Of Special Interest to our Farmers

Importance of Good Seed.

There are good grounds for the belief that a large majority of farmers are not sufficiently careful in the cleaning and selection of their seed grain and clover and grass seeds. The result of experiments at some of the Government experiment Stations in Canada have shown that an increased yield of from four to six bushels per acre has been reaped from selected, hand-picked seed over that from seed from the same bin cleaned in the ordinary way by running it once through a fanning mill. While hand-picking of seed on a large scale is not practicable, these experiments serve a good purpose in emphasizing the importance of greater care in the cleaning of seed grain by the use of good mills with proper screens, for it but one or two bushels per acre can in this way be added to the yield, it will many times pay for the added labor, besides the probable increase in the price for the resulting crops which will follow on account of the improved sample. Let each farmer figure for himself what the gain to him would be if by careful cleaning of his seed grain the year's crop on his farm were increased by one bushel per acre, and it is safe to say he will be impressed with a new sense of the importance of this subject. Multiply this result by the millions of acres of grain annually cultivated in Canada, and it is easily seen that the increase would mean millions of dollars more to the farmers of this country. A series of letters of enquiry sent out by this office last year to leading grain-growers, asking their opinion as to the relative importance of selection and of frequent changing of seed, elicited the response in a majority of cases that selection was of decidedly greater importance, though most of them advised occasional changes of seed from one locality to another, not necessarily a change of variety, for if a variety is doing well in a district, a change to another and untried variety should only be made on a small scale until it has proved itself well adapted to soil and circumstances. It would seem hardly necessary to utter a word of warning against the purchase or exchange of seed from a farm on which noxious weeds prevail as such a course may lead to endless trouble and annoyance. A few seeds of wild mustard or wild oats introduced in this way may worry a man for years. Probably in no class of seeds are those of noxious weeds more frequently introduced than in clover and grass seeds. In these they are not so easily detected, and it is all the more important that care should be observed to deal only with reliable seedsmen, and that careful inspection be made of all seeds purchased so as to be satisfied, as far as it is possible, that pure seed only is sown. There are many small weed seeds which are difficult to distinguish with the naked eye, and for this reason clover and grass seed should always be examined under a magnifying glass and, if possible, it is well to ascertain where the seed has been grown and to be assured that it has come from a farm that is known to be free from noxious weeds. It is poor economy to purchase low priced seed if one is not sure it is of good quality and clean. A few cents per bushel often represents the difference in price between first and second class seed, but if the low priced seed be impure or inferior it may mean many dollars of difference to the purchaser in the character of the crop. It is well, in this matter, to take time by the forelock and make an early selection of clover and grass seeds before the stock has been culled, and to prepare the seed grain for the spring sowing during the winter weeks while there is ample time to do it well, and not leave it till the rush of spring work is on and the temptation comes to hurry and to slight the work. Do well what you do, and leave not for a future day what can be better done today. We would also emphasize the great importance of purchasing good selected root and garden seed, and advise farmers never to buy seed simply because it is low priced, expecting to get a good article. Really good seed cannot be bought cheap by the wholesale dealers, and retailers do not sell below cost.—Farmer's Advocate.

Mr. Cole Discovers the Power of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Windsor, Feb. 20.—The following statement, which Mr. F. H. Cole of this place requests us to publish, is worthy of attention from every victim of Rheumatism in Canada.

Mr. Cole's experience fully warrants him in making this statement.

"Words cannot describe how I suffered from Rheumatism and Kidney Complaint. I tried every cure that was recommended but got no benefit until I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"Thank God I did use Dodd's Kidney Pills, for they cured me—made me sound and well, in every joint and limb."

Those who suffer the agonies of Rheumatism or Lumbago need do so no longer. Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure them.
