Density Doesn't Pay

The post-office at Grand Valley was at the back end of a "general" store, and the postmaster, who was also the proprietor of the store, was weighing his own salt tobacco, when a stout, middle-aged woman came and slammed a two-cent piece down on the counter, and exclaimed: "Stamp—two-cent!"

This is it.

This is the new shortening or cooking fat which is so fast taking the place of lard. It is an entirely new food product composed of clarified cotton seed oil and refined beef tallow. You can see that

Cottolene

Is clean, delicate, wholesome, appetizing, and economical—as far superior to lard as the electric light is to the tallow dip. It asks only a fair trial, and a fair value will convince you of its value.

A YEAR IN A WAGON.

The Queer Home on Wheels of an Artist and His Wife.

H. L. Brewer, the well-known artist, and his wife, have lived for a year in a cottage on wheels, says the San Francisco Chronicle. Their movable residence is at present a lot in Alameda, where they are content and are waiting for a place where they intend to stay the coming winter.

Their house is a result of Mr. Brewer's attempt to secure a place where the cottage work at his art and still be able to go where he wished. The house was built in 1894, at a cost of about $500, and Mr. Brewer said recently that he had already made enough by the saving in rent and expenses to pay for it. The van is somewhat similar to those in use by gypsies, but is fitted up in much more comfortable style. It has one room 10 feet long, 4 1/2 feet wide and 6 feet 3 inches high, and in this Mr. Brewer and his wife have lived since the wagon was first started. At one end of the wagon, over the wheels, is a raised platform, and here is a pocket edition of a cooking stove, with a collection of shining pots and pans around it. Under the seat of the wagon is Mrs. Brewer's cupboard, and her table consists of the top of the big trunk, which contains the wardrobe of the pair.

The sleeping arrangements are, however, the greatest puzzle to the uninitiated. The bed consists of two big cushions laid upon the floor of the wagon, and bedding is stored in a box under the wagon, reached by a trap door in its floor.

The little room is full of light, as it must have, for Mr. Brewer has it for his studio on occasions. The door is on the left side, between the wheels, and is made in two halves, so that either can be opened independently of the other. Beside the door there is a big plate glass window and several smaller windows. The whole construction, including two persons, the little stove and the big trunk, weighs less than 2,000 pounds, and can be taken anywhere by two horses. Mrs. Brewer is the artist, and her husband is the traveling home than her husband. All winter they were domiciled in the hills above Berkeley and never felt better in their lives. Last August they started with their caravan from Alameda. They went over the hills to Contra Costa county and spent several months sketching in the valleys. Then they went to Berkeley for the winter, and in the spring moved their residence farther up into the hills. This winter they expect to spend in Alameda, and in the spring they will start out for a tour of the state.

Six Dollars for a Wife. A very romantic story comes from Summerville, Chautauque county. Some days ago a certain city was in the first stage of a violent case of conjugal affection. Their loving tenderness and conspicuous carriages attracted the attention of the stevedores, who, of that model mountain town. They could be seen in the gloaming out strolling together, and the prettiest of Cleopatra's springs were rendered still more picturesque by their presence. Married folk took it for granted that they were enjoying the first fruits of love's young dream, and about the middle of the afternoon they made very faces. The single folk blushed and giggled and possibly wondered if it were always thus. The couple returned to their home in the city of Knoxville, Tenn., and the people of Summerville naturally supposed that their conduct was but a fair sample of east Tennessee married life.

On the ground that she was hypnotized, the St. Petersburg Court of Appeals has reduced the sentence of death imposed upon a girl, five years' imprisonment, the evidence showing that she was completely under the control of the man who compelled her to poison her father.

CONTINUOUS SUFFERING UNNECESSARY. One or Two Doses of South American Kidney Cure will Give Relief in the Most Distressing Cases of Kidney Trouble.

It is a fallacy to argue one's self into the belief that suffering when it comes upon one must be patiently endured. Urinary suffering can be removed, if one knows the means and way. Much suffering is borne by those who are troubled with kidney disease. The distress at times is keen. But in South American Kidney Cure, medicine that is a kidney specific and nothing more though nothing less, a sure, safe, and speedy remedy is to be found. Relief is sure in less than six hours.

ORGANIZATION OF FARMERS. A FEATURE OF THE DAY.

James Rogers speaks earnestly. The development of Farmers' Institutes and other means of education on agricultural production has proven beyond a doubt that the present-day farmer requires to be a student of his work. The most successful ones are not a rule, those who do the greatest amount of manual labor, but those who are found ranking first as prize-winners on all agricultural products.

James Rogers, a resident of Tilsonburg, Oxford Co., Ont., for 43 years, has taken numerous first prizes during the year. A successful, reliable man, his statement will be of interest to many: "I have suffered for seven or eight years with Itching Piles; the torture and agony I cannot here find words to describe. Night after night was kept awake with the painful itching. I tried all the physicians and every known remedy all to no account, not even relief. In talking over my misfortune with Mr. Charles Thomson, our well known druggist, he recommended Chase's Ointment. To my wonder and surprise, I got relief from the second application. I firmly believe one box of this ointment cured me, and I can say that it is the best medicine I have ever used.
