MR. AND MRS. WILLARD GREEN

Couple To Reside In Toronto Following Spring Wedding

St. John's Anglican Church, Milton, P.E.I. was the scene of an early summer wedding when, in a double ring ceremony, Rev. A. E. Piercey united in marriage Donna JoAnne only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Finlay MacLeod, Winsloe, P.E.I. and Richard Willard Green of Scarboro, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Green, Kingston, P.E.I.

The Church was decorated for the occasion with baskets of Regal Lilies and yellow and white Chrysanthemums. Vases of white mums adorned the alter, while potted plants and roses were placed elsewhere in the church.

The youthful bride was radiant as she entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the traditional Wedding March played by Miss Gail Carter, guest organist. Miss Carter accompanied Miss Dianne Rodd a cousin of the bride as she sang "The Lord's Prayer before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride wore a floor length wedding gown of white organza over taffeta with imported Swiss Lace fitted bodice and sleeves tapering to points over the hands and trimmed with Oppolescents and pearl. A large triple bow complimented her gown.

She wore a Pearlized rose crown and shoulder length veil of tulle illusion, and carried a cascade of red roses. Her only jewellery was a small dropped pearl necklace and matching earrings.

Miss Shirley Stockman, a close friend of the bride was maid of honour. She wore a street length coral nylon and organza sheath with a full overskirt of nylon and net. Her headdress, mitts, and shoes were matched. She carried a nosegay of white, centered with coral carnations.

Miss Gweneyth Wyand and Miss Elizabeth Trainor as bridesmaids wore nile green dresses and accessories identical to that of the maid of honor and they carried nosegays of white, centered with nile green carnations.

Arnold Green, brother of the groom, was best man, while Keith MacLeod, brother of the bride, and Glydon Green, brother of the groom, ushered the guests to their pews which were marked with lily of the valley and white satin bows.

The bride's mother chose for her daughters wedding a pink brocaded lace over taffeta sheath, pink flowered hat and white accessories.

The groom's mother chose a navy and white three piece ensemble, navy and white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The brides grandmothers and grandfather. Mrs. Flora MacLeod and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Holroyd were in attendance.

For the reception at the Queen Hotel the head table was centered with a three tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lighted tapers and cut flowers adorned the tables.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. A. E. Piercey and fittingly responded to by the groom. Keith MacLeod read telegrams of congratulations and best wishes.

Miss Doreen Roberts, cousin of the bride was in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception the couple left on a short trip through the maritimes. For going away the bride donned a blue ensemble of a flowered nylon and organza covered sheath with three-quarter duster, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following three weeks vacation on the Island Mr. and Mrs. Green will reside at 56 Eccleston Drive, Toronto, Ontario where the bride is employed with Legal and General Insurance in Toronto and the groom is a mail clerk with the Postal Services in Toronto.

Among those entertaining for the bride prior to her wedding were Mrs. John Bedo and Mrs. Alton Green of Scarboro, and Mrs. Harry Cook, Parkview Drive, Charlottetown.

A community shower was held in Winsloe Station Hall.

HAPPENINGS

The CGIT Stardusters had charge of the service in Margate United Church on Sunday, June 3.

With Mrs. Reg Dennis as leader for the service, Molly Van Mayhew read the scripture and Valerie Woodside led in prayer.

Two choir numbers, "Lord of Light", and "God who touched Earth with Beauty", were sung by the CGIT girls with Mrs. Edwin Johnson as organist. Two graduates, Doris Woodside and Sharon Baker were introduced by the leader, and each girl delivered a valedictory address.

Mrs. Heath Mayhew, president of UCW, addressed a few words of encouragement to the graduates.

Molly Van Mayhew, president of the Stardusters, presented the graduation gifts to the girls.

This production will have a cast of some 200 P. E. I. people under the direction of a producer from New York City.

The proceeds from this production will be used to further the work of I.O.D.E. within the Province such as: education, assistance to retarded children, cerebral palsey, maintainance of libraries in schools, hospitals, Montgomery Hall, prizes to local schools, assistance to hospitals, annual flower show and CNIB and other worthy causes.

The production will be known as "The Red Glove Revue" of 1963," and promises to be an outstanding performance for old and young, featuring local talent with a flair of Broadway, fast, colorful, entertaining.

MARY HAWORTH

Mate's Weird Behavior Has His Wife Desperate

Dear Mary Haworth: Our 26 years' marriage has always been stormy. I have loved my husband dearly and tried desperately to make a go of things. We have three fine teenage children; no problems with them.

For the past five years my husband has abused me verbally, using obscene metaphors. More recently he is doing most of the housework, taking it away from me, trying to be woman as well as man, it seems. He is tinting his graying hair and bidding flirtatiously for men's notice. I had thought at first it was other women. I am afraid I am married to a homosexual.

I have found a part - time job outside the home to occupy my mind, but I am home at the right times so the children aren't neglected.

My husband won't accompany me anywhere except to church. He tells me often that I mean nothing to him, that he can do better. When I talked with a mediator, trying to learn what's wrong with us, my husband said I was "crazy," that I'm not normal.

Can I help him in any way? What should I read? Where should I turn? How will all this affect the children? Treatment for him is out; he won't hear of it.

I've become silent. I let him have his way and say in everything. We communicate only about the children and household maintenance. I find that by not giving him any love, understanding or attention, all his abuse has stopped. But what a way to live! I feel cheated, deceived, thoroughly exploited.

I am a perfectly normal woman, wanting to be needed, loved and respected, and I can't stand this situation much longer. Is there any possible way of helping my husband and keeping the home together? P. S.: I've barely touched on our story. It would take pages to tell it all.

K.P.

Dear K. P.: You write from the environs of a great city where all manner of first - class specialist help is available to the needy — without cost to those who can't afford to pay.

For example, legal counsel and representation, psychiatric counselling, family relations counselling and pastoral counselling are included in the many social services at your disposal. It is a case of "Ask and you shall receive; seek and you shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you."

In your letter, here condensed, you say you don't know whether to appeal to a doctor, a priest or a woman for guidance and that you sometimes think that only a woman can help another woman.

Since you don't know where to begin or with whom, may I make the following suggestion?

Try the Family Service Bureau of the Salvation Army Social Welfare Department in your city.

The Salvation Army is notably efficient and up-to-date in its social work methodology and also inexhaustibly courteous and kind in helping applicants of whatever race, color or creed find personally acceptable Christian solutions to the problems that weigh upon them. M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail, or personal interview. Write her in care of The Guardian.

PARIS (AP)—Police reported the arrest Monday of two persons suspected of plotting an attack against President de Gaulle on his trip this week to western France. Police said the two, believed to be members of the subversive Secret Army Organization, (OAS) were rounded up as security officers were making their investigation in advance of de Gaulle's trip.

Martha Sisters Speaker's Topic

The June monthly meeting of the Montague Parish Council was held in the parish hall with members and guests in attendance.

The president, Mrs. George Boudreault, opened the meeting with prayer followed by the reading and approval of the minutes of the last meeting. The financial statement was given followed by a report from the various committees.

Church Committees were appointed by the Council for the coming summer months. A donation of money was voted to the Regional High School to be used as prize money for eligible students.

Further business included arrangements for a pantry and rummage sale to be held on June 22. Members of the committee include Mrs. Dave Clarkson, Mrs. George McKeeman and Mrs. James Cain.

Following the meeting, Mrs. George Boudreault introduced Sister Mary Peter, the guest speaker for the night. Sister Mary Peter spoke on the life of the Sisters of St. Martha illustrating her remarks with a film.

Following the guest speakers remarks, refreshments were served by the members.

"DEDICATED TO HOME IMPROVEMENT"

ELLEN'S DIARY

Beautiful The Landscape Lies In Its June-Shades

Along the countryside, the farms commence now to fall into an orderly patter of green and red—green of hay and feathery grainland, and pasture. Island-red of the other sown and planted crops... In a view from the air, we think, how beautiful the landscape must lie in its June-shades and blossoms, with the houses framed more and less by the new of the leaves.

"We're thinking of getting a different seeding of grain than our own to sow on that next field" James offered at breakfast... A bit grayish the day was then, and so still the birdsong was impressive in the silence. And bright the "Cheer up, cheer up!" was, of the robins in the branches about. We must, it came to mind, as we poured James his second cup of tea, transplant, In this ideal weather for it, some rooted slips of geraniums to the lawn- border. There is no flower more cheerful through the summer than the bright of a scarlet geranium. And, as we have found it, nothing better for a windowbox bringing as a planting of these will, gay splashes of color against the window panes.

"Maybe you will get some seed from a shore-farm to be a good change on this inland place?" we queried.

'We just might" James said.

So it was from one washed by the tides — grown there perhaps in the shorefield!—the grain came that was presentyl sowed on a field. On this farm we saw a bank richly dotted with the white of wild strawberry blossoms. And enjoyed, at close hand, the subtle fragrance of the white violets that scented a dell.

Hanging low, today's clouds were, quite down to the hilltops.

"No blue" Jamie eldest grandson remarked, scanning the overhead, anxious to get on with the farming.

"Not so much as would make a sailor a pair of pants" James sighed.

"It's quite a change from the sunny days we've been having" a visiting farmer said. "Perhaps there has been a recent change in the moon."

"No" James twinkled "The first nights of this quarter were so lovely I found I had a longing to go back to the horse and buggy days!

"Younger?" the visitor chuckled.

"Younger" James smiled.

The children from the house across the lane attended a 4-H meeting this evening, there to "learn to do by doing" so many things that will prove helpful to them when they leave their childhood behind. Among other fine items: how to conduct a meeting, how to sum up and express their views on a subject, to sharpen wits in a debate, or a contest. The girls may learn, by way of 4-H, the fine points of sewing and all that goes with it, the ways of marketings and foods, and share with the boys in learning how to garden, or be co-members of some beef, or swine, or dairy club.

"But this time of year gets so busy— there are so many interests, I sometimes wish there were two of me" Mack commented with a wistful chuckle this evening.

Up the creek to the west, and along the stream in other areas, and in woodlands about, the wild cherry trees have put on their spring - glory. At the other farm, the old orchard will be coming into bloom.

Tonight there is not one star set in June's tiara—nor a faint glimmer of break where the Lady Moon should be. Nevertheless it was, all in all, a pleasant day, we now count away.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.....
