was the backbone of the whole economy of both countries. If there was not sufficient basic steel, the soldier was not of much use.

At present Canada was "leaning too heavily on the arm of the United States" for steel. There long had been talk of the value of decentralization. But Canada did not seem to have learned this lesson. She was continuing to centralize her industry in Ontario and Quebec. The next war was going to be a strategic war to knock out centres of production.

Discusses A-Bombing

Mr. MacLean said Canada will be subject to atomic bombing if there is another war. For that reason she should systematically plan dispersal of her industry to rural areas. This did not mean existing industries in the bigger cities need be torn down, but new ones, or those which have to be rebuilt, should be decentralized.

Such a step also would help the economy of rural and low-population centres. He was concerned with the safeguarding of government departments. He believed there should be duplicate government files, so government would not be immobilized if an atomic bomb dropped on Ottawa.

Inquest Last Night At St. Peter's Bay

The inquest into the death of Adam G. Finlayson, which occurred on May 22nd at Bangor, was held last evening at St. Peter's Bay school with Dr. M. N. Beck presiding coroner. Mr. S. S. Heslin appeared for the crown.

The first witness, Joseph Kelly, mill owner, stated that he had not actually seen the accident, but had seen the main belt come off the pulley, striking and resting on a rope controlling the speed of the driving engine, which because of the weight, was by then going wide open. The pulley was revolving at a high rate of speed and a piece of belting which had been attached to the pulley broke loose, one part going through the ceiling and another apparently striking Mr. Finlayson over the heart. Mr. Finlayson walked outside where he collapsed. He helped carry Mr. Finlayson into his home, Mr. Donald MacDougall, to notify Mr. Finlayson's brother and also to call Dr. Beck at St. Peter's.

Mr. Frank Kelly, brother, corroborated the "evidence of the first witness. Mr. Russell MacAulay, stated that he was working on his car outside the mill at the time and saw Mr. Finlayson emerging from the mill, and later collapsing. He helped the others carry him into the home of Mr. Kelly.

Nelson McEwen, who was also working on the car corroborated the evidence of Mr. MacAulay. Dr. Beck read the autopsy report which showed that the fourth rib had been fractured, rupturing the heart muscle causing the pericardial sac to fill with blood.

The jury included foreman Alidius MacKenzie, John MacInnis, Harry Green, Freeman MacDougall, George MacLean and Hector MacDonald. The Souris detachment R. C. M. P. investigated the case.

Gold Vanishes From Unguarded Cart

SUDBURY, Ont., May 30—(CP)—Canada's slickest gold theft in years was pulled off last night when a fortune in gold bricks vanished from an unguarded mail cart.

While passengers and train men hurried about the Canadian Pacific Railway station, thieves spiraled away three 60-pound bricks of pure gold—valued at about $80,000 but worth considerably more on the black market. En route from British Columbia mines to the Ottawa Mint, the gold was left unguarded for a few minutes on the station platform while it was being transferred to another car.

That short time was enough for the thieves—police believe there were three of them—to make the haul.

Officials believe the men made the trip of 3,000-odd miles from the west aboard the gold-carrying train.

Inspector Leo Duberges of the C.P.R. police said even he hadn't been informed of the shipment. That's why no extra guard was posted, he added.

VISITING MOOSE

SAULT STEE. MARIE, Ont.—(CP)—Two moose sauntered boldly into the hamlet of Bruce Mines near here, not in the least alarmed by the barking of dogs and the shouts of children. They ended their visit by way of a farm on the outskirts of town.

Judge DesRoches Heads King's Co. Fish, Game Ass'n

Judge J. S. DesRoches, Montague, was elected president of the King's County branch of the Fish and Game Association at the annual meeting held at the Poole Hotel last evening. Other officers elected were: vice-president, Roy White, Souris; and secretary-treasurer, James C. Cudmore, Montague. The meeting was presided over by the president, Mr. Alan MacLean, Souris.

Following the reading of the minutes of the last annual and special meetings, by Mr. Roy White in the absence of the secretary, a brief but comprehensive account of the history and aims of the association was given by Mr. Stewart Jones, provincial president, who said that the present set-up of county branches was so designed as to give a broader view of existing problems and their possible solutions, and at the same time presenting to official departments a majority opinion of the best program for the fish and game on the island.

Mr. Richard Found, president of the Prince County branch and Mr. E. MacNutt, president of the Queen's County branch, gave brief outlines showing how their branches operated to benefit the aims of the association.

Guest Speaker

Dr. Jones then introduced the guest speaker, Dr. T. Lothian, professor of biology at Prince of Wales College. Dr. Lothian spoke on the subject of "Conservation on Prince Edward Island" in which he pointed out that because of lack of proper conservation this country was rapidly losing its top soil and high water table. He cited three principles to protect and conserve these, the first of which was proper farm practices. To retain soil and water, he urged contour plowing, strip planting, and the use of grasses and legumes which add humus to the soil, thereby helping to check erosion.

The second principle of reforestation would prevent the dropping of the watershed and the seasonal floods by retaining the water on the land. He urged farmers to retain and properly cultivate their woodlots on a sustained-yield basis. Well located wood lots, he said, would protect buildings, livestock, soil, and game by providing coverage, feed and nesting area, and for fish by increasing the volume of water through raising the water shed, and a cooler water temperature.

As a third principle he urged the construction of dams to raise the water level for the farmers' land, and at the same time increase the breeding and feeding area for fish. He concluded by saying that a program of conservation should be inaugurated in schools so that the children in early life would learn the necessity of conservation for farm and wildlife which go hand-in-hand, and he urged all those interested in the program of conservation to join the association whose aim it was to foster such conservation.

Mr. Jones, in developing the educational idea, stated that a program was being set up to be put into schools, and the King's County branch endorsed the scheme as set out by the Fish and Game Association on this educational plan. Mr. B. Graham Rogers spoke briefly respecting the game census report, and urged sportsmen to file a census report at the end of the season as this was one of the best means for the department to ascertain the number of game taken during the season, the estimated number of population, and their rate of growth.

The new directors appointed for the ensuing year are as follows: Tom Fraser, Murray Harbour; Malcolm MacKinnon, Murray River; Harvey Moore, Milltown; Glen MacLaren, New Perth; Louis Cantelo, Bridgetown; John A. MacDonald, Cardigan; John MacInnis, Morell; Harvey Douglas, Head of Hillsboro; Charles Townsend, Fortune; Stewart MacIntyre, East Point; Alan MacLean, Souris; Frank Jay, St. Peter's; Laurie MacLure, Murray Harbour North; Temple Goteh, Georgetown; J. J. Betton, St. Peter's Bay. Local matters respecting

Mourning For King Ends Today

OTTAWA, May 30—(CP)—After four months Canada's period of official mourning for King George VI will end tomorrow. There will be no formal recognition of the event but it will be signalled by a number of little things including the disappearance of black neckties from the dress of a fair number of officials from the Governor-General and the cabinet on down.

Officers of the three armed forces will take down black armbands. The Governor-General and the State Department will cease to send correspondence edged in black.

The relative quiet which has fallen over official social life here will end and in the weeks ahead Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey will give the first big party since he became Governor-General just at the time of the King's death.

In his first months in office, Mr. Massey has entertained but on a quiet basis.

Sabre Jets Leave For Great Britain

BAGOTVILLE, Que., May 30—(CP)—Five flights of F-86 Sabre jets of No. 439 Squadron which arrived here today from Ottawa en route to Britain will remain overnight because of bad weather, an R.C.A.F. spokesman said. The jets will fly on to Goose Bay, Labrador tomorrow, on the second stage of their hop to England. They made the 305-mile flight from Ottawa this morning in less than an hour.

Bagotville is in the Lake St John district of Northeastern Quebec.

BIG DIFFERENCE

The poisonous water-hemlock is often confused with the harmless Sweet Cicely, a perennial growing in rich woods.

Larkin's Pond, Selkirk, and Crane's Pond, Riverton, were discussed and it was moved that they be brought to the attention of the Department.

A vote of thanks was extended Dr. Lothian, and Mrs. G. S. Inman for the use of the hotel for holding the meeting, and also for the delicious lunch served the members.

The meeting concluded with films presented by Mr. George V. Fraser, Director of Public Relations.

Pipe Line Company, whose line carries 31 different oil products from eleven companies from Baton Rouge, La., to Greensboro, N. C., a distance of 1,281 miles. For a present, Imperial Oil intend to produce at least five different oil products: Two grades of gasoline, stove oil, diesel oil and turbine fuels.

The dispatcher feeds the products into the line in "batches" each batch is the amount of a product pumped in at one operation. The batches travel through the line somewhat like the containers in a pneumatic tube. He, by controlling pressure and other elements, regulates the speed of each batch pushed through the line, so that they do not have chance to slow down and mix. It is estimated that to move 22,000 barrels per day the products would move at the rate of four miles per hour; at this steady speed a batch buttresses itself against the other batches. Facing edges, like two walls of liquid, form at front and rear of each batch.

"These walls, of course, are not solid, and it is at the facing edge that a very minor degree of mixing occurs." Control measures are taken to ensure the purity of each batch. Samples are taken at delivery terminals and pumping stations of each batch, which are checked at the refinery laboratories. When the tiny buffer between two batches is drawn off and found to contain only minor mixing it will be divided between the two batches it had separated and it is absorbed without interfering with the standard of purity required for each batch.
