A Choice New Variety.

BURPEE'S EMPIRE STATE POTATO.

It is a well known fact that the farmers of Prince Edward Island are annually losing thousands of dollars on account of growing potatoes that are not saleable in the American market. The McIntyre or Chenango potato, that is now so generally grown, does not suit the American market, as it is so rough and coarse; but its good keeping qualities and its freedom from rot have so commended it, that the farmers have continued planting it as their main crop potato. All the buyers for the American market, however, agree in saying that they could give from five to ten cents per bushel higher price for our potatoes if they could get cargoes that would compare favorably with the potatoes grown in Maine and Nova Scotia; and it can readily be computed what an immense advantage it would be to the people of this Island if this higher price could be secured. The great objection our farmers have to growing the kind of potato that the inhabitants of the cities of the Eastern States will buy most readily, is mainly owing to the fact that the potatoes heretofore introduced do not keep well, and are liable to rot during the winter. The Early Rose, Beauty of Hebron, Burbanks Seedling, Snowflake, White Elephant, White Star, and many more potatoes that have been introduced are of splendid quality in the early fall, but when stored during the winter they lose their good quality, and in many cases are rotten in the spring. What is wanted is potatoes that will keep good until June or July of the year after they are grown. Such a potato, we believe has been introduced during the past year or so, and in Burpee's Empire State Potato the requirements of a first class main crop potato will be found. This potato was first grown by Mr. E. L. Coy, of Washington Co., New York, a first class authority on potatoes, who says: "This remarkable new potato No. 99 is a seedling of 1881. It was from the only seed ball that I have yet succeeded in finding on the White Elephant." Mr. Coy, writing on Oct. 17, 1884, says: "Another year's experience with the new seedling potato 'No. 99,' hereafter to be known as Burpee's Empire State, in comparison with about sixty other varieties, convinces me that too much has not and cannot be said in its favor. To those in search of a strictly first class table potato, this new seedling presents stronger claims than any variety of which I have any knowledge. It has proved itself to be delicate and rich in flavor, perfectly free from rot; is never hollow; cooks evenly through without any coarseness; yields enormously, and is easily dug. In fact, I confidently believe that this new variety will fully supply the long felt need of a really good white cooking potato. Last spring I decided to abide by the judgment of potato experts before saying anything more on my own responsibility regarding its merits. With this end in view I sent about fifty tubers to as many practical potato growers, with the request that they test it thoroughly and give me their full opinion of its merits, both as to quality and productiveness. I have received reports, as requested, from nearly all, and with a single exception they are unanimous in the opinion that it is wonderfully productive, as well as a floury and delicately flavored variety. Single tubers cut to single eyes have yielded from 100 to 138 pounds." Again in 1885 Mr. Coy says: "Another year's experience has more than confirmed my previous opinion that I have at last originated the most valuable variety of potato that has ever been introduced. The past season this seedling was subjected to the most careful tests in competition with the most noted and highly landed varieties in cultivation, with the most satisfactory results. It has more than equalled my sanguine anticipations. My life long endeavors to produce a perfect potato for general purposes have been fully realized."

In the spring of 1885 Mrs. H. L. Macdonald of Cardigan Bridge noticed the advertisement of this potato in Burpee's Seed Catalogue for that year, and sent for a half bushel, which was duly received. The writer, having obtained fifteen pounds of them, planted them in ordinary land, alongside of McIntyre potatoes, and had ten bushels of splendid large tubers. Others who obtained them had equally good results. Since then each year has proved the truthfulness of Mr. Coy's statements regarding this potato, and on the 25th of July, this year, some of those grown in 1886, that were not planted, were as good, as sound, and cooked as white and mealy as they did when dug. This potato is not an early kind. It ripens during the first week of October, and, in consequence, is ready to dig at, and cuts to great advantage for planting. We understand that about twenty-five acres are planted this year in different sections of the Island, and we believe that an effort will be made to introduce them all over the Province. Judging from the fields we have seen, the yield this year will be very large—not less than 300 bushels to the acre—that is if no untoward calamity overtakes the crop, although no extra manure was used on the land. The introduction of this first-class potato is of the greatest importance to all classes of the community, as they are calculated to supply a want our farmers have felt during the past few years.

Notes from Hillsborough Head.

The farmers here are busy at their hay at present, which is rather a light crop, although the wheat and potato crops look very promising.

The potato bug is visiting us, but as yet not much damage is reported.

Our noble temperance lodge, I. O. G. T., is still progressing and we hope will continue so doing.

The enterprising gentleman at the saw-mill is at present doing a rushing business.

One young man, having returned from the States, has opened out a barber shop in this vicinity, and people are coming all the way from French Fort—a distance of twelve miles—to patronize him, which certainly speaks well of his ability.

Several of our sporting characters assemble once in a while with their fliers for the purpose of doing the turf.

This quarter is at present swarmed with visitors from all parts, who come here for the good of their health.

A Dakota man has discovered a serpent that sings, producing a sound "like the music of distant bells." They want the Scott Act in Dakota.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"The MacDonaldives."

SIR,—My attention was directed the other day to an extract from the correspondent of the Moncton Times, entitled "As Others See Us," in your issue of the 29th ult., referring to what the writer thereof called "one of the religious sects of the Island—the MacDonaldives."

The writer attempted to describe what he witnessed on the sacrament 11 occasion at DeSable on the 17th inst. He says: "At the close of the minister's address a lady prayed in Gaelic, and during the singing and playing, (the italics are mine) several of the members began a violent slapping of hands, shouting, moaning and swaying of the body," etc.

What he means by the lady praying in Gaelic, and the playing, I do not understand, but I would advise the writer and others of that ilk to give heed to that wise old doctor of the law, Gamaliel, when he said: "Refrain from these men, and let them alone, for if this counsel or this work be of men it will come to naught, but if it be of God ye cannot overthrow it lest haply ye be found even to fight against God."

To show that the "MacDonaldives" are not singular in their manifestations, even at this day of the world, I take the liberty of giving an extract from a work by the Rev. Wm. Haslam, M. A., (late Incumbent of Carzon Chapel, Mayfair, London, when no one will accuse of fanaticism), entitled, "Yet Not I," page 237. He was commenting to his audience on the wonderful effects of the power of the Holy Spirit manifested on the day of Pentecost. He says, "I remarked that the Holy Ghost came upon the people who were assembled with one accord in one place. They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak as the Spirit gave them utterance. The multitude were amazed and in doubt, saying one to another: 'What meaneth this?' Others mockingly said, 'These men are full of new wine,' and others were pricked in their hearts, and said to Peter and the rest of the Apostles, 'Men and brethren, what shall we do?' I said, 'The Holy Ghost is not changed; He can fall on us and fill us now.' While I was yet speaking, as if by a preconcerted signal, (which of course had not been given) at least fifty or sixty persons fell simultaneously to the ground; and perhaps three times that number praised God with loud voices. It was a sudden burst, proceeding from the same fountain or cause. One did not catch it from another, but all were under the influence of the same spirit.

"From the platform the scene was one of extraordinary confusion, and doubtless it presented a similar aspect from other positions. From time to time, one after another—those who had been seeking mercy—found it, and began to rejoice. This made others who had found peace more terribly in earnest."

Yours, etc.,

OBSERVER.

Queen's County, Aug. 6th, 1887.

[Guardian please copy.]

It appears that the Alaska seal hunting grounds are wholly given over to a ring. Not only are foreign vessels suspected of seal hunting seized by the guardians of the monopolists, but American citizens themselves are compelled to respect their claims. We see that among the vessels seized lately while sailing in Behring Sea, scores of miles from land, was an American schooner hailing from Seattle, Oregon. It is rather amusing to see New England fishermen, their representatives in Congress, and their newspaper organs setting up a howl because American fishermen are captured in the act of catching mackerel within a mile and a half of the Canadian shore, while British vessels are seized by American cruisers many leagues from land in Behring's Sea. If it is right to seize British vessels out of sight of land in that northern sea, it surely cannot be wrong to interfere with American sealers when they are found trespassing within two miles of the Canadian shore. The claims of the Americans in Behring's Sea are simply preposterous, and why they are not more vigorously resisted by the British government than they appear to be is incomprehensible.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste, it soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind.

The fair sex of New York are just now presenting quite a military appearance, owing to their liberal use of gold braid in the adornment of dresses and silver girdles—not those with chain accompaniment, but the girdle pure and simple. A stately blonde maiden made quite a sensation on Union Square on a recent Saturday afternoon, by her dress of dark material slashed with yellow, and a ponderous silver girdle that encircled her waist.

It is worthy of remark that there were only thirty thousand dollars difference between the receipts of the Grand Trunk for the last week of July and those of the C. P. R. The Grand Trunk receipts for that week were $357,853, and the C. P. R.'s $327,000. The new road is thus seen to be keeping pace with the old one.

A little kindly courtesy goes a good way in a busy household, and if in our homes we use the same politeness we offer our guests wash show no ill-fitting "company manners."
