OUR COMMON SCHOOLS AND FARMS.

This is the title of a timely article which appears in the New England Magazine. The writer points to the fact, which we have repeatedly set forth, that our common school education is not fitted to create a class of farmers capable of adapting themselves to the present times and the changing conditions. We are educating away from the farms, and not educating toward them. The writer says: "What we want of our country schools is to make the farming to-day intelligent, interesting and profitable. The boys and girls should first of all be taught the connection of the rocks and soils with which they have to deal. This should be complemented with a good knowledge of plant and animal life. I suppose that no one could be more ignorant of these things than the average farmer. He is no case taught in the common schools the structure of the animals he employs or the grain that he eats. Geology I would follow with biology in its forms of zoology and botany, and in its divisions of physiology, entomology and ornithology; that is, I insist that our country schools shall undertake to make farmers. The boy on the farm—and the girl, when she comes to the farm—should be taught the things that need to be known under his feet and over his head, the soil, the life in and on the soil, and his relation to them. Before the age of seven or eight, in well-to-do families where kindergartens are impossible, the child should be taught chiefly to observe. He should learn to see well, and to use all his senses. After that age, books should be used as aids to observation; not to dispense with original observation, but to assist. Every child should become an investigator. When this change is made, and the curriculum is readjusted as suggested, I do not say that you cannot drive our boys away from the farms into trade and manufacture; but I do say that, unless a lad is born with a particular bias for something else, he will love the land so that he will not wish to leave."

LABOR TROUBLES IN THE STATES.

That the special consideration of employers for their workmen is not always appreciated is shown in the case of the strike at Pullman. We are told that the Pullman employ is in many ways one of the best in the United States. The town of Pullman was indeed erected by the Pullman Company in the interests of its workmen. It was founded to give them at the lowest possible rates the most comfortable means of living. Unusual care was in many ways shown the Pullman workmen. But the pressure of hard times forced the company in the spring of last year to reduce the rate of wages about thirty per cent. Still the mechanics received all along $2 to $2.50 per day. But discontent followed. An agitation has for months been going on in the hope that wages would be raised. But the company have declared that this is impossible. Very recently, we are told, the company offered to demonstrate to the men that the business was being carried on at a loss. The books were offered for inspection to a committee to be named by them. But nothing would satisfy the men. About three thousand of them struck work a week ago. Six hundred declared their readiness to stand by the company. But the company said that work could not be carried on so small a number. So the noble six hundred are also out of employment, though the company has promised to give them work as soon as their shops can be reopened. All this goes to support the theory that practical gratitude is rarely found in humanity, that men will not always act reasonably in the face of difficulties, and that a narrow selfishness is the motive of the majority.

THE PATRIOT AND THE FARMERS.

The Patriot's article on the National Policy in respect to the prices obtained and paid by our farmers is distinguished rather by strength of vituperation than strength of fact or argument. We read once again of the "bloated manufacturers," "the insipid Tory policy" and the "enormous duties" to "deceit the farmers"—all in view of the simple, undeniable fact, destructive alike of their theories and its prophecies, that the prices of almost every class of goods purchased by our farmers are cheaper by 25 to 50 per cent. than they were before the National Policy was applied. Farmers, as reasonable men, look to results. They know that they pay their taxes on the goods which they consume; and they know that they pay much less for the goods which they consume than they did in the old time; how, then, can their taxes be heavier? Seeing that, as we have demonstrated, the reduction in the prices of farmers' products is proportionately less than that of the goods which they use, the burden of taxation is really lighter than it was before the application of the National Policy. The Patriot may argue that the reduction in the prices of goods is not wholly due to the National Policy. But it must, at least, admit that the competition of the Canadian manufacturers, which the National Policy has fostered into life, has tended materially to the reduction of prices of goods purchased abroad. When the British and foreign manufacturers and dealers had it all their own way, they "laid it on thick," they made the prices heavy. We were then wholly at their mercy. We are now, to a considerable extent, independent of them, and can buy from them, or not, as we choose. So we have—as every merchant and every farmer knows—cheaper goods.

The Patriot raves about "bloated manufacturers." These are mere creatures of the gnat imagination. There are in Canada no more rich manufacturers as there are many wealthy farmers. On the other hand there are a few bankrupt manufacturers as there are among the farmers a few who are very poor or deeply in debt. But the mass of Canadian manufacturers, as of Canadian farmers, are compelled to be content with small living profits. They may be fairly well off; but are in no sense "bloated."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The tax on commercial travellers is resulting in a loss to our hotel keepers, and to trade generally. A considerable number of commercial travellers will not come here to be taxed. They think that the cost and risk involved in a trip to P. E. Island is sufficient tax.

By the death of the Hon. John Hearn, member of Parliament for Quebec West, a prominent and worthy figure has been removed from the scene of Canadian politics.

Prof. Henry Morley, L.L.D., the distinguished author and lecturer, is dead. Prof. Morley was born in London, on September 15, 1822. He was educated at the Moravian school on the Rhine, and at King's College, London, of which college he was made an honorary fellow. He practiced medicine a short time in his early life, and was later editor of the Examiner in London. He was author of a large number of works on various subjects. He was English lecturer in King's College, 1857 to 1865, professor of English language and literature at University College, London, from 1865 to 1887, and upon his retirement to Carlisle in 1889, he was made Emeritus professor.

The Watchman of yesterday says: "We complete our summary of the debates of the Legislature in yesterday's issue, and will in future devote the space occupied by them on our outside pages to matters of equally as much importance. We have endeavored to furnish our readers with as full an account of the proceedings of the House as possible, and are pleased to learn from various quarters that our efforts have been appreciated. Now that our readers are in full possession of all the facts with respect to the policy of our present rulers, we think we can depend upon our boys away from the farms into trade and manufacture; but I do say that, unless a lad is born with a particular bias for something else, he will love the land so that he will not wish to leave."

This is carrying the joke a little too far. The Legislative summary, of which the Watchman boasts, was clipped almost wholly from the Examiner, without credit. It is evident that the Watchman would be watched.

The following selections from poems written by a prisoner serving a sentence of five years in Sing Sing prison were clipped from the Halifax Herald: Gentle voices, hissing voices, Thrill my memory-haunted ear Winning voices, baby voices Now unheard for many a year Come to me, my children to me And to happy visions you me.

Clinging fingers, dimpled fingers Smooth my sorrow-tormented face And their touch, caressing fingers With an artless, tender grace. Leaving smiles instead of sorrow 'Tender hope for Faith's to-morrow.

Loving kisses, sweet caresses Baby lips imprint on mine And by darling's silken tresses "Braid my dreaming hands entwined Fancies sweet my heart is prizing Soon to end in realizing.

Bring forth the fairest robes our guest rooms hold The jeweled ring, the precious chain of gold; Bring water to relieve the weary feet That on sin's burning sand so long have beat; Bring forth the best, for God himself is host, And welcome home the prodigal once lost.

The fairest robe is one washed in the flood Of love that flowed in Jesus' outpoured blood. He on his finger sets his signet ring, Gem'd with the seal of heaven's eternal king, And on his brow the seal of God is set, Telling that peace and righteousness have met.

Come, weary prodigal, too long you've trod The path apart from happiness and God; A loving message comes from heaven's throne To all who, like the prodigal, have gone From God far. "Return," the message pleads, "Your welcome's sure, for Jesus intercedes."

NEWS NOTES.

A correspondent of the London Chronicle writes from Honolulu that affairs in the Hawaiian island are in "a terrible condition of top-sy-turvy."

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries has been notified that bank license forms will be forwarded by the imperial government to the British consul at Tokyo, Japan, in order that they may be issued to Canadian sealers who desire to hunt in the Behring Sea after August. A special flag which all sealing vessels will have to fly has been agreed upon.

Ottawa will be, in future, what is known in England as a cathedral city, being the centre of a diocese and containing the residence of the bishop. The new diocese will be the sixth in Ontario. There are now five dioceses in the Province—Ontario, Toronto, Niagara, Huron and Altona. The new diocese will embrace the counties of Carleton, Lanark, Renfrew, Prescott, Russell, Stormont, Dundas and Glengary.

Things are quiet at Bay de Verde, Newfoundland. The excitement has completely subsided. The rioters were arrested. The general disposition is to conduct the remainder of the campaign on respectable lines. Henry Woods, formerly surveyor-general, but disqualified, telegraphed from Bay de Verde that the Gulf Island district riot was only a hoax. It was started by Messrs. Morine and Morrison to stir up sectarian animus. Wood's statement is undoubted.

Nearly all the gold taken out of the United States this spring, some $22,000,000 for April and the first half of May, has been drawn from the Treasury. The surplus has been carried down now to less than $89,000,000, which means during the past two months a loss of over $22,000,000 in the two weeks of May has passed over, $8,000,000 were withdrawn. These figures have not been published before. The movement was a part of the Treasury's usual business when the gold fund was down to $65,000,000, and if another issue must be decided upon this year, it will simply be laid for the Treasury, and will for the banks.

World's Columbian Exposition. Will be of value to the world by illustrating the improvements in the mechanical arts and ancient physicians will tell you that the progress in medical agents, has been of equal importance, and as a strengthening laxative that Syrup of Figs is far in advance of all others.

"TRUE IRISH HEARTS."—The picturesquely Irish drama "True Irish Hearts," was presented by an excellent cast last night at the Holoken Theatre, under the management of E. J. Rowland. It is one of the few plays of the character that has met with any degree of success while on the road. Last night's presentation was far superior to that of the same play last season, due mainly to the fact that it has an entirely different cast from the leading role down. Considering the fact that last night was Holy Thursday and a bad night for theatricals, there was a good audience in the house. Manager Clark, who has seen the play times innumerable, was surprised at the improvement it presented last night made over the old.

Every member of the company is an artist, the specialties being good, the scenery picturesque, and the plot runs smoothly and is deeply interesting. Mr. Ed. W. Rowland, as Lanta Lannagan, is a clever comedian, full of wit, and gets closer to the sympathies of the audience than his predecessor, Dan McCarthy. Miss Lillian Keene (Kittie Brady) is a clever artist, sings and dances well, and her fascinating manner finds a place for her in the hearts of the audience. Miss Nellie Pierce as Rose O'Connor, Miss Zella English as Mrs. Brady, and Miss M. McCormack are all perfect in their parts and make creditable impressions. The play throughout is full of mirth and music and deserves local patronage. Chas. McMurphy, the world's champion Irish lag player, rendered several selections in an artistic manner.—Holoken, N. TELEGRAPHIC. SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER. PARLIAMENT OF CANADA. House of Commons Proceedings. The Death of John Hearn Announced. OTTAWA, May 17. The charge against Mr. Turcotte, member for Montmorency, was the first matter taken up yesterday. Sir John Thompson objected to the closing words of the resolution, directing the Committee on Privileges to report whether or not Turcotte has vacated his seat. He thought a committee should not be compelled to report on that issue, but that it should be left to do so as they saw fit. He moved to strike out those words.

Mr. Laurier thought they would do no harm, and might as well remain, and Mr. Edgar quoted precedents to show that the same words had been used before in similar cases. The vote was taken on the amendment and resulted in its being carried by 103 to 69. McCarthy and Breen voted with the Opposition.

Sir John Thompson announced the death of the Hon. John Hearn, member for Quebec West, and spoke in eloquent terms of the high character and great public services of the deceased. The House went into committee on the tariff. The free list was disposed of, and the dutiable items left standing over were taken up.

Sir John Thompson gives notice that on Monday he will move that the Government orders have preference over other business on Wednesday next, after questions by members, and that when the House adjourns on Wednesday it shall stand adjourned till Monday.
