CHARLOTTETOWN Business College Writing Academy

Let these eight of practice illuminate the dark places of Theory.

THOROUGHLY Progressive Practical Institution, in which young men and women are not only taught Book-keeping (in all its applications to commerce) both in single and double entry, but are trained how to do business, by actual business transactions. The students act as buyers, sellers, traders, bankers, book-keepers and accountants, in actual business operations, and the currency issued by the College Bank and the mds. issued from the Emporium, are used in bona fide business transactions, just the same as in mercantile and banking houses. Book-keeping in itself may be learned at home, but a knowledge of how to transact business, cannot be thus acquired. That our course system of training is eminently practical, is proved by testimonials from business men, and from students who are now holding lucrative and responsible positions.

SUBJECTS:
Book-keeping by single and double entry (theoretical and practical). Actual Business Practice, Business Penmanship, Business Correspondence, Commercial Arithmetic, Commercial Law, Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, (actual practice in the College Bank) Typewriting, Shorthand and Navigation.

FACULTY:
L. B. Miller, Principal, Teacher of Book-keeping, Arithmetic, Business Practice, Business Correspondence, Typewriting and Navigation.
J. W. Coulson, (Vice Principal), Teacher of Railroading, Steamboating, Banking, Accounting and Actual Business Practice.

COMMERCE OF THE LAKES.

Total Tonnage of the Soo Double That of the Suez Canal.

In St. Nicholas there is an article on "The Great Lakes" by W. S. Harwood. The author says:

The commerce of the lakes is enormous. The outlet from Lake Superior to Lake Huron had always been a serious obstacle to commerce, in that it was not deep enough to allow the larger freight and passenger boats to pass comfortably through. Locks have been built at government expense, at the cost of many millions of dollars, which now allow the passage of large boats, and two more locks are being built—one by the Canadians and one by the Americans—which will still further increase commerce. The new lock on the American side is larger than the old and when completed will be one of the most wonderful pieces of masonry to be found in the country. It will allow the passage of vessels drawing 21 feet of water. It has cost several millions of dollars and will not be completed for a year or two.

For many years the great Suez canal was looked upon as the most wonderful piece of commercial engineering in the world, carrying enormous cargoes through its gateway from the east. But in this newer land the commerce of the lakes has dwarfed the Suez canal. The total tonnage of the Soo during the year 1897 was 16,500,000. The tonnage of the Suez canal in 1896 was 7,000,000. This tonnage of the Soo does not by any means represent the entire commerce of the great lakes; it is only a portion of it. Hundreds of thousands of tons of merchandise and supplies of all kinds are shipped annually up from Lake Michigan points through the strait of Mackinac eastward, which do not pass through the Soo, and many thousands more go eastward from points below the Soo on the other lakes, to be exchanged for other supplies for points also below the Soo.

Year by year this immense traffic is growing. From the great west there come to the gateway of the Soo wheat and flour and lumber and iron ore—all the natural products from a vast area of country, drawn to the lake route because it is so much cheaper to move goods by water than by rail. In return, the east sends the vast quantities of manufactured goods and immense supplies of hard and soft coal. The west furnishes raw materials; the east manufactures these materials and sends back the products of her factories and mills. There were received at the ports of Duluth and Superior during the year 1896—that is, during the lake season—1,775,712 tons of coal.

On the margins of these lakes, particularly on the shores of Superior, there are ore bearing rocks containing iron, silver, copper and gold. The iron ore is of remarkable commercial value and practically inexhaustible in amount. Immediately tributary to Lake Superior, in some cases on its very banks, are iron mines the output of which rivals that of any mines in the world, and the supply in "sight," as the miners say, will furnish the world with iron for centuries to come.

Some of the lumber which goes east by way of the lakes is sent away on to South American points without separation, taking first a journey of perhaps several hundred miles down the rivers to the mills, then a thousand miles and more on the lakes to the St. Lawrence, passing through the Welland canal to get to Ontario, and then trying a few thousand miles of salt water—a picturesque voyage indeed.

The World's People.

Hubner's statistical and geographical tables, as a result of the latest investigations, give the population of the world at 1,535,000,000. This is an increase over the figures of 1896 of 23,000,000. To this increase Europe is credited with contributing 5,700,000; Asia, 6,200,000; Africa, 7,500,000; America, 3,200,000. The United States, with its great growth, estimated by this authority at 2,800,000, and its present population, placed at 72,300,000, represents more than 53 per cent of the entire population of North and South America—a circumstance adduced as highly significant and occurring in no other part of the earth. The population of Europe was increased to 378,600,000, which is about a quarter of the entire population of the earth.

Lost on the Atlantic.

From March, 1840, until March, 1893, 122 transatlantic vessels—steamships plying between Europe and America only—were lost en route, and as a direct result of this 6,369 lives were lost. The estimate of lives lost from various other causes is 600. The number of steamships never heard from after leaving port was 17. The number burned was nine, and the number foundered was 12. The other wrecks were caused by collisions, being washed ashore, collision with icebergs, etc. From March, 1893, to the beginning of the present year the loss of life on the Atlantic has been very much less than in former years, though one or two large steamers have had serious mishaps, and one was never heard from.—Washington Times.

Her Cup of Tea.

"How will I take my tea?" repeated an inveterate tea tippler in answer to the test question the other afternoon. "Well, I'll take my first cup with sugar and without cream, and my second without sugar and with cream, and my third cup without either, and my fourth cup with both. My fifth cup I'd like a la Russe, while my sixth"—

Justly Bereft of Ground Hog Facilities.

A year or two ago Charles Green, a well known hunter, declares on a bright ground hog day that he stood by the hole and shot and killed the animal as he poked his nose out of his winter's home, and in that way prevented him from seeing his shadow. Since that time, it is said, people in this section have been unable to obtain any satisfactory prediction as to the weather of February and early March.—Lynchburg News.

French and English Crusades.

French men of letters have not enough of the audacious spirit of the English, says Henry D. Sedgwick in The Atlantic. They troop to Paris, where they have been accustomed to sit on their classical benches since Paris became the center of France. The romance of Villon is the romance of a Parisian thief. The romance of Ronsard is the romance of the Parisian salon. Montaigne lives on his seigniorial while England is topsy turvy with excitement of new knowledge and new feeling. Corneille has the nobleness of a jeune fille. You can measure them all by their ability to plant a colony. Wreck them on a desert island, Villon will pick blackberries, Ronsard will skip stones, Montaigne whittle, Corneille look like a gentleman, and the empire of France will not increase by a hand's breadth. Take a handful of Elizabethan poets, and Sidney would chop, Shakespeare would cook, Jonson dig, Bacon snare, Marlowe catch a wild ass, and in 24 hours they would have a log fort, a score of savage slaves, a windmill, a pinnace, and the cross of St. George flying on the tallest tree.

Caloric.

The emotional litterateur had just written a piece of which he was very proud. The editor looked it over and then said:

"Do you candidly think such opinions ought to go into cold type?"

"I don't know much about the practical work of printing," was the reply, "but I don't believe it makes any difference. Even if the type is cold, I guess that article will take the chill off it."

Nature makes the cures after all.

Now and then she gets into a tight place and needs helping out.

Things get started in the wrong direction.

Something is needed to check disease and start the system in the right direction toward health.
