NEW YEAR'S GIFTS

G. H. TAYLORS SUNNYSIDE

Of Special Interest to our Farmers

Success or failure in any undertaking depends largely on the character of the start we make. "Well begun is half done" is an old axiom with a considerable amount of truth in it, and applies with a good deal of force in matters agricultural as well as in those of other industries. The importance of a right beginning is frequently made painfully apparent when the discovery that a mistake has been made comes too late to prevent loss and dissatisfaction. It is well, if possible, to be sure we are right before going ahead, and while it is true in relation to farming as well as other matters that "the best laid plans of mice and men gang aft a-gley," yet it is well to look ahead and lay plans for future work, counting the cost as nearly as we can, but above all things remembering that what is worth doing is worth doing well. The beginning of the new year is a favourite time for making good resolutions, and it is certainly better to make them at this time than to make them at any other time and it is wise to resolve to be thorough in all we undertake to do. Among the matters which may well engage the attention of the farmer at this season is the construction of such farm buildings as are necessary to the better and more economical handling of his crops and stock, or the improvements of a permanent and enduring nature. Sanitary conditions favorable to healthfulness of the farm stock, affording ample supplies of fresh air and sunlight, should be among the first considerations in the plans for stock barns. Durability and economy of material in the work of construction should be kept in view, and economy of space and of time and labor in storing the feed and in the feeding and care of the animals is important, as time properly used is equivalent to money, and in these days of close competition the labor bill is a considerable factor in the cost of production of meat and milk as well as of grain and other crops, and must be taken into account.

Starting right in the selecting and breeding of the different classes of farm stock is of paramount importance. As the security and endurance of a building depends largely on the character of its foundation, so does the success of a herd or flock depend upon the quality and character of the individual animals constituting the foundation of the family. Given a sound constitution and good feeding qualities in the dam and a wise selection of sires having and inheriting the same qualities, it is reasonable to expect that with proper care and treatment each successive generation will be at least equal in individual merit to the preceding one and by skilful and judicious selection and mating of parents may show distinct improvement. But in order to attain this it is important that the offspring get a right start in life, as not only its own individuality but also that of future generations in which its blood may play a part depends largely upon the feeding and treatment of the youngster during the early days of its life. We have an idea that a much larger share of the breeding than breeders are willing to admit depends on the kind and quantity of food which goes down the throat of the animal in its young days, and on its general treatment with a view to proper development of bone, muscle and tissue, and of the vital organs, which tell for good not only on itself, but on its descendants of future generations. An animal that has been stunted by insufficient nourishment in its early life, or has been overfed without sufficient exercise may never recover the ground that has been lost and many an animal which had within it the potentialities of greatness has been doomed to obscurity by injudicious early treatment.—Farmer's Advocate.

Many men have overlooked the important fact that the manure yielded by milk cows is not so rich as the manure from fattening stock when both are fed on the same foods. They are, however varying conditions which must not be overlooked, such as the widely different quantities of milk given by cows of different breeds the different composition of the milk of some breeds and the peculiarities of individual animals. At different periods of lactation the milk yield of each cow varies in amount and so, too, in a like degree does the value of richness of the manure yielded. These variations may, however, be corrected by the law of averages in the herd.—Farming.

BETTER than cure is prevention. By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla you may keep well, with pure blood, strong nerves and a good APPETITE.

SOURIS NOTES

The members of the Garrison Amateur Dramatic Society intend putting a new play on the boards entitled "The Golden Gulch." The play will take place in St. Patrick's Hall on Easter Monday night, and will be in aid of the Souris sidewalks. It is needless to comment on the merits of this society as they have proven their capability in previous years.

Mr. John Morrow is doing a rushing business in the corner grocery. John is courteous to all, and people appreciate his manner of doing business. He has done a large trade in boneless fish this winter and has filled several large orders for parties in other places.

Miss Ethel McDonald, who has been one of the principal salesladies in the store of Messrs. Mathew & McLean, is about to leave here for Charlottetown. Miss McDonald has been three years in Souris and has made for herself many friends who will be sorry to see her depart.

Some of the parties who signed the agreement for early closing have evidently forgotten the hour named, otherwise we do not think they would keep open after seven o'clock having signed an agreement to close at that hour.

On Monday Mr. Fred McDonald and Mr. Rice drove from Mr. Alex Robertson's store, Red Point, a distance of eight miles, in thirty-two minutes. Fred says if he had known that Mr. Rice was timing him he would have driven it in three or four minutes less. This we think takes the lead.

We are informed that Mr. A. E. Clarke, of this place has received a challenge from Mr. Waterman, Charlottetown, to skate for a five mile championship. The race will either take place in Souris or Charlottetown.

The captain and crew of the wrecked schooner Orient arrived here Monday morning. Malcolm Praught, one of the crew, had one of his toes badly frozen and it will likely have to be amputated.

Nearly everyone who owned a rig and several who didn't own one, took advantage of the splendid sleighing on Monday to have a spur. Mr. Charles McEachern, of Bayfield and Mr. Michael Costello, of Bear River were in town on Monday. Each of these parties has passed the fourscore mark.

Live Hugs and Pork.

In Buffalo, N. Y., the demand is reported as fairly alive. Yorkers sold, $3.75 to $3.80; mostly $3.50 to $3.75; bulk of the sales were at $3.85; heavy, $3.85 to $3.87; pigs, $3.60; medium, $3.80 to $3.85; roughs, $3 to $3.11; stags, $2.50 to $2.75. The offerings were 35 loads. The close was steady.

In Montreal Canadian pork in barrels, is quoted at from $15 to $15.50. There is a fairly active trade in dressed hogs at $5.65 for light weights and $5.40 for heavy, per 100 lbs.

Pork advanced 10c in Chicago on Monday, closing at .85 for January and $10.15 for May.

In Liverpool on the same day, pork closed 50s.

A mother is always ready to sacrifice herself for her baby. But nature does not often call for any such sacrifice. On the contrary nature calls upon every mother to carefully protect herself and in that way to protect her baby. During the critical period when a woman is looking forward to motherhood, the best protection she can give to the tender little life which is dependent upon her own, is to fortify herself with the health-bringing "Favorite Prescription" prepared by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., and sold by all dealers in medicines. All the dangers of motherhood and most of its pains and discomforts are entirely banished by the use of this rare "Prescription." It gives elastic strength and true healthful vitality to the special organs and nerve-centres involved in motherhood. This healthful condition is transmitted to the baby both by the improved quality of the mother's secreted nourishment and by the child's increased constitutional vigor. It is a perfect health protector to them both. No other medicine was ever devised by an educated, scientific, physician for the express purpose of bringing health and strength to the special feminine organs. No other preparation ever accomplished this purpose so scientifically and effectually. A more particular description of its remarkable properties with a full account of some surprising cures of female difficulties is given in one chapter of Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," which is sent free paper-bound for the mere cost of customs and mailing—31 one-cent stamps; or, cloth-bound, for 50 stamps. Address the Doctor as above.
