Prince Gortschakoff's death.
St. PETERSBURG, March 12.
Prince Gortschakoff died at Baden on Saturday.

Carey would succeed in the work he had on hand. At a secret inquiry before Mr. Curran, divisional magistrate, on the 8th, an informer, Joe Smith, testified that he watched the commission of the Phoenix Park murders, and gave details of attempts on the lives of Burke and Forster.

A Dublin correspondent of the London Times says that the flight of Egan affords the strongest moral evidence of the connection of the Land League with crimes in Ireland. It is rumored that the Government had received evidence proving beyond doubt that "No. 1" is an Irish-American officer of the League now in America.

Mrs. AMELIA STODDARD, a woman divorced from her husband, left the house of her father, James Stoddard, in Hartford, Conn., on the 5th, after preparing the breakfast for the family that morning, walked four miles through the snow towards her home in Newington, and thrust her head under water in a shallow stream, and held it there until she was drowned. The deceased was forty-five years of age, and leaves a young son.

Mrs. BETSEY HASTINGS PERKINS died at Taunton, Mass., on the 7th, aged 102 years and 9 days. She was born in Western, Mass., but early in life her father, who was a Revolutionary soldier, moved to Middleboro', where the deceased was married. Shortly after she moved to Taunton. Some of her children who survive her have already attained ripe ages. Mrs. Solomon Woodward, of Taunton, being nearly 80 years. Mrs. James Buffington, widow of the late Representative, was one of her children.

WIGGINS' STORM, if such it may be called, was not so severe in this province. It commenced at eight o'clock on Saturday evening. The velocity of the wind increased to forty-two miles an hour between the hours of nine and ten. Soon after midnight, the greatest velocity was attained—fifty miles an hour. But this only lasted a few minutes. The gale was pretty well spent between one and two o'clock on Sunday morning, when the velocity decreased to thirty miles an hour, and at four o'clock it decreased to strong winds. Very little snow accompanied the storm. No damage is reported.

Our Prophets.

To the Editor of the Examiner.
SIR,—I promised you that I would have something more to say on the striking resemblance between Wiggins, of Ottawa, and Warburton, of Charlottetown. Wiggins' first storm was to have come off on the 9th February. That prediction was a lamentable failure. Bannerman's first prediction was a tremendous Grit victory in 1878. It was as great a failure as Wiggins' storm. Wiggins' second great storm was to be on the 9th of March. It didn't come, but he raised a good blow on the evening of the 10th. Bannerman's second Grit victory was to have come off in 1882. It didn't come any more than Wiggins' storm, but he managed to raise a good "blow" also in the person of Mr. L. H. Davies. Verily, these two prophets ought to shake hands.
Yours,
SCEPTU.

Irish Notes.

Lady Florence Dixie in a letter to the Times charges Biggar and Parnell, as trustees of the Land League fund, with not accounting for £152,000 of money with which they were entrusted. She claims, therefore, while this money is unaccounted for by Parnell and his followers they have no right to mock the sufferings of the distressed people in Ireland by their sham championship of the starving peasantry.

Capt. O'Shea writes to the Daily News defending Parnell against Forster's attack in the Commons. He says immediately after the Phoenix Park murders Parnell drew up an address announcing his retirement from political life, and was prevailed upon by his friends, only with great difficulty, to alter his mind.

The London Times, commenting on the letter of O'Shea, M. P., printed in the Daily News, in which he seeks to defend Parnell against attacks made in the Commons by Forster, says the letter of O'Shea will not alter the deliberate judgment of country. The efforts of the writer to fasten charges of inaccuracy on Forster will not serve his cause.

Mr. Gladstone has declined to give a day for the discussion of the Kilmainham treaty negotiations. Sir Stafford Northcote said he would not proceed any further in the matter. The inferences to be drawn from the declination of the Government were quite obvious.

Mr. Jenkinson, director of the Irish criminal investigation department, states that Egan has been under police supervision for some time; that he left Ireland on Thursday unknown to the police. Jenkinson believes that Egan fled because he thought if Sheridan was extradited important evidence would come into the hands of the authorities. Three letters from the found on Carey's premises, dated Egan were found on November, 1881, at which October and November, 1881, at which time the Lavinias were established. One of these letters expressed the hope that
