

CFS Replaces NUS

By Marsha Smith
The Canadian Federation of Students is a national student organization serving the students of Canada who meet to discuss ideas and problems of the students. C.F.S. is a newly established organization which will replace the National Union of Students (N.U.S.) and the Association of Student Councils (AOSC).

There are three components of the Canadian Federation of Students: C.F.S., C.F.S. Services, and provincial organizations. C.F.S. Services include C.U.T.S. (Canadian University Travel Service), International Student Identification Card, National Student Discount Programme, Students Work Abroad Programme, and Canadian Programming Service (lecture bureau), all of which you will hear more about in the future.

At a recent UPEI Student Union Council Meeting, councilors voted to join the Canadian Federation of Students as prospective members. Prospective membership is of limited duration, meaning that UPEI Student Union must hold a referendum within three years to become full members. If a referendum is not held within this time period our prospective membership will cease.

UPEI Student Union will be represented at the Annual General Meeting held in May, and also at the Semi-annual meetings held in October or November.

Watch for more info in upcoming editions of the SUN.

Return to Chesterton

Tony van Bridge, the distinguished Stratford actor and director, will spend two days at the University of Prince Edward Island next week to meet the students and faculty, and to give a public performance of his acclaimed one-man show entitled An Evening With G.K. Chesterton. The performance, based on the writings of Chesterton, British essayist, poet, novelist, and critic, will be presented in Duffy Amphitheatre on Wednesday, November 18, at 7:30 P.M. No admission will be charged. Mr. van Bridge is being brought to campus by the Board of Governors of St. Dunstan's University.

"Chesterton" has been performed by Mr. van Bridge in the National Art Centre in Ottawa, and at other major theatres in North America; it has been adapted for CBC Radio, and for an hour-long color CTV television special. Mr. van Bridge has researched, compiled and edited the material used in the performance.

The actor's first appearance on campus will be on Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 p.m. in an open seminar entitled Return to Chesterton, to be held in the Chaplaincy Centre. Besides his performance Wednesday evening, he will meet with students who are participating in the Island Community Theatre and the UPEI Theatre Society, at a Koffee Klatch in the Chaplaincy Centre on Thursday at 10:00 a.m. At noon he will be guest speaker at a Chelsea Luncheon, held regularly on campus and featuring guest speakers, in Dalton Hall at 12:30 p.m.

Born in London, England, Mr. van Bridge attended the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, and his acting career covers several seasons at Stratford (Ontario) Festival, notably in the role of Falstaff, at the Stratford (Connecticut) Festival, and at the Shaw Festival at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Notes From the Principal's Office

With only a few weeks of classes remaining for most education students, perhaps this poem written by Heather Martin best sums up the general theme of how they are feeling right now.

EDUCATION 1981

We all started out, all so fresh-faced and fine
With no notion of the horrors we'd see down the line.
We all had heard rumors, "Keep up with your work!"
But despite all our fears we were inclined just to smirk.

The first week went quickly and easily it seemed,
And the second and third floated by like a dream,
Till suddenly on Friday of week number four
The assignments became a monster we were pleased to abhor.

The first casualty came in week number five,
And the event made us all hope to God we'd survive.
The ripple effect left its mark on no one,
So, undaunted and tenacious we still plodded on.

Week six and week seven brought delusions of rest
So we patched up our nerves and retired to our nests.
The pressure was building though, and this we all knew
As we looked over the ninety things, for the first one to do.

So I sit now in the classroom in week number eight
And the common thought in the minds is "Do I love or do I hate?"
This program which unnerves me, and almost kills me it seems,
Will I ever really use it to accomplish my dreams?"

Saturday night was spent at the rink
The Panthers versus UNB Red Sticks
The final score 4-1 for who do you think?
UPEI! But hardly for kicks!

Halloween it was, the parties began
The campus was alive, that's for sure.
Back at the Wandlyn the hockey team stayed
And had fun with a trick door to door.

Buckets of water were used on another
To his cold, cold surprise and shock
But who's ever think they's come to his room?
If he didn't want them, he should've pushed the lock!

The Halloween costumes were all different and cute
And one player, he fell in love.
With four girls dressed up in blue fluffy suits
They were "Smurfs", sent from heaven above.

Sunday morning came and we were up about nine
Almost everyone was nursing their head.
Breakfast was had for those feeling fine
Those who were sick, stayed in bed.

It was off to the rink, the game was at two
The Panthers were one and 0
At the end of the first, we were ahead
Gomez was hot, Way to Go!

The game now completed, the Panthers did win
A good weekend was had all around
Back in the van and to the boat once again
Everything was quiet, hardly a sound.

The week-end was great for those who were there
But it all seemed to end too soon.
One thing strange which doesn't seem fair
Nobody pulled any moons!

If you missed this fan van to good'ole NB
And would like to take part in the groove
Please spread the word another trip is at hand
To witness basketball and hockey on the move!
