coming out of the pressure into the open air. It is then that a man is not to suffer from stagnation of the blood and paralysis caused by the change of atmosphere. Besides this man may be attacked in the head or stomach with severe pains. Three out of five cases of this kind are fatal.

Another danger incidentally resulting from this change is what is called the "bends." This is the air getting in between the flesh and the bone. It is extremely painful, and so severe that a quart of whisky administered in half an hour would not indicate the patient. The stagnation and paralysis are the worst dangers, and do the work quickly. Many men have been killed over by these causes, and not a few die.

Old timers at the business sometimes get caught. Mr. Rapier himself was twice attacked. The remedy for this paralysis is a quick return to the air lock.

The work on the tunnel had progressed until a body of water was struck. How to tunnel through this hole of water was a puzzling question. It was done this way: A coiled balloon was constructed, by making a netting with canvas. The interior of the balloon was then filled with blue clay and salt hay. When filled, the balloon, thirty feet in diameter, weighed 240 tons. The hole of water was then located, and, with aid of a huge steam derrick, the balloon was dropped into the hole.

Then several new kinds of dirt were mingled down into the balloon, and the whole thing was left to settle.

At the end of ten days the work of cutting through the tunnel was begun. This was a very difficult job. An idea of what hard cutting it was may be gained from the fact that it took two months to dig through the thirty feet, the plates and beams were going in as the work progressed.
