Don't forget that the Concert in A. O. H. Hall takes place to-night. Judging by the programme which appears in to-day's issue it promises to be the best of the season.

The Choir Concert.—The law of supply and demand is a pretty rare index of popular sentiment, and from the fact that 400 tickets have been sold for the Choir Concert in the Philharmonic Hall for to-morrow (Thursday) evening, the conclusion can be formed that a good concert is acceptable and will command its due measure of patronage. Read the programme in another column and materialize to-morrow evening.

Y. M. C. A.—The entertainment given in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last evening was fairly well attended. The exercises on the high and low bars by the club, under the direction of Mr. F. Kennedy were highly creditable. The straight-arm balancing was cleverly done, and the tumbling and pyramids were very amusing. The instructor, Mr. F. Kennedy, is to be commended upon the progress made by the young men under him. During the evening excellent vocal solos were contributed by Messrs. Geo. A. Dixon and Jas. E. Davison. Mr. James H. Good gave a reading.

An Exciting Chase.—Monday morning a constable had occasion to issue a couple of summonses on a Scott Act Prosecutor in one of the Island districts. The Prosecutor's conscience must have been accusing him as he feared the summonses were warrants for arrest, he refused to admit the constable to his dwelling house. The self-imprisoned party at last succeeded in escaping and started off in his sleigh. The constable caught sight of him and a long and stern chase ensued. Pursuer and pursued alike urged their foam-flecked steeds to the highest speed. John Gilpin wasn't in it. The long cape of the fugitive waved behind him like a banner on a Spanish galleon. Finally the fleeing one attempted to seek refuge in his brother's house, but before he could do so the officer of the law was upon him and the summonses were served.

The Seasons Lobster Pack. The American Grocer, published in New York City, says: "Mr. James E. Grant, of Charlotteville, P. E. I., is in the city with a view of contracting for his pack of lobsters the coming season. One of the objections to canned lobster heretofore has been that the soldering fluid of the cans acting on the metal was apt to discolor the lobster. This was a measure obviated by lining the tins with parchment paper and has now been entirely obviated by Mr. Grant, who has invented a 'soldering cream' which is efficient, and being free from all acids, is entirely wholesome. The pack of lobsters this year bids fair to be smaller than in any previous season. In addition to the restricted packing season now imposed by the Canadian Government, the financial distress in Newfoundland will make the pack in that section extremely small, and it is probable that the present era of low prices for this staple will soon pass away. When we reflect that it takes seven averaged sized lobsters to furnish the meat for a one-pound tin, the exceeding cheapness of canned lobster will be apparent."

THE YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE.

They Meet at Philharmonic Hall and Organize a Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association.

A large and representative gathering of the Young Liberal-Conservative of Charlotteville, together with a number of the older elders, met in the Philharmonic Hall, Grafton Street, last evening. The meeting was called for the purpose of organizing an association to be known as the Young Liberal-Conservative Association. Mr. D. O'M. Reddin jr. was elected to the chair, and Mr. C. R. Smallwood acted as Secretary.

The chairman, in a short speech, outlined the object of the meeting. He then called upon Mr. T. A. McLean, who, in a neat speech briefly addressed the meeting and professed his unbounded confidence in the result of the forthcoming general election.

Mr. McCourt was the next speaker, and he also reviewed the political situation. Messrs. J. J. Johnston and L. P. Tanton followed.

Then the Hon. Mr. Ferguson, P. C., took the platform and for about three-quarters of an hour reviewed the history of the so-called liberal party of Canada and their many and changeable policies, and closed amid the cheers and enthusiastic applause of the audience.

The organization of the Young Men's Liberal-Conservative Association was then proceeded with and the following officers were elected:

President—D. O'M. Reddin, jr. First Vice-President—J. A. McLean. Second Vice-President—W. F. Harrison Carvell.

Sec'y.—J. J. Johnston. Executive Committee—E. R. Brown, Dr. S. R. Jenkins, John Hagan, S. W. Crabbe, A. E. Arsenault, James McDonald, Donald McKenzie, B. F. Longworth, P. S. Brown, L. E. Tanton and D. Nicholson.

The meeting adjourned to meet on Tuesday next, when a mass meeting of the Liberal-Conservative of the city will be held to elect delegates from the different polling divisions to the Convention on the 15th inst., to nominate candidates for West Queen's for the forthcoming general election. The meeting will be held in the Philharmonic Hall.

THE SUIT CLUB CASE. The charge of disposing of clothing by a device or scheme of chance, preferred against Mr. George A. Dixon by Mr. D. A. Bruce, was again before the police court this morning. Two witnesses were called on behalf of the prosecution. Mr. Stewart, Q. C., stated that he did not intend calling witnesses for the defence. He argued that the evidence did not disclose an offence against the Criminal Code inasmuch as the element of chance was wanting, and that the goods at the time of the drawing must be specific and ascertained.

Mr. McLeod, Q. C., addressed the court on behalf of the prosecution. He contended that the element of chance pervaded the transaction throughout. It was a scheme to sell goods by lot. If the defendant had set down to deliberately violate the statute he could not have done so more thoroughly. He said the defendant's offence was complete as soon as he published the scheme and offered inducements for the public to subscribe, even if a lot had never been sold.

The Magistrate took time to consider, and adjourned the case until this day week.

MEETING AT SOUTH MELVILLE. According to notice, a meeting of the inhabitants of South Melville, Appin Road and vicinity was held in the schoolhouse at South Melville on Feb. 14th. John Beer, Esq., was appointed chairman, and the undersigned Secretary. The object of the meeting was to take into consideration the advisability of petitioning the Government to build a bridge across Beer's mill race as the present crossing is only an ordinary mill dam, held by Mr. Beer as private property, and is altogether unfit and unsafe for travelling purposes. The meeting was addressed by Messrs. Alex. McFarlane, Edward Trainor and John Bradley, all of whom considered the erection of the proposed bridge a matter of the greatest necessity, and showed that the extension of the road from the said proposed bridge for some ten or twelve chains would greatly lessen the grade of that very steep hill, known as Beer's. The petition which was accordingly drawn up and numerously signed, was presented to the Government at the coming session, when we hope they will give the matter their favorable consideration.

J. W. McLELLAN, Secretary. South Melville, March 1st, 1895.

PERSONAL. Rev. A. E. McAnulty, of Morell, is in the city. Hon. Mr. Ferguson went west this morning.

Rev. J. C. McLean, of Narrow's Creek, is in the city. Rev. A. E. Burke, of Alberton, was in the city yesterday, and left for the west this forenoon.

Mr. James C. McEachen, ex-Chief of the New York Caledonia Club, was recently presented with a beautiful silver water set in recognition of the valuable services rendered by him during his occupancy of the Chief's chair. In making the presentation the chairman made an address highly eulogistic of the work done for the Club by Mr. McEachen, and the latter replied in feeling and fitting terms. Mr. McEachen is a brother of Mr. A. E. McEachen, of this city.

DIED. At Georgetown on March 3rd, of inflammation of the lungs, Edgar Stanley, son of Mark and Eva Henry, aged 6 years and 7 months.

One town in Germany has reason to rejoice over the rapid rise in value of New York real estate, and that town is Waldorf. William Waldorf Astor will spend much of his time there this year. The millionaire has just begun to take the liveliest interest in the little place that gave the first John Jacob to the world, and the name of which will be hereafter borne by a branch of the house of Astor. A memorial fountain is to be placed there, and various local benefactions have already been made.

A Meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Electors of Charlotteville and Royalty will be held in the Philharmonic Hall on TUESDAY EVENING, the 12th inst., at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of choosing Delegates to attend the Convention of the Liberal-Conservative Association for West Queen's, to be held on the 15th inst.

PR. McLEOD'S LECTURE.

Vital Importance of Sanitation—Death in the Home.

The lecture delivered by Dr. James McLeod in St. James' Hall, last evening, should have drawn a much larger audience than that which assembled. But the deficiency in numbers was more than compensated by the intelligent appreciation of those who listened to the lecturer's able treatment of a subject which, while important everywhere, is of special interest to the citizens of Charlotteville—sanitation. Beginning with pre-historic man, the lecturer vividly depicted the social and sanitary state of the abodes of the cave-men, and their habits of life. He then traced the slow progress of improvement in sanitation, showing that the condition of our own ancestors in the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, from a sanitary point of view, was not very much in advance of primitive man. As a result, pestilences ravaged the earth from time to time. In this connection the lecturer drew an appalling picture of the ravages of the Black Death throughout Asia and Europe in the fourteenth century. Following the course of history, allusion was made to the Great Plague of London in 1665, and it was shown that the great fire in the following year was a blessing in disguise as being the first great step in the widening and purification of London streets, as well as a wholesale destruction of existing sources of pestilence. Prior to the dawn of sanitary science all sorts of causes were assigned for the existence and spread of epidemics and the miasma, earthquakes, the direct wrath of God and so on, were suspected the intimate connection between dirt and disease. As an illustration of the triumph of modern sanitation, the lecturer referred to the ravages of cholera in Asia and to the havoc made in its first visitations, pointed triumphantly to the fact that in the epidemic of a couple of years ago three invasions of the disease into England were isolated and stamped out without allowing it to gain a foothold. The cause of the great mortality at Hamburg was explained, viz., the unpardonable carelessness of the authorities in allowing the direct source of the water supply to be contaminated by the sewage of the city. Striking examples were given of the results in the cities of different European countries of the introduction of a proper water supply and sewerage. Turning to our own city, the lecturer showed the effect of our blind-well system to be the leaving of the ground water with the poison of corrupt organic matter. This, he pointed out, was being forced to the surface from time to time, and that even if we ourselves escaped the effects we were laying up a harvest of death for those who came after us. You cannot fight with nature. Her laws are inviolable. She has her own way of transforming these deadly substances into harmless necessary conditions; but if you do not work in accordance with her laws—if you attempt to cross them—sooner or later you pay the penalty.

Taking the average effects of sanitary measures in a number of places, the result was a life saving of 4 per cent per annum. Applying this to our own population, the lecturer said it means a saving of 40 lives per annum, largely the lives of children and young persons. Can you measure the real dollar value of such a saving? We talk of the hand of God in such cases—we forget that God works through secondary causes, through great laws. Sanitary science has clearly demonstrated that the deaths arise from causes which it is in our power to remove and prevent. Should we not then rather say that these deaths are the result of the hand of man—ourselves. Are they not potential murder?

In conclusion, the lecturer made an earnest plea for the regular collection of mortuary statistics, the first step towards sanitary science, and then for a system of sewerage for our city, involving the abolition of the blind-well system.

Rev. Mr. Fullerton, in moving a vote of thanks, endorsed fully the lecturer's position, and referred to the neglect of the Legislature in providing a complete system of registration through the Island. The vote was seconded by A. McNeill, Esq., who spoke of the immense importance of the subject, and the ability displayed by the lecturer in dealing with it, and regretted that more of the citizens had not come to listen to such a vital subject.

The chairman, Mr. H. C. McDonald, M. P. P., in putting the motion, spoke of the readiness of the Government which it is supported to take any steps which are in the right direction, and somewhat encouraged the hope that he would give his individual support to some measure in the direction of registration.
