Only Monastery in Anglican Church in Canada is 25 Years Old

Only monastery in the Anglican church in Canada is celebrating its 25th birthday this year at Bracebridge, Ont. The Cowley mission—headed by Father Richard Morley, seen above with bell which summons priests of the Order of St. John the Evangelist in Canada to prayer nine times a day—has thrived since it was founded in 1928 by Father Benson. Every year many people retreat to quiet and peaceful surroundings of the Cowley monastery.

Successful Illustration Station Field Day Held

Illustrated Station field day, sponsored by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Provincial Department of Agriculture, was held at the farm of Mr. T. Albert Hicken, Alliston, yesterday afternoon and evening. A large number of farmers and their womenfolk took the day off from their necessary work in order to hear department officials discuss matters of great concern to them.

Mr. Hicken welcomed the farmers to the field day, after which Mr. Norman Black, provincial supervisor of illustration stations, spoke regarding the experimental studies being carried on in many fields on the Hicken farm. Crop rotation, application of fertilizer, orchard management, pasture management, red pine reforestation, blueberry field management were some of the matters under-going study.

The farmers were then conducted on a tour of the farm, while the ladies remained to hear a most interesting talk by Mrs. R. C. Parent on her two-month tour of the British Isles during the Coronation.

The men were conducted to the orchard where Mr. Gordon Warren, horticulturist, explained the principles of grafting in order to get a good variety apple on a hardy tree. He also explained the use of fertilizer, mulch, and the periods at which spraying should be done.

While at the vegetable garden, Mr. Warren spoke of a method of growing cucumbers by planting the rows closer together than normally. This, he said, lent to closer packing of the leaves, and cucumbers would grow in one size, thus reducing the number of pickings in the season.

While discussing the blueberry growth, Mr. Warren stated that controlled burning of the area of growth was advisable since it usually led to increased production.

Mr. Black spoke on the tour respecting the different hay experiments which had been conducted. He stressed particularly a brome mixture, which, he said, had produced good results when properly planted, and which also made excellent feed for cattle. In speaking of the hay crop, he was of the opinion that the hay is being cut a little late, and better results for after grass would be had were it cut earlier.

Returning to the assembly tent, the group listened to an instructive talk by Mr. Fred Cannon, of the entomological division, on the species and control of many of the most harmful farm products insects.

Mr. Morris Deacon, provincial agricultural representative for King's, spoke interestingly on the set-up of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, and then of the work of promoting 4-H clubs and Junior Farmers throughout the province, and of the results obtained by the boys and girls through this work.

The afternoon session concluded with an interesting talk by Mr. R. C. Parent, supervisor of the Experimental Farm, on his trip to the Coronation, and which he illustrated with slides.

A delicious chicken supper was served by the Women's Institute of Peter's Road West following the afternoon session.

Mr. Frank Gaudet, of the Department of Natural Resources, spoke instructively on reforestation and wild life. He stated that thought should be given to the planting of red pine, as at the present time a bud worm is gradually reducing the standing fir and spruce. Since this area was at one time primarily pine, it should not be too difficult, he said, to restart growth on a large scale. He spoke also respecting protecting the coverage for wild life stating that growth along streams and brooks, and also hedgerows should be left for this purpose since this wildlife is in many instances of assistance to the farmers. Moreover, he said, the retention of growth along stream beds prevents the erosion of top soil, and also helps to retain the level of the watershed. He also showed several films dealing with reforestation and wild life.

Mr. Frank Casely and Mr. James Cudmore also showed films on feeding livestock on the farm, and answered many questions pertaining to this particular matter.

It is a wise nation that preserves its records and benefits from the lessons taught by them," said Premier Matheson in the course of his address in which he reviewed briefly the history and traditions of the community.

Mr. Matheson said that this occasion brought to mind many happy thoughts of boyhood days, efforts. And so also on the three-hundredth or even the five hundredth anniversary, the people who celebrate here can look with joy and pride on a heritage well preserved and handed down to them.

The Premier expressed the hope and prayer that we may have peace and security in our land so that anniversaries may always have a place in our way of living.

Mr. R. R. Bell, Q.C., the next speaker, first congratulated the committee in charge of the celebrations. He offered the opinion that if he had that type of organization in a political campaign things would be much more successful.

"How far have we come?" was the question put by Mr. Bell to his listeners. He went on to point out that in former days the practice of family worship in the home was the rule in most every home, all chores that could be done on Saturday were completed so that nothing would in any way disturb the peace of the Sabbath.

The speaker wondered whether we had advanced spiritually or were we upholding these sacred traditions of our forefathers.

"These are changing times," said Mr. Bell, "and we must keep pace with them. You people are keeping pace in a way which is an honour to yourselves and to Prince Edward Island, and in a manner which your forefathers would hope you would do."

The music for the evening was provided by the choir under the direction of Mrs. M. W. MacDonald. Mrs. Rev. John MacKay and Mr. Lloyd Martin were heard in
